LORIMER'S FALL EPOCH-MAKING.

His Defeat by John J. Feely Will Render Chicago Campaign of 1900 Memorable.

REBUKE TO DICTATORSHIP

Predicted That Graeme Stewart, C. G. Dawes, C. S. Deneen, and John M. Smyth May Be Leaders.

FIRST NAMED FOR MAYOR.

WINNER BUT 25 YEARS OLD.

In Chicago and Cook County the campaign of 1900 will be memorable as marking the defeat—some call it the "passing"—of William Lorimer, Congressman from the Second District, often called the "boss of the Tenth Ward." Last night Mr. Lorimer admitted that he was beaten, and his more determined friends, informed of the tremendous plurality against him, gave up their threats of a contest in the House to unseat his successful opponent, John J. Feely. The man who has thus humiliated the erstwhile boss is 25 years old and an "unknown."

Mr. Lorimer's defeat is interpreted by men who know as a rebuke administered by Republican voters of the district to his dictatorship and to the coterie of men who are charged with trying to force his reëlection.

"It was simply a Democratic vote in a district normally Democratic," is the explanation advanced by the Congressman and his followers. His defeat, however, will bring a shifting in the political geography of Chicago and Cook County, and even Illinois, which scarcely any other event could have produced. It is predicted that these results will follow:

John R. Tanner's influence will be set aside.

Shelby M. Cullom will be named as his own successor in the United States Senate.

Graeme Stewart, now Republican National committeeman for Illinois; Charles G. Dawes, Charles S. Deneen, and John M. Smyth will be looked on by the rank and file of the Republican party in Cook County as the leaders.

Want Stewart for Mayor.

Based in part on the result in the county was the action of many Republican leaders yesterday in setting under way an active demand for Graeme Stewart as the party's candidate for Mayor next spring.

Lorimer's friends contend that his defeat does not mean his "passing." They admit that they were so confident of his return to the House the outcome is a heavy blow, but, they add, he will be out "for but one term." Others even whispered during the day that they would make him Mayor, "get him in line for the Senate," or see that he got "anything that he wanted." They offered no basis for these assertions except Lorimer's own power, and refused to allow their names to be connected publicly with these statements.

Other West Side leaders, also averse to having their names made public, traced in the Second District landslide the effect of action begun last spring, during the fight for Gubernatorial nomination, when Congressman Lorimer's plans were so vigorously opposed that they suffered defeat. They point out that his strongest opposition in this election came from Republican strongholds. They throw aside the assertions that religious issues aided his opponent and insist that the vote was nothing more than a determined protest against "bossism." Act after act of his political life, especially his coalition with Tanner, is held to have contributed toward bringing this rebuke.

Much Patronage Lost.

"Aside from his losing the Second District," said one West Side Republican, "will come a heavy shrinkage in Lorimer's patronage. There are probably 250 Lorimer men in the Tenth Ward now in the employ of the West Park system. This patronage, which Lorimer secured through his alliance with Tanner, will be swept out by the Governor-elect, who has determined that park systems shall not be made the adjunct of a political machine. This park patronage, combined with the 'easy' coal contract, was of more value to the Tenth Ward leader than all the actual positions offered by the control of the county government."

Along with the revolt against Lorimer's dictatorial tactics, opposition had developed to the men with whom he had surrounded himself and whom he had commissioned to handle his lines for him. A protest against this "strong-arm" control was registered at a meeting of the Tenth Ward club a year ago. It was sounded all over the county when the Second District Congressman was accused of seeking to dictate the Republican nomination for Governor.

"Give the people a chance" was the cry which was raised by the men who opposed his plans, believing that every citizen should have the right to register his choice in this question without coercion by a party leader. It was this rising against the so-called "Lorimer machine" which made a winning fight in the State convention. Its echo came at the polls in the Second District on Tuesday.

Rise Sudden as His Fall.

Mr. Lorimer's rise in the world of politics has something of the meteoric. His defeat had the semblance of the falling of the stick of a rocket, for though his district was normally Democratic his pluralities which gave him two terms in Congress were such that his followers held that there could be no other result than his reëlection. Added to the opposition because of his czar-like tactics was the displeasure of the small farmers and dairymen of the country towns in his district at his course in Congress, notably his position on butterine legislation.

His methods of today were those which marked his start in politics years ago, determined his plans for complete control of the party organization, and gave him his power in the Illinois political field. Men who have followed him assert that this desire to appear as the dictator has been the

CORONER BERZ BEATEN.

Democrats Elect All Their Drainage Trustees, Lloyd J. Smith Being Defeated.

BOUTELL WINS IN THE SIXTH

President McKinley carried Cook County at Tuesday's election by 17,835 votes. At the same time Samuel Alschuler, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Illinois, secured a plurality in the county of 5,064 over Richard Yates.

For county offices Charles S. Deneen, the Republican candidate for State's Attorney, was elected by a plurality of 25,649, and Fred W. Upham was chosen as member of the County Board of Review by 24,253. On the other hand, George Berz, the party nominee for Coroner, was beaten by J. E. Traeger by a small majority.

Hanberg Beats Organ.

For the County board the Republicans elected seven of the ten members from the city and these with five Republican members from the country districts constitute a majority of the board. John J. Hanberg, Republican candidate for President of the board, was elected, however, above the vote of his opponent, R. B. Organ. Mr. Organ, however, will be a member of the new board with 6,000 votes to spare.

Recorder Simon had 1,584 votes to spare, and Charles S. Cutting was chosen as Probate Judge by 16,639 plurality.

Lloyd Smith Beaten.

In the contest for Drainage Trustees the Democrats won the battle and elected all five of their candidates, including Alexander J. Jones, whom the Democratic local machine had ordered slaughtered. The Democrats had designated Lloyd J. Smith as the beneficiary of the votes supposed to be under its control. This, however, failed to run Smith to the top of the Republican poll as was expected, and he fell 7,913 behind the next highest man on his ticket. The figures were:

Smyth, Dem.	302,191	Carter, Rep.	288,153
Wenter, Dem.	296,453	Braden, Rep.	285,556
Jones, Dem.	296,445	Cloidt, Rep.	285,138
Legner, Dem.	289,485	Smith, Rep.	276,955

The result is the Democrats again have control of the Drainage board, but as Alexander Jones has broken away from his party it is not expected it will be organized on a partisan basis.

Boutell Wins in the Sixth.

The feature of yesterday's inquiry into the votes cast on Tuesday was the discovery that Congressman Boutell had been reëlected in the Sixth District in spite of the fact that Bryan had carried his bailiwick by something over 800 votes. In the absence of definite information regarding the vote cast for Congressmen it was taken for granted that the party which had carried a Congressional district for its Presidential candidate had elected the Congressman also. This proved true not only of Congressman Lorimer's district but of all the others in Chicago except the Sixth. Here, however, Congressman Boutell ran ahead of President McKinley, and not only overcame the Bryan plurality of 874 but rolled up one of 599 for himself.

Republican Judges Re-elected.

All the Republican candidates for Superior Court Judges were elected. The total vote for Republican and Democratic candidates follows:

REPUBLICANS.		DEMOCRATS.
Gary	198,367	Cowen	176,217
Sears	198,783	King	174,422
Ball	197,673	Tolman	176,117

Lose One in General Assembly.

In the legislative districts the Republicans lost a member of the Lower House of the General Assembly from Cook County in a district, the Twenty-third, which has always been relied on to return two, and thereby gave the Democrats a majority of one in the delegation from Cook County. This was the result of the friends of Erickson in the Twenty-third plumping so strongly for him that they gave him many more votes than he needed for election, and Kelly and Sullivan, the Democratic candidates, running evenly, both slipped in ahead of Larry Kilcourse, the other Republican on the ticket.

The only office the figures for which have not been returned is that of County Surveyor. It is taken as a matter of course that the Republican candidate has been elected, but no one except himself and perhaps his Democratic competitor has taken interest enough in the matter to make any inquiries.

Makeup of County Board.

The new County board is a mixed affair, composed of seven Republicans and three Democrats from the city district and five Republicans from the country. The vote in the city district was so close that for some time it was a question who secured the more votes, and in the struggle some of the Democrats emerged victors. The makeup of the board is as follows:

President—John J. Hanberg.

Members City District—John J. Hanberg, Rep.; Herman Ahrens, Rep.; William G. Herrmann, Rep.; Edwin K. Walker, Rep.; Frank J. Palt, Rep.; Charles E. Erby, Rep.; Maurice Rosenfeld, Rep.; Rollin B. Organ, Dem.; James Daley, Dem.; Jacob B. Thielen, Dem.

Country District—Henry J. Beer, Rep.; Joseph Corolan, Rep.; William Busse, Rep.; Peter M. Hoffman, Rep.; Alfred Van Steenberg, Rep.

The candidates for President of the board were John J. Hanberg and Rollin B. Organ, Hanberg winning in the entire county by 6,000 plurality.

Vote in the City District.

REPUBLICANS.
Hanberg	172,266	Herrmann	172,770
Happell	169,699	Walker	175,132
Ahrens	170,535	Palt	172,495

Vote in the Country.

DEMOCRATS SEEK LEADER

CONSIDER BRYAN POLITICALLY IMPOSSIBLE IN 1904.

Prominent Men Believe the Party Must Abandon Silver and Other Populist Issues and Reorganize Along Lines Used Before Chicago Convention—David B. Hill Prominently Mentioned as Man Who Can Reunite All Factions.

Leaders of the Democracy throughout the country express belief that the second battle should be the last; that Bryan has proved a bad experiment; that the party must turn about face, abandon free silver and anti-imperialism as issues, and seek a new leader.

These views were expressed yesterday by many of the editors of Democratic newspapers and prominent politicians in response to a request from THE TRIBUNE for their ideas on the signal defeat of the Democracy on Tuesday, and the most effective means of rehabilitating the Democratic party.

Some use names—and the majority of those who do suggest David B. Hill as the most available Moses to lead the Democrats out of the political wilderness. Many agree that the next candidate must come either from Illinois or New York.

There are no unkind cuts at Bryan. Most of the leaders presuppose that no effort will be made to renominate the Nebraskan. They praise him for his desperate work for the party, but consider him politically impossible in the future.

WATTERSON SAYS SILVER IS DEAD.

HENRY WATTERSON, Louisville, Ky., editor of the Courier-Journal: "With the elimination of the money issue there ought to be no further factional division among the Democrats. If free silver was not dead before, assuredly it is dead now beyond the hope of resurrection and redemption, having done harm enough to discard it forever, even among its most zealous adherents.

"There will continue to be two great opposing political organizations. Defeated today, the Democrats may win tomorrow. They will find issues arising out of the nature of public affairs and evolved by the course of events. Leaders suited to these will in good time and season arrive upon the scene.

"It is too early to particularize—suffice it to say that there will always be a party of strict construction as against a party of loose construction, and that, readjusted to the more conservative requirements of the country, the Democratic party will reappear as the contending force in the public life of the people. This is not its first or its greatest defeat. It will live to give the Republicans a great deal of trouble, and, it may be, to render invaluable service to the interests that now reject it."

LOOKS TO GROVER CLEVELAND.

P. F. McCLURE, Pierre, S. D., former Democratic candidate for Governor: "Cleveland would be the best man to lead the reorganization of Democracy, but I fear his decided currency views would keep back a large following. I think it will need an Eastern man who has a record as an old-time party leader. The task will be a difficult one, as so many of the Democrats have been led to Populistic ideas by Bryan, and the old party is practically eliminated in many Western States."

SAYS BRYAN IS STILL YOUNG.

S. E. MORSS, Indianapolis, Ind., ex-Consul General to Paris, editor of the Democratic party organ—I don't know that Mr. Bryan's friends will ask that he be renominated four years from now, and I doubt if they will. While Mr. Bryan may not be a candidate in 1904, he is still a young man, and may be elected President before he dies. I think God will raise up a leader for the Democratic party between now and the next election.

MENTIONS GORMAN AND HILL.

J. C. SIMMS, San Francisco, Cal., chairman of the Democratic State committee—I have given the matter no thought. There are many good Democratic leaders. Some like Gorman, and Hill is a strong man, but until the present chaotic condition clears it is no use to say anything."

HOKE SMITH WANTS SOUND MONEY

HOKE SMITH, Atlanta, Ga., Cleveland's Secretary of the Interior—I think it unwise for Democrats to undertake this early to suggest who should be their candidate in 1904. I can only say he should be a loyal Democrat, thoroughly in favor of sound money—a man of recognized ability, and yet free from factional opposition. We must redeem New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut, and we must carry all the Southern States and carry Indiana. With the right candidate, on a sound, conservative platform, Illinois, Wisconsin, California, and Washington should also all go Democratic.

MUST OPPOSE CHICAGO PLATFORM

FRANK H. RICHARDSON, Atlanta, Ga., editor of the Journal—The question as to whom the Democratic party will choose as its leader four years hence, or should choose, is premature. I think it is safe to predict that the Democratic candidate for President in 1904 will be some man who represents the previous policy of the party rather than one who stands for the radical departure which the party made in 1896 in the adoption of the Chicago platform and the selection of Mr. Bryan as its candidate.

WANTS AN EASTERN MAN.

JOHN Q. BOWLER, Pierre, S. D., chairman of the Democratic wing of the fusion ticket: "I feel that if the East will not have Bryan as the vote in the last two campaigns indicates some Eastern man will have to be called upon for reorganization."

NEBRASKAN STILL IN FIGHT.

EMMITT G. LOGAN, Louisville, Ky., of the Evening Times: "The last of Bryan? Not on your life. He has been a candidate for the Presidency only a little over four years. Henry Clay was first nominated for President in 1831 and he was practically a candidate until his death in 1852. Seward was a candidate from 1840 to 1860. Webster from 1840 until his death in 1852. Blaine during half of his life: Scott, Douglas, Greeley, Sherman, and a score of other men more famous than many of our Presidents time and again sought the glittering prize, and went to their graves, all of them, disappointed, several of them embittered. We have not heard the last of or from Mr. Bryan."

ILLINOIS OR NEW YORK MAN.

CLARK HOWELL, Atlanta, Ga., member of the National Democratic committee and editor of the Constitution: "Mr. Bryan will no doubt now become an active worker in the Democratic ranks, and his wonderful capabilities as a campaigner may be directed with better results to the election of some one else four years from now than they have been effectual in his own behalf. The next Presidential nominee of the party probably will come from New York or Illinois, but all depends on developments in the meantime."

MISSOURI MEN AGAINST BRYAN.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER INCLUDED IN CONSERVATIVES' DEFEAT.

Veteran Statesman Suffers First Reverse in Forty Years—Laurier's Policy Given Full Indorsement and Big Majority of His Partisans Elected to New Parliament—Anti-Imperialists Fail to Realize Expectations—Premier Gains in Nova Scotia.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The triumph of the Liberal party and the defeat of Sir Charles Tupper were the two notable features of the parliamentary elections throughout Canada today. Sir Charles Tupper, the recognized leader of the opposition, has had an unbroken political career extending over forty years, and today encountered his first defeat. His failure to be reelected is the one surprise of the election.

The Province of Quebec appears to be standing by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Mr. Bergeron, one of the French Conservative leaders, is defeated by Mr. Loye.

In St. John's, N. B., the Hon. A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways, defeated G. E. Foster, late Minister of Finance.

The return of the Liberal government to power is assured, 158 constituencies out of 213 having been heard from. Of these the Liberals have carried 100 and the Conservatives 58.

Sir Charles Tupper's lieutenant, the Hon. G. E. Foster, who was running in St. John City, N. B., was defeated by the Hon. A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals, by over 1,000 majority.

Opposition Leaders Defeated.

The Hon. Hugh John MacDonald, and the prominent leader in the opposition, was defeated in Brandon, Manitoba, by the Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, by over 200 majority.

At 12 midnight the vote by provinces stood as follows:

Province.	Lib.	Con.	Ind.
Ontario	35	50	3
Quebec	53	7	1
New Brunswick	9	5	..
Prince Edward's Island	4	1	..
Manitoba	2	2	2
Northwest Territories	1	1	..
British Columbia	1	2	..
Totals	120	73	7

The House of Commons is composed of 213 members, so that there are yet thirteen outlying constituencies to hear from.

Omitting the Independents, the government, as the figures stand at present, has a majority of 47, and when all the constituencies have been heard from this majority will be still further recruited.

Newfoundland Elections Today.

St. Johns, N. F., Nov. 7.—The Newfoundland general election will be held tomorrow. Day by day the campaign has increased in bitterness. Many extraordinary phases have been developed, showing how strenuously the fight is being waged by Mr. Reid, the contractor, in whose interest the Tories are working, that he may be enabled to transfer his extremely valuable franchises, affecting the whole country, to a limited liability company.

Mr. Reid controls the railway lines and the Liberals have been unable to obtain special trains to convey to their homes from other districts voters in St. Johns. They have been obliged to charter a sealing steamer, the Diana, and are dispatching 400 men tonight. Mr. Reid is carrying train loads of voters for the Tory party.

The election virtually amounts to a contest for the mastery of the Colonial Legislature. Morine, who is Mr. Reid's general counsel, is leading the Tories and a number of Reid employés are among the Tory candidates.

FATALLY BURNED BY EXPLOSION

Charles Korton, 17 years old, died at the County Hospital last night from burns received yesterday while testing a gasoline stove in the store of N. M. Simonds, 49 Market street. Korton was touching a lighted match to the burner of a stove when the gasoline in the supply tank ignited. An explosion followed, covering the youth with blazing oil. He ran out of the store and threw himself in the gutter, which was filled with mud and water, but could not extinguish the flames before fatal injuries had been inflicted. Korton lived at 1369 Seventy-second place.

NEVER VICTORY MORE DECISIVE.

McKinley and Roosevelt Sweep the Country, Securing a Phenomenal Electoral Vote.

HAVE MAJORITY OF 163.

LOSS SHOWN IN ILLINOIS.

Kentucky and Nebraska Believed Safe for the President, Although the Bryan Followers Still Claim Both.

MANY STATES DESERT POPULISM.

McKinley and Roosevelt's sweep of the country has been phenomenal. The electoral majority of four years ago has been far surpassed, and the great Republican victory on the Presidential ticket has been supplemented by an entirely unexpected landslide towards the Republicans in the Congressional districts.

The results of the election are beyond all dispute. It is only a question of bookkeeping now and of the determination of various side issues of a more or less local character. Kentucky and Nebraska are still claimed by both parties, but the weight of evidence inclines in each case toward the Republicans.

Electoral Vote to Be 305.

Including those two States in the Republican column, McKinley and Roosevelt have 305 electoral votes, while Bryan and Stevenson are given only 142. This means the election of the Republican candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency by the enormous majority in the Electoral College of 163. When it is remembered that in 1896 the electoral majority for McKinley and Hobart was only 95 it is easy to realize the emphatic manner in which the country has indorsed the fidelity and integrity of the McKinley administration and repudiated the repudiationists who sought to dishonor the country both at home and abroad.

Redeem States from Populism.

The Republicans at this election have completely redeemed the States of Kansas, Washington, South Dakota, Wyoming, and even Utah. Nevada, Montana, and Colorado are now the only Northern States left for Bryanism to contemplate. Four years ago Mr. Bryan's own State of Nebraska was a bulwark of rampant Populism. The Republican managers now claim it by from 5,000 to 7,000 majority, while the Democrats do not hope to save it by a greater margin that 1,000 votes.

In contrast to this, it should be noted that President McKinley's own State of Ohio, in spite of some factional differences which the Democrats hoped would help them, has indorsed McKinley by a majority about 25,000 greater than that of four years ago. Since Grant defeated Greeley there has been no such overwhelming expression of the popular point of view as was given on Tuesday.

Not only is President McKinley given the great compliment of an overwhelming indorsement by his fellow-citizens but they express their sentiments in an even more tangible way by electing to the lower House of Congress an overwhelming majority of Republican members.

Majority in House Is Forty-seven.

The returns up to 3 a. m. indicate that the popular branch of Congress will be made up of 202 Republicans, 147 Democrats, and eight independent. This is a majority over all of forty-seven for the Republicans. The extent of this Congressional landslide in behalf of the administration may be judged from the fact that two years ago at the conclusion of a successful war the Republican majority in the House was only fifteen.

The important States of Maryland, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, and California are now represented by solid Republican delegations in the House of Representatives. In 1898, as compared with the election two years before, the Republicans lost ground in the East most noticeably. They have made up all that and more. The election on Tuesday developed changes sufficient to show a gain of six members from Pennsylvania, five from New York, two each from Ohio and Maryland, and single seats from California, Utah, Nebraska, West Virginia, and Kentucky. The result in the latter State of course, like that on the electoral vote, is still in doubt. The returns all indicate that the Republicans have carried the State for McKinley and Yerkes, but the desperate Democrats are attempting to steal this State by the methods they worked so successfully two years ago.

Two Seats Lost in Illinois.

In the general movement toward Republican success in Congress Illinois has been strangely remiss. The State shows a positive loss of two Republican seats. Congressman Lorimer in Chicago and Rodenberg at East St. Louis failed of election, so that the State shows a reduction of two in its Republican Congressional strength. Owing to factional differences at St. Louis there is a Republican loss of one seat from Missouri, but these two States are the only exceptions to the uniform Republican success.

Gain in Senate Important.

Before the election it was generally assumed that there would be a large reduction in the Republican strength in the United States Senate. Besides the thirty seats made vacant according to the operation of law there were several vacancies to be filled. From present indications the Republicans have gained in the State Legislatures almost more notably than in the Congressional districts. Of course the most satisfactory outcome is the Republican sweep of South Dakota. This disposes of the pestiferous Pettigrew, who was elected as a Republican six years ago and who went to the St. Louis convention as a delegates from his State after he had taken a solemn pledge before his State convention to support McKinley. He broke his word of honor, bolted the St. Louis convention, and has been a bitter opponent of Republicanism ever since. His downfall is apparently complete and a Republican will take his place in the Senate at Washington.

Scarcely less important is the capture of the Nebraska Legislature by the Republicans. Two years ago they elected a Senator from that State, but he died and the Populist Governor appointed ex-Senator Allen to fill the place. Allen is one of the most disagreeable men who ever sat in the Senate, and his colleagues all hoped he would be beaten out at this election. Besides that, Senator Thurston's term had expired, and thus the Legislature elected on Tuesday in Nebraska has the great responsibility of choosing two United States Senators. As Mr. Bryan's defeat was discounted long ago it was generally understood that he would be given one of the two seats in the United States Senate and Allen the other. The Senate is already troubled with men who talk too much, and the upper House of Congress is to be congratulated upon having escaped the introduction of two such gas machines as Bryan and Allen. The present indications are that the Republicans will have a clear majority on joint ballot in Nebraska, although, as in duty bound, the fusionists out there are claiming the State and the Legislature by a narrow majority.

The Illinois Legislature will be safely Republican on joint ballot, the majority now in sight being no less than twenty-eight, thus insuring either the reëlection of Senator Cullom or the choosing of some other good Republican.

The indicated partisan strength of the United States Senate for the next two years shows fifty-four Republicans, twenty-seven Democrats, and nine independents. This is a Republican majority over all of eighteen.

There is no doubt of the great Republican victory in Illinois. McKinley carries this States by at least 100,000, and Judge Yates has been chosen Governor by a margin of 70,000 votes.

While there are likely to be a few changes, it is possible to forecast the personality of the next Congress with a fidelity quite unusual the day after a general Presidential election. The lists presented below of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Fifty-seventh Congress represent the results up to 1 o'clock this morning. A summary of the roll call of Congress will be found in the following table:

MAY OVERTHROW CROKER AS BOSS.

Tammany Discontented with Poor Showing Made by Leader in New York.

HE BLAMES IT ON SILVER.

ROOSEVELT ON THE RESULT.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The feeling is growing stronger, not only among Democrats outside of Tammany Hall, but even within that organization, that now is the accepted time to overthrow the boss and form a new Democratic organization in this city, or at least thoroughly renovate the present one.

Croker's disastrous failure as a State leader, and his poor showing for Democracy in Greater New York, are responsible for this opposition, which amounts now almost to outright anger. It was understood all through the campaign that Croker had in view one object—to make a good showing in New York County, so that he would be in a position after the election to assert that his organization was as powerful as ever, and that the Democrats had indorsed his conduct of the campaign. The small majority for Bryan and Stanchfield in this county makes any assertion of this kind ridiculous, and Croker is today a discredited leader in both the city and the State.

Some Tammany men talk bitterly about their chief, and say that unless there is a reorganization Tammany will be driven from power next year. That there is a widespread discontent within the organization has been apparent for a long time.

It has been openly expressed in only a few instances, because nearly all the leaders hold city offices, and their jobs depend on Croker's favor. As the Mayoralty campaign approaches, however, the men who depend upon politics for a living may do something to prevent a repetition of this campaign. If Tammany does not win next year they will be compelled to go to work.

The day after election indubitably finds thousands of Tammany men, as well as hundreds of thousands of Democrats in the State and out of it, bitterly incensed against Richard Croker. It is not too much to say that he is held by the humiliated Democracy of New York directly responsible for the loss of the State, and that outside of it he is believed to have cost the Democracy candidate the electoral votes of several close States. It is recognized, however, that Mr. Croken can bear indignation outside of Tammany Hall with equanimity; that it is only disaffection within its pale that can disturb his serenity.

Those of his present or former assistants who hate him most candidly express doubt, despite this opportune moment of condemnation, dissatisfaction, and ill success, whether a revolt will take place within Tammany Hall. They look rather to the forming of an anti-Tammany party by Democrats who have been affiliated with the wigwam. The trend once established, they believe that the exodus will rise quickly to a wholesale migration, leaving Croker forsaken and solitary.

The Democrats of Kings County are among the most disappointed and they are ripe for revolt against Croker. Many district leaders called at Willoughby street and requested that connections with Croker be cut off. They declared that he was responsible for the heavy vote against Bryan in the State.

Former Lieutenant Governor William F. Sheahan, it is said, will appear at the head of a Democratic anti-Tammany organization in this city within a few days and will have the moral and financial support of the Whitney-Fairchild-Cleveland gold Democracy and the allegience of all the men in Tammany today who long have been in secret rebellion against Croker.

Ashbel P. Fitch, ex-Controller, said: "Any movement looking toward the overthrow of the present organization would have my hearty support. I think it is not only possible to put the Tammany organization out of power but that it will be done."

Another prominent Democrat, who was a leader of the party under Cleveland, said: "I voted for Bryan and by that indorsed Croker in this city, but, along with many other Democrats who prefer to remain Democrats through periods of distress, I did it 'holding my nose.' No one would be more pleased to see a practical working opposition to Croker's machine set up than I."

Croker Blames Silver.

Croker said today at the Democratic club that the result of the election was a great disappointment to him.

"I sincerely believed," he said, "that Bryan would be elected. The election is over and he has been defeated. There is no use now denying the fact that 16 to 1 had a good deal to do with the big vote against Bryan in this State. What the causes were for his defeat in the West cannot be explained by me.

"The money scare frightened many in New York. Still, I think the Democrats of Greater New York did well under the circumstances. The regular organization in this county gave Mr. Bryan nearly 50,000 more votes than he got in 1896. McKinley polled 3,000 less votes in the county than he did four years ago.

"Kings County did well, too. Republicans were confident of having 20,000 plurality over there.

"I do not regard the decision of the country as adverse to Mr. Bryan as a candidate. It was against the principles he was accused of representing. He is a magnificent and representative American and Democrat."

"It is so far ahead and so many things may develop before the Mayoralty campaign of next year that I cannot see how the present election can affect that contest.

"I expect to go to Europe as soon as all this fuss is over. It may be several weeks before I leave for the other side.

"The Republicans have not buried me politically. They have been trying to bury me for a long time. If I am to be buried politically Democrats will have to do the burying. The Republicans are not big enough or powerful enough for that job. We Democrats don't get discouraged by defeats. We have been defeated before and are used to it. When we are put down we don't stay down long. We jump up and are ready to fight the Republicans again. We fight for great principles, and that's why our party survives defeats."

Bryan Thanks Croker.

This telegraphic message was received last night by Richard Croker from William J. Bryan:

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 7.—Your telegram received. New York City has done well. I am deeply grateful to you for the interest you have taken and for the excellent work you have done.

W. J. BRYAN.

Roosevelt Talks of Result.

Governor Roosevelt, although he did not retire until after midnight, was up early today at his home in Oyster Bay. After breakfast he looked over his mail and dispatches of congratulation received from prominent persons in different parts of the country.

The Governor made this statement, commenting on the Republican victory:

"I rejoice beyond measure over the way the vote has gone. President McKinley had to face the most serious and complicated problems that have been faced by any President since Lincoln or by any President a generation before Lincoln. I do not see how there could have been any material improvement in the way he has faced and solved each of them. It, therefore, seems to me a perfectly fair test of the way our people are willing to back up a man who has done such difficult and all-important work for the nation.

"Again, it should be a matter of the deepest gratification at the way those Democrats stood by sound money. They, having joined hands with their Republican brethren, share the credit for a victory which represents far more than any partisan victory. In this contest for true Americanism the men who believe in it have stood together without regard to locality or place of birth, without regard to creed or race origin, without regard to occupation or anything else excepting the needs of Americanship, in a way that is a splendid omen for the future and that starts the nation well on the threshold of a new century."

The Governor said he expected to remain at his home in Oyster Bay for a couple of days, when he would go to Albany to resume his official duties there.

The approach of the Mayoralty contest makes the question of a movement to overthrow Tammany peculiarly pertinent. Although it is understood generally that the Republicans have selected Seth Low, the Citizens' union standard-bearer in the Mayoralty campaign of 1897, as the Republican candidate for Mayor next year, the Citizens' union has not yet pledged itself to any individual.

Lieutenant Governor Woodruff declared today that the Tammany power over the police will soon be broken, for, with a Republican majority in the Legislature the State constabulary bill would be passed at the next session.

Start War on Vice.

To add to all Tammany's woe the war on vice on the East Side was started again with vigor today.

Bishop Potter sounded the charge in an interview. He was quoted as saying:

"I have not yet recovered from my delight at the result of the election. Of course, I rejoice at the national victory, but my interest centers principally in the vote of the city. When a meager majority of 30,000 votes is all that the Democrats can wring from Greater New York, the task that we have set before us is far easier of accomplishment than we had anticipated.

"The attack on flagrant East Side immorality has not flagged. We have progressed thoroughly and conscientiously through the preliminary stages. That the work has been done well, the people of New York will realize when we are ready to speak.

"The attack has begun. We have no thought of turning back."

Dr. Paddock of the Pro-Cathedral, who has most active charge of the crusade, said:

"Beginning this morning instructions are being sent to every religious or moral organization in New York which has expressed an interest in our attack on East Side vice, requiring them to stand in readiness for action and practical support and coöperation."

Expect Boom in Business.

The latest figures on the State give McKinley a plurality of 145,332, and Odell, for Governor, 110,856. Bryan carried Greater New York by the small plurality of 27,621. The Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican. The decisive victory of McKinley in the State and nation, while, of course, causing great jubilation among Republicans and corresponding gloom among Democrats, is having other and more substantial results.

Representatives of railroad, mercantile, manufacturing, and other great interests who were interviewed expressed the belief that a great boom would result from the reëlection of McKinley. The decisive nature of the defeat administered to Bryan was mentioned by nearly all of them as a reason for anticipating a commercial revival of vast proportions.

Former Mayor Abram S. Hewitt, a leader of the gold Democrats in 1896 and this year, expressed keen delight over the second defeat of the principle of free silver represented by Mr. Bryan. He said:

"This ought to settle the money question. Of course, it may not, for I thought it was settled in 1896, but we had to meet the same issue this year. At any rate, the vote shows that nearly every State in the union is in favor of honest money. It can be said that throughout the country, wherever the vote represents the opinion of the people on Mr. Bryan's theories, the verdict was against him.

"Everything points to a general revival of commercial activity. This will be a further lesson to those who are not yet convinced of the falsity of Mr. Bryan's doctrines."

John D. Crimmins, the contractor and financier, is another gold Democrat who found much satisfaction in the defeat of Bryan. "As long as I live," he said, "I never expect to see the issue of debased currency raised again in this country.

"I have seen plenty of evidence today that a boom is coming as the result of the knockout blow administered to Bryanism. I have heard from the men interested in several important railway extensions, which were planned some time ago, but delayed because of fear that the election might go the other way. Work on them is to begin at once."

Samuel R. Callaway, President of the New York Central railway, spoke for the transportation interests of the country. He smiled broadly when asked the meaning of the election returns. "They mean," he said, "that we are to have four years more of loaded freight cars and crowded passenger trains. The railroad business could not well be better than it is at this moment, and now that Bryan is beaten the future is safe."

Brokers and investors all agree that the real estate market should now show increasing activity.

Dinner ot Odell.

A dinner was given to Governor-elect Odell at the Republican club tonight, at which were many prominent Republicans. Besides the general happiness over the result there was much talk how to down Tammany. Mr. Odell in a speech said:

"Here in the City of New York we have certain reforms to put through. We have just seen what certain abuses, partisanship, and prejudice can do. Whatever is necessary to remedy this will be done."

In his introductory speech Senator Depew said: "I went through the civil war and did not think of personal peril, but in every place I spoke in this State I was conscious of great personal danger because of the strife stirred up by Bryan."

Cornelius N. Bliss said: "It is the duty of all good citizens to get together for the next campaign. Unless the Governor had taken action by his letter to the Mayor the other day about the action of the police at the polls I believe serious trouble would have come."

It is the general opinion that George W. Dunn of Binghamton will succeed Mr. Odell as chairman of the State committee. Luther Little, who has had charge of the literary work of the State committee for several years, will be Governor Odell's secretary. Colonel Youngs, whom he will succeed, probably will go with Governor Roosevelt to Washington when the latter enters upon his duties as Vice President.

Close to $600,000 will change hands in the Wall street section tomorrow as a result of McKinley's victory, and throughout the entire city it is estimated that fully $1,500,000, representing big and little bets, will be paid over.

The biggest individual winner is Louis Wormser of the Stock Exchange. His winnings will aggregate close to $125,000. Had Bryan been elected he would have lost nearly $500,000. The heaviest individual loser is said to be Richard Croker. He is credited with having dropped $40,000.

Manley Claims More Congressmen.

Senator Hanna will be in the city on Friday and there will be a conference of the National committee, when the affairs of the campaign will be settled. It is expected that the headquarters will be closed on Saturday. They were opened on July 29 and the campaign has been the longest ever waged by the Republican National committee in this city.

J. H. Manley, vice chairman of the Republican National committee, said tonight that McKinley would have 305 electoral votes; that he has carried every Northern State with the exception of Montana, Nevada, and Colorado; and that he has carried four Southern States, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware, and West Virginia. Mr. Manley said there would be twenty-five additional Republican members of Congress to the present number and six additional Senators, with a loss of one in Colorado, making a net gain of five.

LOOKS LIKE FUSION IN IDAHO.

Nez Perce and Latah Counties, Republican Strongholds Two Years Ago, Indicate Losses in Legislature.

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 7.—The latest returns indicate that Nez Perce County is close and that the fusionists have part or all of the legislative delegation. The county was strongly Republican in 1898 and was relied on this year.

Latah County, also strongly Republican heretofore, is close, and the Republicans do not know whether they will have four of the legislative delegation or the entire six. It seems probable that the Legislature will be fusion.

BRYAN SEEKS NO SEAT IN SENATE.

Defeated Candidate Declares He Will Refuse Toga if Offered Him.

TALKS OF LOST BATTLE.

Nebraskan Says He Was Sincere in Believing a Victory Over Opponent Sure.

SILENT ON FUTURE PLANS.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Although he still halts at giving out a formal statement of defeat, William J. Bryan today admitted in another manner that he fully realizes the situation in which he stands. He called State Committeeman James C. Dahlman, who is a close personal friend, to his house and gave him this instruction:

"If you hear any of my friends talking about putting me into the United States Senate, in case we carry the Legislature, you may say officially that under no circumstances would I accept the office, even were it tendered me. I made my fight for the Presidency and I lost. I am not going to take other men's positions from them."

While it could not be discovered that any violent desire to place the toga on the shoulders of the former Presidential candidate was being nursed by the Democratic State leaders, the report that Bryan would be one of the two next Senators from Nebraska certainly did circulate around fusion headquarters early in the day. It appeared whenever it seemed likely that the Legislature would go fusion and dropped out of sight whenever reports of Republican gains were received.

Mr. Bryan's definite denial was brought in only a short time before the moment when the managers of the State campaign decided they were safe in claiming the Legislature by a majority of twelve votes on joint ballot. At the same time they asserted Bryan's electors would pull through by 3,000 or 4,000 votes. The latter claim was vigorously contested by the Republican managers, who said the State was safely in the McKinley column.

If the Legislature is controlled by the fusionists it will be a warranty for the election of Senator Allen and probably Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Omaha. The latter's place was the one which report credited to Mr. Bryan. Both the Senatorial seats will have to be filled this winter.

Mr. Bryan's reticence today was confined to matters of form. In conversation he calmly, if not freely, referred to the battle he had made and its result.

In one of these instants of comment he said he was sincere in believing in victory until the last. "I knew," he said, "that I was making a fight against great forces and great odds, but the reports of gains everywhere seemed to be so real that I thought we would win."

He based his desire for delay in issuing a statement upon the fact of the scantiness of detailed returns.

"I wish to look over complete returns and to analyze them. I am surprised at the absence of conclusive returns at this hour on the day after election from important States. I have heard scarcely anything from Indiana, Kentucky, or Ohio. I do not know any more about definite results this afternoon than I did last night."

Mr. Bryan spent the day quietly, riding out to his farm in the afternoon and returning at 4 o'clock to receive the farewell calls of the correspondents who have been his constant companions for three months.

What plans Mr. Bryan may have for the future no one knows. If he is firm in his refusal of the Senatorial nomination it would appear that he is out of active politics. He was asked if he intended again to turn literary man and write another book, but he laughed and said he was making no statements.

The scene in his library this afternoon was one of a serenity which seemed far from politics. Mr. Bryan sat in an easy chair turning over the pages of a book. Mrs. Bryan sat across the table from him, listening to his occasional words. The sun slanted in from a western window and let its rays fall upon books and table and the occupants of the room. If defeat was there, so also seemed peace.

PETTIGREW HAS A NEW PARTY.

South Dakota Senator Foresees New Aggregation Made Up of All Discontented Elements.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 7.—"I predict the formation of a new party, based on the protests of the outraged people against Republicanism as taught by Hanna," declared United States Senator R. F. Pettigrew today. "I saw how it was going and went home. For weeks I have told the National committee we were defeated in South Dakota, but it has kept claiming the State, and I have been working for political effect. No, I was not disappointed. Defeat is the more welcome to me as it has come than victory would have been if it came by indorsing the sort of policy which the Republican party represents.

"Yes, of course, I will be in the new party. What it will be called is of little moment. It may be 'Social Labor' or it may be the New Democracy. It will be made up of persons discontented with the elements in politics, as a protest against the existing conditions and the present tendency of things. The movement will grow rapidly and I believe will defeat the Republican party in 1904.

"The Mark Hanna Republicanism menaces the republic. The concentration of wealth will create an influence soon to restrict the right of suffrage until capitalists will say no one is fit to take part in the government who does not know enough to make money.

"There will likely occur a divorcement of the Democratic and Populist parties, but the new party will be the popular one. I cannot say whether Mr. Bryan will affiliate with it or not."

PORTO RICO REPUBLICANS WIN.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 7.—It is estimated that 75,000 Republicans voted at the election yesterday for a commissioner to Congress and members of the House of Delegates. Not more than 200 Federals voted. The election was exceedingly orderly. There are no reports of disturbances. Communication with the interior is slow.

"The outcome in Porto Rico is a guarantee of the island's future. To have the election pass off as quietly and orderly as in any State of the North, conducted by the people without hindrance or without a soldier or an armed force of any sort, and to have nearly 60,000 men march to the polls to deposit their first ballots for self-government in such a manner, are good reasons for congratulation not only to the people of the island but to the painstaking members of the administration, who had worked diligently and patiently to this end.

"This overwhelming Republican victory also means legislation for the good of the island in line with the American administration. It means stable government and the protection of property, interests with which prospective investors in Porto Rico are deeply concerned. It means education, public works, and all the beneficent works which follow legislation wisely and conscienciously undertaken. It is an emphatic declaration of unqualified loyalty to the United States."

The newly elected Legislature will probably meet on Dec. 3.

LORIMER'S FALL EPOCH-MAKING.

Predicted That Stewart, Dawes, Deneen, and John M. Smyth May Be Leaders.

cause which lost him the district. This desire always to be the man at the helm is held to have been well shown at the time of the organization of the Republican Marching Legions, when Lorimer took the post of Major General. This created some dissension in the ranks of the organization, members holding that he should have been content with his place as chairman of the County Central committee.

Efforts to Become a Boss.

His efforts to become a "boss" run through forty years. Coming from England in 1861, when but a slip of a boy, he worked his way from selling newspapers, shining shoes, through positions at the Stock-Yards, and as conductor on the lines of the old West Division street railway to control in the old Sixth Ward. It was in the kitchen of his mother's home at 29 Twenty-first street, then Lisle street, that he organized his first political club with a membership of thirteen young men of that neighborhood. This was in 1884, and the club was named the Young Men's Republican Club of the Sixth Ward. They set out to get one of their number on the Central committee, and by dint of hard work got delegates to the city and town conventions. In the fall of 1885 Lorimer's clan sent their delegation to the county convention, and William Lorimer was made a county central committeeman.

First Office in 1886.

In the spring 1886 he captured his first political office, being elected constable in the West Town by 127 votes. He carried the Sixth Ward for John A. Roche for Mayor in 1887, and got the job of assistant superintendent of the water pipe extension department. He lost the nomination for County Clerk by three votes in 1890, was given the superintendency of the Water department by Mayor Washburne in 1891, and was defeated for Clerk of the Superior Court in the Republican landslide of 1892. He led a desperate fight for the delegates to the Minneapolis convention of that year when a fight in that locality—the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, and Ninth Wards—meant a physical as well as mental struggle. He, with a friend, represented this district, and supported Mr. Blaine as against Benjamin Harrison. In 1894 he got his first nomination for Congress, having removed to the Tenth Ward two years before. He received a plurality of 4,000 votes in a district normally Democratic. In 1896 he won again by a margin of 6,700 votes, and in 1898 defeated C. Porter Johnson by 3,900 majority. His effort to capture the Senatorial nomination when Martin B. Madden's candidacy failed was prevented by the country members, who aided in selecting William E. Mason.

Plans to Assume Control.

In 1893 Mr. Lorimer started on the course which he had planned to lead him to full control. He invited John M. Smyth, J. H. Gilbert, Chris Mamer, Henry Wulff, T. N. Jamieson, Henry L. Hertz, D. H. Kochersperger, M. B. Madden, and others to a conference to "talk politics." This was his stepping-stone to control of his first county convention, that of 1894, when Mr. Kochersperger was nominated for County Treasurer. Hertz and Lorimer were credited with having made a combination in 1887. The fall of the old so-called Swift-Davis-Roche "machine" brought him new followers. In 1898 he took up Ernest Magerstadt. Then he evolved a plan by which control of the various divisions of the city was to be centered by T. N. Jamieson taking control of the South Side, himself of the West Side, and John M. Smyth of the North Side. The last named withdrew from this plan.

About this time the first storm of opposition struck Congressman Lorimer. He had supported the Allen bill, and, on going to Springfield when this measure was under consideration, was accused of actively trying to force its passage. Through the efforts of Henry L. Hertz and other leaders, who opposed him, he was compelled to make a defense of his course in the succeeding county convention. He has continued to insist that the bill was all right.

Fight in Primaries.

The State convention this year was preceded by a fight at the primaries in Cook County which was waged on the issue that Lorimer's dictation should be checked. The convention at Peoria was organized by the men who opposed him, and Charles G. Dawes was made temporary chairman. The Second District returns are said to mark the climax which has been approaching.

Lorimer's chief lieutenant has been James L. Monaghan. He has made use of the whip methods of his chief, and, at the regular ward club meeting last year, the protest of Tenth Ward Republicans became so vigorous that Mr. Lorimer was forced to hurry to the meeting and explain that Mr. Monaghan had acted as he had directed, and that he, Lorimer, must assume responsibility for his course. Mr. Monaghan managed the Congressman's fourth campaign.

Warden Graham of the County Hospital was another of Lorimer's proteges who aroused opposition. Several ministers in the district took an active hand against the Congressman because of Graham's much criticised methods at the county institution. Graham's public career is likely to come to a sudden end.

Feely's Rapid Rise.

As to John J. Feely, who has won a name in his party as the man who "defeated Lorimer," his has been a skyrocket career. But 25 years of age—just within the constitutional age limit—he has been a resident of the district but three years. Six months ago he was unknown even in his own party. Born in Wilmington, Ill., on Aug. 1, 1875, his parents died when he was a child, and he started to earn his way through life by working on a farm. He engaged in the milk business with a brother in Joliet, saved some money, and entered Niagara College at Niagara, N. Y. Later he became a student at the Yale law school, graduating in 1897 and coming to Chicago to practice. He was chairman of the Democratic Campaign committee of the Thirtieth Ward in 1899, and this year received the Congressional nomination.

"Though compelled to fight both machines—for Governor Tanner directed the West Park board—the results are not beyond my anticipations," he said. "We had watchers at every precinct to insure a fair count."

"It was simply a Democratic vote in a Democratic district," is the statement of Chairman Jamieson of the Republican Executive committee and Congressman Lorimer. Beyond this the latter offers no explanation.

"Fathers Kelly, Flannigan, and Dorney aided Feely, and religious lines figured in the campaign," Lorimer's lieutenants assert.

"Religion did not enter the fight," is the answer made by other leaders in the district. "Fathers Kelly and Flannigan did not oppose Mr. Lorimer. It was simply a protest against 'boss rule.'"

Two Mayoralty Booms Fall.

With the defeat of Lorimer it is evident that the Mayoralty boom of W. J. Moxley, the butterine manufacturer, will be laid away. Lorimer has been charged with defending butterine bills in Congress and Mr. Moxley presented him with horses and carriages.

VOTE ON UNIVERSITY TRUSTEES.

Dr. Julia Holmes Smith Leads Democratic Ticket and Defeats Her Republican Woman Opponent.

In the vote for trustees of the State University in Cook County Mrs. Julia Holmes Smith, the woman candidate on the Democratic ticket, not only ran well ahead of her male companions on the ticket but, while the other Republican candidates beat the Democratic ones, she received more votes than did Mrs. Carrie Alexander, the woman candidate on the opposition ticket.

NAIL CAUSES FIRE IN MILL.

American Cereal Plant, Sixteenth and Dearborn Streets, Threatened with Destruction.

The plant of the American Cereal company, Sixteenth and Dearborn streets, narrowly escaped destruction by fire last night. The fire was caused by a loosened nail in the hopper of one of the grinding machines. The nail dropped between the heavy burrs of the machine, and a spark of fire followed which instantaneously ignited the dry chaff in the elevator.

The flames shot to the top of the elevator shaft, and it seemed as though the factory was doomed. A fire alarm, closely followed by a 4-11, brought a score of engines to the building. One stream was sufficient to extinguish the flames. There was no damage from the fire, but the loss caused by water is put at $500.

Chief Swenie of the Fire department yesterday received a check for $250 from Robert A. Gordon, assistant treasurer of the American Cereal company. The work of the firemen at the fire in the company's plant at Sixteenth and Dearborn streets on Oct. 16 is praised. The money is for the pension fund of the department.

FIGHT OVER LABOR QUESTION.

Argument on Election Day Ends in Serious Injury to R. J. Patterson—W. E. Swartout Arrested.

R. J. Patterson, who is prominent in labor circles, and W. E. Swartout, employed at the Grand Crossing tack factory, Seventy-ninth street and South Chicago avenue, became involved in a quarrel during the lunch hour on election day, as a result of which Patterson is at his home, 20 North Sheldon street, in a serious condition. Patterson and Swartout started the discussion over politics, and eventually reached the labor unions, when Swartout struck Patterson, who fell heavily against a boiler door. He was picked up unconscious and taken to his home, where he revived after twelve hours. Swartout was arrested, and is being held at the Grand Crossing Police Station. Patterson will recover.

WANT A MAN FOR MAYOR.

REPUBLICANS FIGURE ON CANDIDATE TO OPPOSE HARRISON.

Movement Started to Nominate Graeme Stewart, Who Led Fight Against Lorimer Dictation—Moxley's Boom Buried with Congressman's Defeat—John Maynard Harlan, Frank T. Fowler, and Others Suggested—Tacit Understanding in Democratic Camp.

Republican leaders have begun figuring on a Mayoralty candidate to face Mayor Harrison and his third-term aspirations next spring. With the fall of Congressman Lorimer there is a determination evident to accept none of his suggestions as to candidates. Yesterday a movement crystallized demanding that Graeme Stewart, now National Republican committeeman for Illinois and one of the men who led the fight against Lorimer-Tanner dictation in the State convention, allow his name to be used as a candidate. Leaders in various sections of the city insisted that he must consent to make the race. His popularity and business ability, they point out, would bring him the greatest following of the so-called independent vote ever given to any candidate.

Moxley's Boom Buried.

Lorimer's defeat buried the Mayoralty boom for W. J. Moxley, the butterine man, which was started some months ago by the Congressman's clan, but frosted later by a statement that Lorimer was looking with favor on Judge Hanecy. Mr. Moxley some time ago consented to take up his residence in the Eleventh Ward and to act as the big chief of this district under Lorimer's direction. He presented the Congressman some time ago with a pair of horses and a carriage, while the latter is charged by voters of his district with having looked with favor on butterine bills introduced in Congress and calculated not to be disadvantageous to the butterine manufacturer.

Judge Elbridge Hanecy, as stated, has been mentioned as a probable candidate. He has given no expression of his attitude, however. William Boldenweck, President of the Sanitary board, has been suggested by North-Siders.

Rumor has had it that T. N. Jamieson recently held a conference with John Maynard Harlan and sought to ascertain his attitude toward the Mayoralty proposition. When Mr. Harlan made the race on the independent ticket in 1897 he polled 69,730 votes. Judge Sears, the Republican nominee, received 59,542, while Mayor Harrison secured 148,880.

Another name mentioned is that of Frank T. Fowler, through whose efforts many paving frauds have been unearthed and a saving of thousands of dollars to property-owners effected. Irregularities in the Board of Local Improvements and in other branches of the municipal government have been corrected by him through charges preferred before the Civil Service commission.

No Doubt Among Democrats.

In the Democratic camp there is no doubt as to who the party's candidate will be, it already having been tacitly agreed that Mayor Harrison shall make the race for a third term. Every effort is to be made by Robert E. Burke and the County Democratic machine to hold the present administration in power for the sake of the patronage. Had the State returned a Democratic General Assembly this plan might have been set aside for a fight for the United States Senatorship on the part of the Mayor.

Active preparations for the Mayoralty battle are now under way, the Democratic leaders having determined to get their fences up early.

"DR." EMORSON HOLDS UP J. W. NEWBURN AND TAKES HIS JEWELRY.

Robbery Takes Place in Plymouth Place and the Thief Says He Committed the Crime Because He Was Desperate—Declares His Home Is in Detroit.

"Dr." Edward Emorson of Detroit, Mich., is locked up at the Central Police Station charged with holding up J. W. Newburn Jr., 2101 Washington boulevard, and robbing him of a watch and chain, a diamond ring, and a diamond shirt stud, valued at $150. Emorson was arrested by Detective Sergeants O'Connell and Howe of the Central Station on Tuesday evening after a chase of over a block. The plunder was found in Emorson's possession.

Newburn had been down-town to watch the stereopticon returns of the election and was walking south in Plymouth place, between Jackson and Van Buren streets, when he was attacked by Emorson and overpowered. A desperate struggle took place on the pavement before the robber succeeded in overcoming his victim. Newburn was forced to the sidewalk and commanded to surrender his valuables.

When Emorson had secured the jewelry he abandoned the prostrate man and started toward Harrison street on a rapid run. Cries of "thieves, robbers," brought hundreds of pedestrians from neighboring streets to the scene, and an exciting pursuit was commenced. Detective Sergeants O'Connell and Howe were detailed on special election duty in the vicinity and heard the outcry of Newburn. They joined in the chase, and at Harrison street and Plymouth place O'Connell succeeded in overtaking the fugitive.

The prisoner said he committed the robbery because he was desperate. He said he had come to Chicago from Detroit ten days ago and was living at 348 State street. A dispatch from Detroit says Emorson is not known there.

GAMBLING GOING ON AS USUAL IN RESORTS OF THE LEVEE DISTRICT.

Orders to Close Up Expected, but Not Received, and All Kinds of Games Are in Progress—Opportunity Believed to Be Only Temporary.

Gambling was in full blast on the South Side last night. Reports had circulated that all games of chance would be prohibited in that section after election day, and many of the gamblers who for several weeks have been reaping a harvest opened up for business more cautiously than usual.

No warning to close was sent out by the police, however, and within an hour after night had fallen the places opened as boldly as ever. Along State and Clark streets in the "levee" district poker, craps, and other games were as numerous as ever.

An order to close the places is expected by the gamblers at any time now that the campaign is closed.

FLEES DOWN A FIRE ESCAPE.

Frank Wynne Has Narrow Escape in Early Morning Blaze in King Block.

Frank Wynne, who occupies a room on the top floor of the King Block, Washington and Dearborn streets, was compelled to seek safety by climbing down the fire escape at 1 o'clock this morning.

Fire had started in an adjoining hallway from crossed electric wires, it is thought, and, gaining headway between the partitions, filled the upper floors with smoke. Wynne was aroused from his sleep by the shouts of the firemen, and, finding his way down the stairway blocked by a dense amount of smoke, he crept out to the fire escape and reached the ground in safety.

The blaze gave the department an hour's fight and the woodwork around the stairway was torn off by the firemen. The loss will not amount to over $1,000. The lower floors were occupied by offices, which were not damaged.

BOUTELL WINS IN THE SIXTH.

Congressman Is Re-elected by the Safe Majority of 599 Over Emil Hoechster.

VICTORY IS DECISIVE.

SORROW OF HIS FRIENDS.

Instead of two, as they claimed yesterday morning, the Democrats gain only one Congressman in Cook County districts. H. S. Boutell, Republican, of the Sixth was reelected by the clear and safe majority of 599 votes over Emil Hoechster, the Democratic candidate.

The early impression that he, as well as Congressman Lorimer, had been hopelessly snowed under was due to the political complexion of precincts first heard from. These returns carried practically all of the strongest Democratic localities in the district, and only a portion of the big Republican precincts. Long before noon yesterday Senator Fred A. Busse, chairman of Mr. Boutell's campaign committee, announced that the Congressman had not been defeated, but, on the other hand, had won another decisive victory.

So long as the undisputed report that a Democrat had been chosen by the Sixth District voters to succeed such an able and valuable Representative as Mr. Boutell confronted them Republicans tried to content themselves with the explanation that the district is largely Democratic, and that no Republican candidate could be expected always to carry it.

Rejoice Over Victory.

Therefore, when the good news that Mr. Boutell had duplicated his former record and was safe they rejoiced. During the day when his friends gathered the results in half a dozen Republican precincts, missing from the published returns, they not only wiped out the lead in Hoechster's favor but kept on piling up Boutell votes until they obtained the foregoing final result.

Congressman Lorimer met a different fate in the Second District. He could not overcome the heavy majorities against him in the Tenth, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, and Thirty-fifth Wards with his lead in the country towns.

Complete returns put his defeat at 1,500 votes less than the number cast in favor of his Democratic rival. While Mr. Lorimer admitted that he felt disappointed, the defeat did not affect him to any such extent as it did his chief supporters and friends. They could not discuss the matter without shedding tears. Following are the returns by wards:

DEMOCRAT TRUNDLES A BARROW

Evanston People Find Amusement in J. S. Richardson and S. A. Syles' Election Bet.

Residents of Davis street in Evanston were afforded considerable amusement last evening by the sight of a man being given a ride in a wheelbarrow by a companion. The two men were J. S. Richardson, 1422 Greenwood street, and S. A. Syles, 1773 Darrow avenue. Richardson is a Democrat, and made an agreement with Syles that if McKinley was elected he would give him a ride in a wheelbarrow throughout the length of Davis street. Last night Richardson paid his bet. Starting at Ashland avenue, he wheeled Syles down Davis street to Chicago avenue, where, after a short rest, he started back. The men were watched by a large crowd of people.

NEW DEMOCRACY NOW IS PLANNED

Leaders Discussing Movement to Place the Party Back on Its Old Platform.

WILL DEPOSE BRYANITES.

All Elements and Fallacies Contributing to Defeat Tuesday to Be Eliminated.

MANIFESTO TO COME SOON.

Plans are being discussed and a general movement inaugurated by leading Democrats to perfect an entire reorganization of their party. The scheme, it is said, extends to every State, county, and precinct throughout the nation. Locally the Iroquois club expects to play a prominent part, but, according to its most active members, their efforts by no means will be confined either to Cook County or the State of Illinois.

The intention is to eliminate every coöperating interest taken by the people now having control and put the old party back on the platform of principles where it stood before becoming Bryanized. The conditions which brought about fusion with Populists, Socialists, so-called 16 to 1 Republicans, and other elements will be torn from all records and destroyed.

It is proposed to retire every individual regarded as a leader in the present conglomerate organization and put him in the background.

Hopkins Is a Factor.

Ex-Mayor John P. Hopkins, it is claimed, will be an important and prominent factor in the new movement. He may take the lead in a crusade against the Harrison-Burke machine of Cook County and also of the State. It is claimed, however, that Dr. Walter Watson, chairman of the State committee, and Thomas Gahan, National Committeeman for Illinois, as well as chairman of the County committee, are in sympathy with the proposition. The principal movers insist that they are not quite ready to be quoted, but will be ready in the near future.

Probably an address will be prepared and made public within a few weeks. In the meantime a conference, to include representatives from every State, may be held. If it is, the most prominent Democrats of the country will be invited.

Want Time for Thought.

Several prominent Democrats declined to express their opinion of the future of the party without time for sober thought. Franklin MacVeagh said he would speak of the prospects of his party later. President John R. Walsh of the Chicago National Bank declined an expression at this time. President James H. Eckels and General John C. Black, who supported President McKinley, outlined the future of their party as they believed it must be. Ex-Governor John P. Altgeld and Former Judge Thomas A. Moran spoke their opinions in positive terms. Ex-Judge Moran opposed Mr. Bryan in 1896, but supported him this year because of his opposition to the administration's Philippine policy.

James K. Jones, late chairman of the Democratic National committee, declined to say what he expected the Democratic party to do in the future, contenting himself with the expression "the returns tell the tale, and I do not care to discuss the future."

Question of the Future.

The expressions given below were in response to a query regarding the party's future—what would be necessary to make it possible to achieve success, and if reorganization would be required to make it a factor in national politics.

The position taken by Mayor Carter H. Harrison in the Kansas City convention in opposing the plank declaring specifically for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 was taken as an indication that he was satisfied with prevailing conditions governing the currency of the country and willing to follow Senator Hanna's advice to "let well enough alone." The Mayor is not disposed to discuss the future movements of his party at present, contenting himself with a statement that plenty of time remained for the outlining of future policies. The other replies were:

Bryan or Nobody.

Ex-Governor John P. Altgeld said: "No. The second defeat of Bryan will not result in the complete reorganization of the Democratic party. Bryan is 2,000,000 votes stronger than any other man in the party, and if we cannot elect him we cannot elect anybody. The result simply shows that money can control the American elections. Issues have nothing to do with it. If we had declared for the gold standard the defeat would have been worse, for we would have lost what we had, and would not have gained anything, because the corrupt syndicates wanted a tool and not a man in the White House, and they would have corrupted the elections just the same to elect McKinley. We do not want to win if we must sell or mortgage the Democratic party to Eastern speculators for money-making purposes, as was done both times when we elected Cleveland.

"If the government must be run on corrupt Hamiltonian principles, we want the Republican party to do it. The Democratic party must stand for the toiling masses or else have no mission. Today the party stands for justice, and the seven or more million men who supported Bryan are satisfied with it. They are not asking for reorganization. The men who are talking about reorganization are the hypocrites and the corporation creatures who supported McKinley when they found they would not be permitted to prostitute the Democratic party. Their proper place is in the Republican party.

"Justice must triumph in the end, and the Democracy will win if it is only true to great principles, and will be spit upon if it again allies itself with the corruptionists who run the syndicates."

Eckels Opposes Fusion.

James H. Eckels said: "Fortunately for the country Mr. Bryan has been retired permanently, and today the Democratic party has a future. Yesterday under his leadership it had none. It will assume a position of importance and be a power for good in the country's affairs, as those who control its management make manifest a purpose to cut completely away from populism and the kindred parties which, undemocratic in their principles, are only capable of making the conservative elements of the country distrust Democracy.

"I think the lesson has now been well learned by those who have adhered to fusion, that fusion which exchanges conservative business-men for radical impracticables is not profitable as a political venture. There is room in this country for two strong party organizations, as there is need for two. Heretofore Democracy has not been distrusted by the country's business elements. On the other hand, it has drawn many of them to its support. This it must do again, and it will do so by standing to real Democratic principles on finance, and adhering to the things that the business world commends as safe and proper."

Silver Issue Caused Defeat.

Thomas A. Moran said: "The Democratic party in the future, as in the past, will stand in favor of the maintenance of the constitution and the basic principles of the republic.

"In the campaign just ended the Democratic party took its stand in favor of the constitution and the principles of the Declaration of Independence, and in opposition to the imperial policy of the administration with reference to the Philippine Islands. Upon that position the Democratic party would have unquestionably won were it not that, through the influence of Mr. Bryan and his particular followers, the ghost of the free silver issue, which issue has been a dead issue since the election of 1896, was materialized at the Kansas City convention.

"The adoption of the free silver resolution in that platform so far galvanized the free silver corpse that its eyes rolled and its limbs moved, and the Republicans were shrewd politicians enough to parade the ghost of that dead issue up and down the country for the purpose of frightening the people and blinding them to the paramount issue of the campaign.

"The Democratic party of the future will be reorganized upon principles that will exclude the financial heresy of the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, and will place the party where it has always, prior to 1896, stood, in favor of a sound currency based upon a gold standard. In my opinion the campaign just finished has shown to the Republicans that their imperialistic policy is indefensible, and there are hundreds of thousands of Republicans who voted for McKinley because they were afraid of Bryan, who, if they had the opportunity to vote in condemnation of his Philippine policy, detached from other questions, would have done so without hesitation."

Must Cut Out Populism.

General John C. Black said: "If the Democracy will reëstablish itself upon its ancient foundations, cut out Populism in all its phases from its platform, refuse to war upon the judiciary and the courts, turn forever from financial heresies, and become again the bullion party of the United States; if it will follow the precepts and practices of Monroe, Jefferson, Polk, Jackson, and others in regard to expansion; if it will pledge itself to the eternal territorial integrity of the American union and the continued supremacy of the American nation under its old motto of 'an indivisible union of indestructible States'; if it will dismiss from leadership the men who in two national campaigns have brought it to the verge of dishonor, making it a party of repudiation, anarchy, socialism, and discontent; and if after having done all these things it shall in good faith call all Democrats together for counsel and coöperation and shall withdraw the vendetta which has been sworn against the gold Democrats—then it may hope for renewed life, honor, and success."

THIEVES OVERLOOK A PACKAGE OF MONEY IN A STOLEN BUGGY.

Drive a Newspaper Carrier's Rig Ten Days, Then Leave It in a Stable, Carrying Away Horse Weight, but Leaving Nickels Amounting to $42.

Thieves who stole the horse and buggy of Thomas Tagney, 1038 George street, three weeks ago, drove about the city for ten days, and, finally, leaving the rig in a stable at Clark and Polk streets, decamped, taking the twenty-five-pound horse weight, but overlooking a roll of paper containing $42 in five-cent pieces that lay in the bottom of the buggy. The horse weight is estimated to be worth nearly 40 cents.

The thieves did not try to sell the rig, but they were seemingly determined to get the worth of their time and trouble out of it, for they rode furiously from one end of the city to the other during the time they had possession of the horse. Every time they crossed a car track or struck a piece of bad road the package of 840 five-cent pieces rolled about on the floor of the buggy, careened against the horse weight, barked the shins of the thieves, and rattled loudly. But the thieves never even took the trouble to toss the troublesome package out on the street.

SNOW-STORM OF VOTES FOLLOWED BY GENUINE ARTICLE IN FLURRIES.

Both Downfalls Recorded at the United States Weather Bureau — Clear Skies Are Promised for Today, but Cold Air.

In a private memorandum at the Weather bureau offices in the Auditorium Tower, where some of the aspects of the weather are recorded, is the following entry, dated last night:

> On Tuesday occurred one of the greatest snow-storms that has visited the country. William J. Bryan was completely snowed under. Tonight there were snow flurries in Chicago. They were much milder.

From 5:30 until 7 o'clock last night there were occasional flurries of snow in Chicago, and for a few minutes at a time the flakes would come fast enough to form a forcible reminder of winter. On Sunday the thermometer had stood for several hours at summer heat, and it was a sudden change from the warm Indian summer weather of less than a week before.

Professor Cox promises a return of fair weather today. It will remain cold, with no further promise of snow, however. Slight snow flurries visited all the great lakes region last night, but there was no measurable fall at any point.

LECTURES ON THE BOER WAR.

P. Louter Wessels, Former Officer in Transvaal Army, Denounces Tactics of English as Unmilitary.

P. Louter Wessels, a former officer in the Boer army and a brother to one of the Boer envoys to this country, addressed an audience at Hull House last evening on the war in south Africa and the present condition of his countrymen. Mr. Wessels asserted that the Boer cause is far from hopeless, and that it is in as favorable a condition as three months ago.

After depicting the daily life and habits of the inhabitants of the countries, whose intelligence, Mr. Wessels said, compared favorably with that of the small farmers he had met in this country, and reciting the causes that had led to the war, the speaker denounced the English for what he termed the brutal and unmilitary tactics of their soldiers.

An appeal was made to his auditors to form organizations and assist the little army, the refugees, and the homeless with sympathy and financial aid. An effort will be made to secure thousands of signatures to petitions that will be presented to Congress, asking the intervention of the American nation, and to show the foreign nations that the people of this country are not in sympathy with England in the struggle. A temporary organization was formed with Miss Julia Lathrop as chairman and Dr. Cornelia N. De Bey as secretary.

MYSTERY IN OLSON SHOOTING.

Detectives Say They Think the Woman May Not Have Been Shot Accidentally.

Although Charles Olson says the shooting of Miss Alma Beck of 231 East Huron street was an accident, Detectives McCarthy and Stone of the East Chicago Avenue Station say there is a mystery in the case.

Last night the officers went to the German Hospital and questioned the woman. When asked if she would prosecute Olson, who is now being held at the station, Miss Beck said she had not thought of doing anything. The officers at once came to the conclusion that the shooting was not an accident, and when they asked the woman if she had been shot intentionally she refused to talk.

The man will be brought before Justice Kersten this morning, but Detectives Stone and McCarthy will ask for a continuance in the case, as they wish to investigate it further.

Fire Causes Panic in a Store.

The Bazaar, a dry goods and millinery store at Maxwell and Halsted streets, was the scene of some confusion at 10 o'clock yesterday morning when an alarm was given that the building was on fire. The young women clerks and the several customers in the place fled to the sidewalk, jostling and crowding one another in their haste. The fire was confined to the basement. The damage will not exceed $500.

DEMOCRATS SEEK LEADER

Prominent Men Believe the Party Must Abandon Silver and Other Populist Issues and Reorganize Along Lines Used Before Chicago Convention—David B. Hill Prominently Mentioned as Man Who Can Reunite All Factions.

Senator Vest left the State about ten days ago. He let his friends know he regarded defeat as certain and that he estimated the overwhelming repudiation of Bryan as the best thing that could happen to the Democratic party.

William J. Stone, the member of the Democratic National committee, will be one of the foremost to engage in a movement for party reorganization.

WILL MEET TO REORGANIZE.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Democratic politicians here would not discuss by name a new leader who would unite the Democratic party. They did not care to go farther than make general statements as to the future. All the local Democrats, including Richard Croker, declared it was free silver which defeated Bryan, but they did not know to whom to turn yet for succeeding campaigns.

According to a dispatch received here tonight from Detroit Don M. Dickinson is authority for the statement that within three weeks a meeting will be held here to outline a plan of reorganization for the Democratic party. He says the call for the meeting will have the signatures of Grover Cleveland, William C. Whitney, Abram S. Hewitt, and other prominent Democrats.

The meeting, Mr. Dickinson says, will be attended by Democrats of both gold and silver leanings. He expects all old matters of difference will be forgotten, and that for the sake of the party a complete reorganization will be decided upon and carried into effect.

The call for the meeting will be sent out in a few days. It will be mailed broadcast throughout the land, appealing to all Democrats, gold and silver alike, to agree on a declaration of principles on which the party can be assured of victory four years hence.

NEBRASKANS' FAITH WAVERS.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Among local Democratic leaders the idea prevails that Bryan is done for. Gilbert M. Hitchcock and R. L. Metcalf, proprietor and editor respectively of the World-Herald, Bryan's personal organ, show no eagerness in pledging their future faith to the defeated candidate. Mr. Metcalf remarked that, while his friendship with Bryan would bind him personally to the candidate's interests for all time, it was yet too early and the party leaders too thoroughly dazed, to consider what the best interests of the party demanded.

Henry W. Yates, President of the Nebraska National Bank, and one of the prominent old-line Democrats of the West, hopes to see the time when he can support, not David B. Hill, but, perhaps, Gorman, Dickinson, or Fairchild.

MISSISSIPPI DEMOCRATS GLAD.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Never before did the Democrats of Mississippi take defeat with such good grace. The businessmen of Jackson wear a don't-care expression and say they are done voting for Populists. Most of those who voted at all voted for Bryan, but seem secretly glad McKinley is elected.

COLORADO FAITHFUL TO BRYAN.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The faith of Colorado in Bryan is unshaken. The Democratic leaders favor a campaign of education to bring the masses to an appreciation of the truth, as they term it, and are convinced that there is no man available for Bryan's place. These ideas are the epitomized sentiments of W. J. Davoren, county chairman of Arapahoe County; Milton J. Smith, State Democratic chairman; W. J. Griffith, State chairman of the silver Republicans; and Thomas M. Patterson, candidate for United States Senator.

NAME HILL AND HARRISON.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Beginning with J. J. Williams, Mayor of Memphis, and Democratic leader of West Tennessee, upwards of a hundred politicians, representative men of all business callings were approached today on the question of the future leadership of the Democracy. With startling unanimity David Bennett Hill of New York was suggested as the Moses of the party. In the Democratic "post mortem" it is the general verdict if David B. Hill's name had been in the place of Bryan's the Democratic cause would have triumphed. Hill is almost universally regarded here as the future hope of the party. There are a great many who regard Carter Harrison of Chicago as one among the party's future hopes.

IOWANS SPEAK FOR HILL.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—It is the opinion of the large majority of Democrats in Des Moines that Hill is the logical choice as the man to take the leadership of the Democracy, although Carter Harrison and Horace Boies were declared by some to be proper material.

Joseph Eiboeck, editor of the leading German newspaper of the State, referred to Hill as a man of brains and wise judgment, whose advice should have been heeded by the Kansas City convention. J. J. Hartenbower, Mayor of Des Moines, was emphatically for Hill, whom he characterized as the ideal leader. He believed the party could do nothing less than make the New York man its highest representative in the next campaign.

H. M. Belvel, editor of the Democrat, regarded Horace Boies as the man upon whom the East and West could unite. E. H. Hunter said that if the question was to be decided upon the currency alone Hill would be at once a popular candidate for leader.

Fletcher Howard, State Pharmacy Commissioner, also spoke for Hill, as did many others.

Chairman Hoffman of the Democratic State Central committee denied that the Democratic party was divided, but was of the opinion that as the late election removed Bryan the party would make no mistake in turning to Hill or Harrison. Either would be acceptable upon a conservative platform.

TALK OF WHITNEY IN OHIO.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—There is a good deal of talk among Ohio Democrats of ex-Secretary Whitney being the man to unite all factions, while ex-President Cleveland is not without his friends. The general opinion, however, appears to be that time alone can furnish the leader, and that new issues will bring forth the proper man for the head of the column, but Bryanism and all its weaknesses and foibles have been banished by the leading Democrats.

MARYLAND AGAINST BRYAN.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Gorman, Governor Smith, Chairman Vandiver of the State committee, and other prominent men in the party organization favor a reorganization which would entirely eliminate the silver question and all Populistic theories from the party.

Nearly all the leaders of the regular party organization are sound money men. They worked for Bryan to keep the party organization intact in this State for the fight next year for control of the Legislature, which elects a successor to Senator Wellington, and before which Mr. Gorman or Governor Smith will be the candidate for Senator.

While Mr. Gorman was not friendly to Cleveland during his second term, it can safely be said that many of the most prominent Democrats in the city and State would favor party reorganization with such men as Don Dickinson, William C. Whitney, and Grover Cleveland as leaders.

Brings Gold from Europe.

New York, Nov. 7.—The steamer Kaiserin Maria Theresa, from Bremen, Southampton, and Cherbourg, which arrived tonight, has on board the sum of $2,704,800 in gold, which was taken on board at Southampton.

GIVES NEVADA'S VOTE TO BRYAN.

REPUBLICANS HAVE 308.

COMBS CLAIMS KENTUCKY.

Vice Chairman Payne of the Republican National committee made a slight revision yesterday of his estimate of the electoral vote for McKinley given out the night before. It consisted of a reduction of three, from 311 to 308, and came from Nevada, which was conceded to Bryan. He held stoutly to 308 in the face of Democratic claims of Kentucky and Nebraska.

About the middle of the afternoon he received a telegram from Leslie Combs, chairman of the Republican State committee of Kentucky, claiming the State positively for McKinley by 7,000. About the same time advices came from Nebraska declaring the State to be safe for McKinley and a Republican Legislature. A later dispatch, however, indicated the Legislature probably was lost. Numerous telegrams from other sources went to swell the former estimates of the Republican majorities in the Western and middle Western States.

Talks with President McKinley.

Shortly before noon Mr. Payne had a long talk with President McKinley over the long distance telephone. In referring to the matter Mr. Payne said the President expressed himself especially pleased with the result in the Western States, saying he regarded it as a most unqualified indorsement of the policy of his administration.

R. C. Kerens of the National Executive committee was exercised over the slowness of the returns from St. Louis and did not hesitate to say he regarded it as part of a deliberate scheme to count out the Republican majority there in order to offset the heavy and unexpected Republican gains in the interior of the State.

Few at Headquarters.

The headquarters yesterday looked deserted as compared with the night before, but there were many callers who came to offer congratulations on the successful conclusion of the committee's work, or to ask for news from some of the doubtful States. With the exception of Mr. Kerens, who will probably leave for St. Louis today, the members of the committee will remain here until the end of the week, when the headquarters will be closed.

Place for Secretary Heath.

Perry S. Heath is not going back to resume his position as First Assistant Postmaster General, which he resigned to become secretary of the Republican National committee. He made a statement to that effect yesterday. He will give the most of his time to party work.

The Republican National committee proposes to establish permanent headquarters at Washington, and put Secretary Heath in charge. He said that the main object is to keep in closer touch with the organization in every State, and maintain a closer lookout after the party's interests everywhere.

Secretary Heath will close the Auditorium Annex quarters on Saturday, and leave for Washington. The records are now on the way there.

CHAIRMAN JONES IS GLOOMY.

Democratic National Headquarters Present Forlorn Appearance, Members Seeking Comfort Elsewhere.

Democratic national headquarters wore a forlorn and deserted appearance yesterday. There were few who came there in search of information, for the morning papers had told a story which banished every vestige of hope. The clerks went about such work as they had to do in a dejected manner, and the few visitors in the reception-room conversed in subdued tones as though in the house of the dead.

The surroundings were too depressing for Senator Jones and his confreres on the committee, and during the afternoon they passed but little time there. Senator Jones was gloomy and taciturn, and to repeated requests for a statement as to the causes for the overwhelming victory of the Republicans would only shake his head and say: "I have no statements to give out. The people have all the facts before them. I can add nothing."

Senator Jones insisted that no doubt remained that Nebraska had gone for Bryan, and late in the afternoon a telegram was received from the chairman of the fusion State committee claiming the State for Bryan by 5,000 and the Legislature as well. Senator Jones was unwilling to concede Washington, South Dakota, and Kansas to the Republicans, and positively claimed Kentucky.

In the early evening Chairman Johnson of the Executive committee talked with Mr. Bryan over the long distance 'phone. In speaking of the matter Mr. Johnson said that Mr. Bryan expressed surprise at the general result and stated Nebraska had undoubtedly gone Democratic by a small majority and that the fusionists would control the Legislature.

Willis J. Abbott, head of the Press bureau, left for Michigan in the afternoon, but before his departure said: "There is nothing to be said except that we have run up against a buzz saw. We made a clean, straight fight and have been whipped, and whipped fairly."

LIKE FATHER, LIKE DAUGHTER.

Miss Ruth Bryan Defends Free Silver at Celebration of McKinley's Victory by Monticello Students.

Alton, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The students of Monticello Seminary observed the election of McKinley today with a special program at the school. Miss H. N. Haskell, principal, granted a half holiday, and the young ladies gave a parade on the seminary campus. They were attired in curious costumes and carried oddly figured and shaped banners.

After the parade they repaired to the Eleanor Reed Chapel, and campaign addresses were made behind barred doors.

Miss Ruth Bryan, daughter of the Democratic nominee, was called upon to defend the silver issue, and delivered a lengthy and heartfelt address on the subject which her father has defended the last four years. There are 160 young women in the school.

FRUITS OF M'KINLEY VICTORY.

Orders for Construction of Two Ocean Freight Liners Given at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The Atlantic Transport company today awarded to the Maryland Steel company the contract for the two largest steel passenger and freight steamers ever constructed in the United States. The contract has been pending for two months, the steamship company reserving the right to withdraw the contract in case of Bryan's election. Today President Baker told the company to go ahead with the work.

The two new steamers for the Atlantic company will run between New York and London. They will cost $1,500,000 each, and will be delivered next spring. Each will be 630 feet long, and will carry 18,000 tons of freight.

AFTER YATES FOR JOBS.

GOVERNOR-ELECT HAS MANY APPLICATIONS FOR PLACES.

He Discovers Early in the Day Troubles in Store for Him and Decides to Take a Rest—He Leaves for Springfield and Later Will Go to Jacksonville—Considerable Speculation About Who the Members of His Official Family Will Be.

For the space of one year and two months Governor-elect Richard Yates labored hard and incessantly to win the prize that a large majority of Illinois electors, by their ballots, said on last Tuesday he should have.

But his troubles are only just beginning. He encountered a few of them—the advance guard—yesterday. They came in the guise and garb of applications for appointments to positions in the service of the State. Some were carefully set down on paper and sealed in envelopes bearing this inscription: "Personal, private, important." When writing these words the applicant evidently believed they surely would land his message in the new Chief Executive's hands if anything short of a personal delivery could.

More than one aspirant for an easy berth appeared on the scene at Republican State headquarters, where Judge Yates spent the greater part of the day. Only two or three of this class succeeded, as they expressed it, "in getting his official ear for two minutes."

Says He Must Rest.

After the second one was granted an audience the Governor-elect divined what was coming and what he soon would have to contend with unless something could be done at once to head off the early comers. So it came to pass that Secretary Robbins received a strong, decisive hint as to what his duties for the day were.

He took his stand in the outer room as buffeter between Judge Yates and the place hunters.

The successor to Governor Tanner announced his intention of taking a short rest before giving consideration to the question of appointments.

Little was said during the campaign regarding distribution of Gubernatorial patronage. In this respect the contrast with previous campaigns was so marked as to be the subject, frequently, of comment among the experienced politicians.

Speculation as to Appointees.

But since Judge Yates' election became a fixed and undisputed fact the gossipers have been getting busy. There is a deal of speculation flying around as to who the principal and most important members of Governor Yates' political family will be.

He is authority for the statement that careful consideration will be given to applications for jobs and that great care will be taken in the appointment of officials for all State institutions and the several boards. His most intimate friends say that he is ambitious to surround himself with strong and able advisers. The speculators seem to be almost unanimous in their belief that Fred H. Rowe is slated for chairman of the Board of Railway and Warehouse Commissioners. Since Sept. 1, 1899, the day Judge Yates announced his candidacy, Mr. Rowe has had charge of his campaign. In the work of getting delegates to nominate him they toured the State together.

It is believed also that James McKinney, chairman of the Republican State Executive committee, has been selected for an important position. He is talked of in connection with the chairmanship of one of the principal boards.

Present Incumbents to Resign.

There seems to be an impression that few if any of the present appointees, especially those holding executive positions, will be retained. It is understood, however, that the most of them will not wait to be removed, but will resign.

The Governor-elect, accompanied by Mrs. Yates and Mr. and Mrs. Rowe, left on the Illinois Central last night for Springfield. They will go from there this afternoon to Jacksonville, where the Governor-elect's victory will be celebrated.

HANNA NOT TO BE PRESIDENT.

Senator Says He Does Not Want Nomination and Has Had Enough of Politics.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 7.—Senator Mark A. Hanna today denied positively that he was to be considered in the race for the Presidential nomination in 1904. When he was asked regarding reports of a strong sentiment in his favor in the Northwest, the Senator said:

"Yes, I have heard rumors to that effect. At some of the meetings I addressed in the Northwest cries were raised about the next Presidency, which I could not help hearing. There has been some talk of the character you mention. But I don't want to be the next President after Mr. McKinley. I won't have anything to do with it. I have had enough of politics and public life to suit any one."

The sentiment for Hanna for the Presidency was brought to the attention of prominent Republicans at a dinner given in honor of Speaker Henderson of the National House of Representatives at the Union club on Oct. 31. Mr. Henderson surprised some of his hosts during the table talk by telling them that Senator Hanna's campaign tour of the Northwest had so stirred up that section of the country that the Senator was being talked about there as a Presidential possibility four years hence.

Senator Hanna will start tomorrow night for New York to dispose of unfinished campaign business. He will return home on Monday and remain until Dec. 1, when he will go to Washington for the rest of the winter and the session of Congress.

Senator Hanna today received about 300 telegrams of congratulation upon the election from prominent men in all parts of the country.

WHITES AND NEGROES CLASH.

Four members of Company H, Tenth Regiment, Claude Duffy, George Barr, David Currin, and Charles Rodgers, were attacked on Main street last night by negroes and all badly injured.

Company H today decided to patrol the town, and are out in the streets in squads tonight. Both whites and blacks are out in the streets in force, and the citizens of the town are in a dangerous mood.

Reports of assaults on whites are coming in hourly. In Washington Borough there are about 3,000 negroes. A large number of extra policemen have been sworn in.

FATAL DUEL WITH PISTOLS.

Benton, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—In a quarrel with City Marshal William Newman this evening Monroe Jones, a farmer living near here, shot the officer twice, the bullets taking effect in the stomach. Newman, though almost fainting from loss of blood, returned the fire four times, killing Jones instantly.

The quarrel grew out of Newman's threat to arrest Jones should he persist in fighting with another man.

Boy Run Down and Skull Fractured.

Frank Burbowski, 8 years old, living at 224 West North avenue, is suffering from a fractured skull, received by being run over by a delivery wagon yesterday afternoon. He was playing in front of his home with several companions, when he was run down. At St. Elizabeth's Hospital his condition was said to be serious. The driver of the wagon, Frank Kline, surrendered himself to the police.

SEAT IN SENATE SOUGHT BY FOUR.

INCUMBENT AT WORK.

REPUBLICAN SURE TO WIN.

With the national and State election out of the way and a Republican majority assured in the next General Assembly, Illinois already is turning its attention to the question of who shall succeed Shelby M. Cullom in the United States Senate. Aside from Senator Cullom, who seeks to succeed himself, three other candidates have appeared—Congressman R. R. Hitt of Mount Morris, Congressman Joseph G. Cannon of Danville, and Governor John R. Tanner. For months plans have been made with the Senatorial fight in view, each faction seeking to gain advantages at the fall primaries and in the election results in the various districts. From now on the Senatorial problem will hold the attention of State political circles, and one of the warmest kind of fights is promised.

Tanner Looking for Opportunity.

Governor Tanner insists that he has refused to state whether or not he will appear as a candidate. His followers know well, however, that he is watching for any possible chances, and that if what he regards as a winning opportunity offers he will use every power at his command to force his nomination. The results in Cook County, backed by the defeat of Congressman Lorimer and the schemes of the Tanner-Lorimer alliance at the State convention, are held to favor Senator Cullom. National Committeeman Graeme Stewart, figuring on the election results, asserts that Cullom's return is practically a certainty.

Senator Cullom has made the most active canvass of the four. For the first time in years he has taken an active part in a campaign, making speeches in the doubtful districts and visiting county seats.

With Hitt in the field, however, it is figured that he will have the district of northwestern Illinois and cut in on the Cullom territory. On the other hand, Cannon, while he might draw on the Cullom lines, would take with him part of the Tanner following in southern Illinois. It is argued that a three-cornered fight between these candidates would operate to the advantage of Senator Cullom.

Lorimer a New Factor.

With the defeat of Congressman Lorimer in Cook County a new factor enters into the fight, according to the Second District man's followers. County leaders who made the fight to secure his reëlection contend that they may put him forward as a Senatorial aspirant if he will consent. Their plans thus far have provoked only laughter, as it is regarded as practically impossible for Chicago to secure the seat in the Senate.

That a Republican will be sent to the Senate is now a certainty. With eighty-three members in the Lower House of the State Legislature and at least thirty-three members of the Upper House, a joint ballot will give 116 votes. But 103 votes are necessary to elect a Senator, the Republicans thus having an assured majority of twenty-eight.

PRIEST FIGHTS WITH BURGLARS

Two Men Attempt to Break into Parish House and Father Zdnech Captures Them.

Frederick Korecny, 4846 Robey street, and Ignatz Laltak, 4546 Winchester avenue, were captured early yesterday morning by Father Zdnech after breaking into his parish residence and turned over to the police of the Stock-Yards Station. They are members of the parish.

The men caught by the priest are believed to be members of a gang of burglars, who have been ransacking St. Michaels Church, at Forty-eighth street and Winchester avenue.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning Father Zdnech was awakened by noises. He arose and looked out of the front window and saw two men, who were prying at the heavy front door of the residence. The priest crept downstairs and caught the two men just as they opened the door. There was a lively struggle. The men fought and would have escaped only for the aid of Policeman James Kelly of the Paulina Street Station, who happened to pass the building at the time. The men were taken to the station and booked on the charge of burglary.

ELBRIDGE T. GERRY RESIGNS.

Founder of Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children No Longer at Its Head.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Elbridge T. Gerry, founder of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and for the last twenty-one years at its head, has resigned as President of the organization and may not remain on the Board of Managers.

Vernon M. Davis, former Assistant District Attorney, has been named by the directors of the society as Mr. Gerry's successor.

The reason given for the change is that Mr. Gerry has had too much work to do, but the real reason, it is said, is on account of the controversy which has existed for some time with the State Board of Charities.

SALVATION ARMY CHIEF COMING

Commander Booth-Tucker to Commission Cadets at Princess Rink Saturday Night.

The commissioning of men and women cadets of the Salvation Army will take place at the Princess Rink, 558 West Madison street, on Saturday evening, under the supervision of Commander Booth-Tucker and Colonel Higgins, who will arrive from New York on that day. Nov. 11 will be a "day of salvation," and the following days will be devoted to a "soldiers' reunion," the second held in this country. An effort will be made to secure the attendance of all former members of the army now residing in this city.

BEAT AND ROB SALOONKEEPER.

Thugs Severely Injure Alexander Alban in South Chicago—Police Make Two Arrests.

Alexander Alban, a saloonkeeper at 8361 Ontario avenue, refused to sell liquor to two men who had been drinking and had refused to pay and was attacked, robbed, and severely beaten with clubs on Thursday. The physicians who are attending him at his home say Alban has sustained a fracture of the skull and that his condition is serious. The police have arrested Kazimer Jordan and Martin Kapanski. It is said they have been identified by Alban. Efforts are being made to connect the men under arrest with several recent robberies in South Chicago.

To Press Morocco Claims.

TANGIER, Nov. 7.—The United States Consul General, Samuel R. Gummere, is understood to have made further strong presentations to the government officials, urging the immediate payment of the American claims. It is also again reported that an American cruiser is to be sent to enforce the demand.

THE OLD ORDER AND THE NEW

Dickens has immortalized Captain Cuttle. Do you remember the watch which was his parting gift to Walter?

"The Captain, with a great effort that made his face very red, pulled up a silver watch which was so big, and so tight in his pocket, that it came out with a bung. 'Wal'r,' said the Captain, 'A parting gift, my lad. Put it back half an hour every morning, and about another quarter towards the afternoon, and it's a watch that'll do you credit.'"

ILLINOIS GIVES 105,000 OR MORE.

YATES WINS BY 70,000.

Runs Behind National Ticket, but Has Good Support in Country.

LEGISLATURE IS HELD SAFE.

ESTIMATED ILLINOIS PLURALITIES:

McKinley	105,000
Yates	70,000

Additional returns from Illinois counties more than bear out the estimates of Republican pluralities made in THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning. Eighty-two counties give a plurality to McKinley of more than 90,000. The missing twenty counties, taking the vote of four years ago as a basis of calculation, should supply the 15,000 plurality necessary to swell the McKinley total to 105,000. The best available information indicates that Yates ran perhaps 35,000 votes behind McKinley, and that his plurality will be in the neighborhood of 70,000.

From a Republican point of view the later returns are most encouraging. There is scarcely a county in Illinois outside of Cook wherein the Republicans did not make gains. They carried Morgan County and cut down the Democratic majority in Pike. Even Jasper County did not come up to the expectations of the Democrats. Out in the country Yates ran well along with the McKinley vote, although many of the gold Democrats voted for McKinley and Alschuler.

In the Congressional Districts.

In the Congressional districts outside of Cook there is no change to be recorded from the reports printed in yesterday morning's TRIBUNE. Rodenberg is beaten and Marsh has been reëlected, as he telegraphed to THE TRIBUNE last night, "by a small but sure majority." Clark made a hard fight against Crowley, but the odds were against him and he was beaten.

Sangamon County showed some surprising pranks. It went for McKinley by a few hundred, and gave Caldwell, Democratic candidate for Congress, about a thousand majority, it was said.

Congressman Graff was reëlected, and so was George W. Smith by an increased majority.

In the main the Republican organization throughout the State did good work. The results, as they came rolling into headquarters, showed the unusual accuracy of the poll made by the Republican State Central committee. It is now believed by many that had more attention been given to the country there would have been an additional gain of 20,000 Republican votes outside of Cook County.

It is now thought that Mr. Alschuler will get the usual "consolation cup" in the shape of a Democratic nomination for the United States Senate. This will be merely a compliment. If the Legislature were Democratic, which it is not, Mr. Alschuler would be fought by men in his own party for the seat.

Sweep the Legislature.

The Republicans have swept up the Legislature as with a broom. They have thirty-three Senators and eighty-three members of the House, while the Democrats can only muster seventy House members and eighteen Senators, making eighty-eight in all.

The Republicans have, therefore, twenty-eight majority on joint ballot. They will control the organization of the Senate, and they will elect a Speaker of the House.

The contestants for the Speakership will be L. Y. Sherman, the Speaker of the present General Assembly, and David E. Shanahan of Cook County, and there may be other aspirants.

Gains in the Country.

The result in the legislative districts is unusually gratifying to the Republicans. They did not do so well in Cook County as expected, but they picked up members in the country districts.

J. A. Koch, a Republican, has been elected to the Senate in the Forty-second District, as against Senator Hull. The district is overwhelmingly Democratic, but Hull and ex-Senator Thomas E. Merritt are enemies. This resulted in Hull's defeat.

Burnett, Republican, has been elected to the Senate from the Fiftieth District, and the Democrats have spent thousands of dollars in that district to carry it.

Senator R. B. Fort comes back from the Twentieth, after a gallant fight, with an increased majority.

Senator Pemberton appears to have been returned from the Fortieth.

The Republicans elected Miller and Edwards in the Fiftieth District, after one of the most exciting battles Illinois has ever known in a legislative district. Bailey and Brown, also Republicans, come from the Forty-eighth, which is a Democratic district.

Jasper Partridge, a Cullom Republican, who ran as an independent candidate for the House in the Forty-fourth District, is elected, but the indications are that Edward Craig, the regular Republican nominee, has beaten the Democrat.

Burgett and Beem, Republicans, have come to the House from the Fortieth, the Pemberton district, which is strongly Democratic.

Situation in Sangamon.

The Thirty-ninth District is made up of Sangamon County, and Sangamon is always supposed to be Democratic. Two Republicans were running for the House and two Democrats. The Republicans were J. A. Wheeler and Samuel H. Jones. The Democrats, E. L. Merritt and Reddick Ridgley. Complete unofficial returns from Sangamon say that Wheeler and Jones, Republicans, and Ridgley, Democrat, have carried the county, and will represent it in the Legislature. Wheeler is anti-Cullom, avowedly so. Jones was nominated as an anti-Cullom man, but it is said that on election day all the Cullom Republicans in Sangamon rallied for Jones.

The Thirty-eighth District seems to have elected two Republicans—J. H. Watts and Frank Milnor. It is a matter of party regret that Mr. Hunt, the Republican candidate for the Senate, was defeated in this district. Mr. Hunt made a determined fight, but everything was against him.

The Twenty-sixth District—Fulton and Tazewell Counties—have elected a Republican Senator—Mr. Albertson—and two Republican members of the House—John W. Johnson and J. N. Onion.

Now all of these little happenings denote Republican gains. In many cases the candidate for the Senate in Democratic districts pulled through with him two Republican members of the House. In the Twentieth Captain Fort was not only returned, but Kerrick and Rignus, Republican candidates for the Legislature, were sent back with him.

A glance at the Cook County delegation shows the presence of a good many old faces. Augustus W. Nohe will shine resplendent when the session opens and will doubtless be fitted with the chairmanship of some important committee. When in the House the last time he was chairman of the Committee on Insurance and his legislative chicken coop was always filled with choice pullets. "Billy" Sullivan, who was in the Senate last time, comes to the House now from the Sixth District.

After an absence of twenty years George Struckman reappears as a member of the House, coming from the same district as C. E. Crafts, who will be the candidate for the Democratic nomination for Speaker of the House. For this honor Mr. Crafts will be opposed by Mr. Wilson of Ogle County.

Cullom Man Wins.

David Hunter, who is for Cullom for the Senate, has defeated L. M. Noling, also a Republican, in the Tenth District. There were three Republican candidates for the House in this district and Noling was regarded as a sure winner. He was beaten because of some votes he cast when in the General Assembly.

P. J. Meaney is returned and so is Representative Cavanagh and Albert Glade. Carl Mueller is returned from the same district as Captain James Henry Farrell, who in point of consecutive service is the oldest member of the House.

The Republicans in McLean County returned their old members, Funk and Scrogin.

One of the members who will be conspicuous by his absence is Fred P. Morris of the Sixteenth District, who served in the House for many years on the Democratic side and was one of the leaders. Morris accepted the Democratic nomination for the Senate in the Sixteenth District as against Len Small, and was beaten.

INSURANCE COMPANIES OBJECT.

Injunction Obtained Restraining Superintendent Van Cleave from Paying State Treasurer Protested Taxes.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Judge Creighton, in the Circuit Court today, granted a temporary injunction which restrains J. R. B. Van Cleave, Superintendent of Insurance, from paying over to the State Treasurer certain moneys collected under the insurance laws of the State of Illinois. The petition for the injunction was made by forty-one insurance companies doing business in the State. They claim Superintendent Van Cleave has taxed them in excess of their premiums.

It is charged in the declaration that the tax to which they are objecting is illegal because they have otherwise complied with the provisions of the statute in making their returns. The total tax from the forty-one companies amounts to $15,984.87. This was paid by the companies under protest. They asked for the injunction, claiming that if the money is turned over to State Treasurer Whittemore it will hinder them from collecting it, in case the issues are decided in their favor.

The insurance companies say they complied with the statute in making their annual reports and statements to the Insurance Commissioner. In this report they showed their gross premiums for the preceding year. They paid the Superintendent a 2 per cent taxation on the premiums as full payment of all taxes. In the report they omitted all premiums that had been returned on cancellation of policies. They charge that Superintendent Van Cleave demanded taxation on payment of these premiums, claiming they had been improperly omitted and were subject to taxation.

MYSTERY IN A GIRL'S DEATH.

Young Woman of Leavenworth, Kas., Murdered and Her Body Thrown into a Ravine.

Leavenworth, Kas., Nov. 7.—The dead body of Pearl Forbes, aged 20 years, was found in a ravine near her home in this city this morning. Marks on her throat indicated that she had been murdered by strangulation. The surroundings gave evidence of a struggle. Miss Forbes, who was of good family, had visited her married sister, a short distance from the Forbes residence, yesterday afternoon, starting for her home at 6 o'clock in the evening. As far as can be learned that was the last ever seen of her alive. There is no clew to the murderer.

IN A LAKE MICHIGAN GALE.

Schooner Wing Sighted Off Benton Harbor in a Battle with the Storm.

St. Joseph, Mich., Nov. 7.—The two-masted schooner Wing, under Captain Getner, produce laden, was sighted off this port at 1 o'clock this afternoon by Captain Coates of the steamer Frank Woods.

The schooner was battling with a heavy southwest gale en route to Michigan City. Later it headed for this port, and when last seen was eighteen miles out. The wind was blowing at the rate of forty-five miles an hour. Captain Coates, who put into this port, says the schooner will either go on the beach or be capsized.

LEAD IN INDIANA IS 32,000 VOTES.

Republican Plurality Appears to Be Nearly Double That of 1896.

ODD FEATURES OF BALLOT.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The indications late tonight point to a McKinley plurality in Indiana that will be at least 32,000. These figures were based on definite returns and close estimates on all but six of the ninety-two counties of the State. A tabulated statement of the close estimates on returns thus far in from the counties shows a plurality of 27,240, but there are many precincts yet to be heard from, and the exact vote will not reach the capital until early next week.

The vote for Durbin for Governor is slightly under that for the McKinley electors, but he probably will have a plurality of 25,000. The unofficial count gives the Republicans eighty-four counties and the Democrats thirty-eight.

Many Surprises in the Vote.

A feature of the Indiana voting was the increases where they were least expected and losses where they were not anticipated, indicating an apparent new alignment of the parties in many counties. It was shown that the Republican ticket lost in some of the Quaker communities, while at Richmond, the heart of Quakerdom, Roosevelt's utterances caused no defection.

There is no estimate yet on the Prohibition vote, although the party leaders still are claiming 20,000.

Two constitutional amendments, providing for an increase of the Supreme Court to eleven members and providing for qualifications for lawyers, seem to have an overwhelming majority.

Republicans have a majority of probably fifty in joint ballot in the Legislature, and as they elected nineteen Republican Senators to the Democrats' five Senator Fairbanks will start his campaign for reëlection two years hence with a magnificent advantage, as the State Senators elected this year will vote for United States Senator. The Republicans will have a majority of sixteen Senators and thirty-four Representatives in the Legislature.

Ex-President Harrison Pleased.

Ex-President Harrison said today: "I am much gratified with the result of the election." Beyond this brief expression he would not discuss the election.

Colonel L. M. Martin, manager of the National Gold Democratic headquarters, said he had heard from every member of the National committee and the reports showed that 80 per cent of the gold Democrats voted for McKinley.

Railroad Men for McKinley.

ELKHART—An error was made in the earlier reports to THE TRIBUNE as to the status of the railroad vote in Elkhart. In every precinct where railroad employés reside there has been a distinct Republican gain. In eleven precincts out of fourteen the Republicans gain 245 votes. The total plurality in the county for McKinley was about 1,300.

RACINE CROWDED WITH WOMEN

Fourth Annual Convention of the Wisconsin State Federation of Women's Clubs Is in Session.

Racine, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The fourth annual convention of the Wisconsin State Federation of Women's Clubs opened in this city this morning, delegates from all the principal cities of the State being in attendance. The convention was called to order by the President, Mrs. Arthur C. Neville, and the address of welcome delivered by Mrs. William H. Crosby, President of the local organization. The rest of the morning was devoted to the reports of the various secretaries.

This evening a musical was given at Guild Hall and hundreds were unable to gain admission. Every train brings visitors and the city is crowded, the hotels being unable to care for all. Private residences have been thrown open for the entertainment of delegates. The convention will close on Friday.

EVANSTON HOLDS TO OLD LAW.

Returns Lack One Precinct, but Defeat of Election Act Is Conceded—A Hard Contest.

Although it is conceded that the city election law was defeated in Evanston on Tuesday by a small majority, it is impossible to obtain the exact figures through the usual channels. This is due to the fact that the election officials in the Second Precinct of the Second Ward announced but few of the totals, contrary to the usual custom. In all the wards from which returns have been received the vote on the new law was comparatively close. The total returns received show 1,283 votes in favor of the law and 1,650 against it.

There was almost as much interest taken in the vote on the new law in Evanston as there was on the national result.

The vote in the wards, according to the reports so far received, is as follows:

Ward.	For.	Against.
First	230	348
Second	130	203
Third	114	174
Fourth	284	278
Fifth	220	251
Sixth	65	97

CHEER M'KINLEY ON TO CAPITAL.

President's Journey Toward Washington Made Triumph by the People.

CROWDS BLOCK THE TRAIN

ROOSEVELT SENDS GREETING

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—President McKinley and his party on the way to Washington from Canton reached here about dark today, after a journey which was marked by an almost endless roar of cheers from his home town to this place.

At every stop there were great outpourings of the people, business was suspended, and many factories along the line added their thousands of workers—men and women—to those who joined in enthusiastic greetings.

The President appeared at each stop, shaking hands from the rear platform, and making short speeches at the most important towns. Mrs. McKinley received her share of the popular tribute, men and women struggling to present her with flowers.

It was almost dark when the train reached Allegheny, but a big crowd was in waiting, and a delegation, headed by Mayor Diehl of Pittsburg and Mayor Wyman of Allegheny, clambered aboard. They were received by the President and warm greetings were exchanged.

The President asked as to the results in Pennsylvania and evinced great interest when told that the majority would reach 300,000. He asked also as to Pennsylvania's Congressional delegation and received like satisfactory assurances.

There were no formal speeches. Meantime the crowds outside were cheering, and the President bowed his acknowledgement. Owing to extensive depot changes it was thought to be risky to stop the train in the midst of a great crowd there, so the Presidential cars were detached and run to the suburb of Shadyside, thus avoiding possible danger, but disappointing those who had gathered to give hearty greeting. The President greatly regretted the necessity of this move.

Party Starts from Canton.

The start from Canton was made at 1:35 today. The return to Washington began in two special cars attached to a regular eastbound train. The President, Mrs. McKinley, Secretary Cortelyou, and Dr. Rixey occupied the rear car, and in the other were clerks and officials who had come to Canton to help transact the nation's business.

When the President and his party reached the cars, which were standing on a side track, there was a crowd of townpeople covering the streets and the depot yards. A woman stood on the platform with her arms full of chrysanthemums for Mrs. McKinley. The car windows were full of chrysanthemums, and one woman climbed up an iron switch and waved a chrysanthemum almost in the President's face.

The President did not make a speech. Mrs. McKinley had her arms filled with pink carnations as the President helped her up the steps, before he acknowledged the good-byes from his neighbors. He then came out on the platform and stood bowing and waving his hat till the train pulled out.

In Canton workers from the steel mills and shops lined the track and cheered the President as he went by, and a cannon from the watch factory on the heights fired a final greeting.

Before the departure, and all night long, the McKinley home was swamped with telegrams. Congratulations came from every State in the union and from almost every county. The pile of messages was so big that Secretary Cortelyou did not attempt to sort them out.

One message the public was allowed to see, from Governor Roosevelt:

"I congratulate you, and I congratulate far more the nation. I feel the most heartfelt gratitude over the result.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The answer sent by the President was:

"I heartily appreciate your kind expressions, and congratulate you upon concluding in health one of the most memorable campaigns in our political history."

Incidents of the Journey.

The President made his first speech of the trip when the train arrived at Alliance. The town had turned out to meet him with bands and banners. Workmen from the potteries at Sebring came in their aprons, bearing transparencies showing their majorities. The crowd surged up to the train to the imminent danger of those massed in front.

When the President appeared there were deafening cheers, to which he bowed and smiled acknowledgment, and then said:

"My Fellow-Citizens: I have not failed to observe the verdict of Alliance given on yesterday, and I cannot refrain from expressing to you, in passing, my great appreciation of this vote of encouragement and support from my old friends and neighbors of Stark County.

"I observe that majorities rise with prosperity and that the American people never fail to support the flag. I thank you and bid you good afternoon."

A short distance further on the train stopped at Sebring, a new town, with huge potteries built up, it is said, by the fostering of the American pottery interest. Business was suspended, and the workmen poured forth to join in the huzzas. A big banner announced: "Sebring four to one for McKinley." The President waved acknowledgments, but did not speak.

Short Speech at Salem.

In the big factory town of Salem the smoke of many stacks hung over the city and the myriad of workingmen and workingwomen gave the place the aspect of a hive of industry.

The President bowed when order was partly secured, and said:

"My Fellow-Citizens: It has been many years since I had the privilege of meeting an audience in the City of Salem, and I assure you that your greeting and welcome today give me sincere pleasure. You are here to celebrate a victory won, not by a single party, but by the people of all parties. I go back to my public duties at the capital encouraged by your confidence, but deeply conscious of the grave responsibilities which your action of yesterday imposes upon me. I can only ask of all my countrymen their sympathy and support in the solution of the great problems that rest upon the United States; and I am sure that all of us will humbly petition the guidance of that Divine Ruler who has never failed this government through all its vicissitudes from its beginning to the present hour. I thank you and bid you good afternoon."

At Leetonia and Columbiana there were like outbursts, crowds besieging the President's car. No speeches were made, but the President reached down and shook many a grimy hand.

A drizzling rain began to fall, but this did not deter big crowds from turning out at East Palestine, Enon Valley, New Galilee, and New Brighton.

At Rochester 3,000 people braved the rain and darkness and gave a fierce welcome to the President during the momentary stop. Many of the crowd clambered up the rear platform after the train started and hung on until their turn came for a handshake.

HANNA WRITES OF THE RESULT.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 7.—The result is more than satisfactory. It expresses a continued confidence in the administration of the party, which is certainly gratifying to all Republicans and friends of this administration.

It assures the continuance of present prosperous conditions.

It is a triumph of the principles of good government over the heresies of Bryanism, which is the product of a combination of elements of irresponsibility, instability, and incompetency.

It strengthens the very foundations of the government.

It is a rebuke of the demagogery of the campaign of the opposition, and a clear, cool diagnosis of a situation which was for a time clouded by their methods of evasion and misrepresentation.

Above all, it gives to every American absolute confidence in the good judgment of the people, and their readiness and ability to protect their own interests by deciding aright those great questions which, of necessity, come up in a government by the people.

While in the main our predictions have been fulfilled, I may say that in many cases our expectations have been exceeded. As yet, final reports cannot, of course, be made, but some of the States which we considered doubtful are surely Republican, and some which we classified as Democratic are doubtful, with a possibility of being Republican.

M. A. HANNA.

GREETINGS SENT TO M'KINLEY.

Words of Congratulation and Approval Reaching President from All Parts of the Compass.

ERNEST LEE CONANT,

Cleveland, O., Nov. 7.—The continued confidence of the American people as expressed at the polls yesterday is a tribute to your personality and matchless administration. God bless and keep you for the patriotic purposes to which you have dedicated your life's work.
M. A. HANNA.

New York, Nov. 7.—The American, Manila, first American daily published in the Orient, congratulates you and American courage at the polls declaring America equal to her responsibilities. Backbone Filipino insurrection now in fact broken. Results cabled Manila. I am sure all rejoice.
FRANKLIN BROOKS.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 7.—New Hampshire, with 20,000 majority, joins the procession of States which march for the defense of national prosperity, power, and honor, and for the establishment of peace, plenty, and happiness in our magnificent islands in the Eastern ocean. The new administration will open the new century with new and world-wide glories encircling the flag of the United States.
W. E. CHANDLER.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 7.—I am directed by 10,000 Italians to congratulate you and the nation.
NYCOLA G. IGLIOTTI.

CONGRATULATE THE PRESIDENT

Negro Republicans and Bishop McCabe Among Those Who Telegraph Their Joy at the Victory.

Among the many congratulatory telegrams sent President McKinley yesterday was the following, signed by F. L. Barnett, Thomas Fortune, J. Madison Vance, and George W. Bryan:

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Accept our congratulations upon the brilliant victory. No part of the Republican household had more at stake than the Afro-Americans, and none rejoices more than they in the result which your splendid administration made possible.

Bishop Charles C. McCabe sent the President the following message:

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 7.—I congratulate my country on your reëlection. Every good cause that has its growth in the ten commandments and the Sermon on the Mount will be helped and furthered thereby.

STATE TICKET STILL IN DOUBT.

Minnesota Gives McKinley Close to 70,000—Both Party Leaders Claim the Governorship by 10,000.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Returns from two-thirds of the counties of the State increase McKinley's majority, which will not fall short of 60,000, and is likely to be nearer 70,000. Returns from over sixty of the eighty-two counties give him a majority of over 40,000, and the remaining counties are expected to add 20,000 or more.

Both State committees are still claiming the election of their candidates for Governor—Van Sant, Rep., and Lind, Dem. The claim of each committee is 10,000. The chances so far favor Van Sant strongly, but it is probable that his majority will not exceed 5,000. If Governor Lind pulls through it is quite likely to be on a margin of less than 2,000.

Van Sant's majority in Hennepin County, which last night was placed as high as 2,000, has dwindled to less than 700.

Tams Bixby, chairman of the Republican State committee, figures out 8,754 plurality for Van Sant, while Chairman Rosing of the Democratic committee, from the figures reported to him, foots up 12,000 plurality for Lind.

BREAKS BEST RECORD IN OHIO.

Republican Gains of 22,000 Over '96 Will Carry Plurality to 70,000—Largest Vote Ever Cast.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—Democratic State Chairman Lang had no statement to give out tonight. Republican State Chairman Dick said:

"Unofficial returns from eighty-four of the eighty-eight counties warrant the claim of 70,000 for McKinley and we elect seventeen of the twenty-one members of Congress, a gain of two members."

The estimates on the four missing counties make the plurality about 73,000, or a net Republican gain of 22,000 over the vote of 1896. The Republicans gained in seventy-seven counties and the Democrats in eleven, most of the Democratic gains being in Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Toledo, where it is reported that most of the vote that Mayor Jones of Toledo received last year for Governor went to Bryan. The largest previous plurality for President in Ohio was 60,000 for Lincoln, but that was on a much smaller vote than was cast in the State this year. The total vote in Ohio yesterday was about 1,100,000, the largest ever cast in the State, and the vote for minor parties was smaller than usual.

CALIFORNIA REBUKES BRYAN.

Gives McKinley a Plurality of 40,000 and the Republicans Get Both Houses of the Legislature.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Forty thousand plurality for McKinley is the way California has rebuked Bryanism. With a full Congressional delegation and both Houses of the Legislature Republican, the State has made a splendid record, when it is remembered that the plurality for McKinley four years ago was less than 2,000.

There are still 900 country precincts to hear from, but these cannot materially affect the result. San Francisco has become the banner Republican county of the State with the huge plurality of 12,000, Alameda taking second place with 7,000.

The result in six Congressional districts is sure, and in the Second District Woods, Rep., is 1,100 ahead of Sproul, Dem., and Republican managers are confident Woods is elected.

Needham, Rep., in the Seventh District, who was thought to be in danger, was elected by several thousand.

MICHIGAN'S BIG PLURALITY.

Gives McKinley Over 90,000, While Colonel Bliss Runs Behind About 20,000.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—Returns from the State up to 10 o'clock tonight give President McKinley a plurality of 90,858 and Colonel A. T. Bliss, the Republican candidate for Governor, 69,059. Colonel Bliss is running about 20,000 behind his ticket, and Mayor Maybury, the Democratic Gubernatorial candidate, is a corresponding number ahead of his ticket. The Republicans have increased their majority in the Legislature on joint ballot by seven. Senator James McMillan's reëlection by the next Legislature is a certainty. The constitutional amendment permitting the taxation of railroads and other corporations on the cash value of their property has carried by a large majority.

IOWA PLURALITY IS NOT REDUCED.

McKinley's Lead in the State Certain to Run Close to 100,000.

SURPRISE ON CONGRESS.

Districts Deemed Close Give Large Majorities Against Democratic Nominees.

TITUS LAW MAY BE LOST.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The early estimates as to overwhelming Republican pluralities in Iowa have not been changed materially by returns received today. The plurality of 100,000 in the State claimed by the Republican State committee seems sustained by the later returns.

The State ticket kept well up with the national, and the Congressional benefited by the landslide. The greatest surprises in the Congressional contests are the big victory of Rumple over Vollmer in the Second District and the increase of the vote of Congressman Thomas in the Eleventh District. All the Republican Congressional candidates increased their pluralities by thousands of votes.

Full returns by counties have been received from the Second District, where the Democrats centered their efforts and where it was claimed Rumple, Rep., would be defeated. The count shows Rumple to have won by 2,340.

Vote in the Second District.

	Rumple.	Vollmer.
Clinton	5,152	4,876
Iowa	2,640	1,796
Jackson	2,625	2,550
Johnson	3,050	3,157
Muscatine	3,817	3,127
Scott	5,516	4,978

In the Sixth District, where a hard fight was made on Congressman Lacey, the full returns show him to have won by 3,349 over Steck. Lacey's plurality by counties is as follows:

Mahaska	900	Keokuk	525
Jasper	580	Monroe	250
Poweshiek	1,250	Wapello	354

Steck, Dem., carried only one county—Davis—in which he received a plurality of 510.

Pluralities of Other Winners.

Hedge in the First District is now known to have 3,000 plurality; Henderson in the Third, 14,000; Haugen in the Fourth 9,000; Cousins in the Fifth, 8,000; Hull in the Seventh, 11,000; Hepburn in the Eighth, 5,000; Smith in the Ninth, 4,800; Conner in the Tenth, 10,000; Thomas in the Eleventh, 15,000.

Clay County claims the banner for the largest per cent of Republican gain. The county gave McKinley a plurality of 947 in 1896, and this year raised the figures to 1,548.

The result on the Titus amendment, providing for biennial elections, is uncertain, owing to the fact that the vote was taken on a separate ballot, and no place appears on the official report for entering figures concerning it, consequently the result cannot be ascertained until next Monday when the official count takes place. Where officials took the pains to note the result there is a heavy vote against it, and unless returns yet to come change the situation the proposition will be defeated.

Henderson Ahead of Ticket.

Speaker Henderson received 291 votes more than the President, a larger plurality than he (Henderson) received in 1896, during the Democratic landslide from Bryan to McKinley on the money question, when the Congressman's plurality reached 10,423. Tonight the indications are that, notwithstanding the fact that many Democrats who voted four years ago for McKinley this year went for Bryan, the Speaker's plurality reaches 11,491.

MISSOURI STANDS BY BRYAN.

Democratic Loss of 12,000 in the County Districts Is Offset by Gain in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 7.—Returns from forty out of the 114 counties in the State had been received at the headquarters of the Democrats and Republicans here up to midnight. They indicate a decreased Democratic majority out in the State, which will aggregate about 10,000 or 12,000 if the ballots continue at the same ratio. The Democratic decrease in State is counterbalanced by the big Democratic gain of 15,000 in St. Louis. Congressman Alexander M. Dockery, Dem., is elected Governor by about 35,000 plurality, and the Bryan Electors will go in by about 40,000 plurality. The Democrats claim the Legislature by fifty majority on joint ballot, but this the Republicans will not concede.

WISCONSIN'S BIG GAINS.

REPUBLICAN PLURALITY ESTIMATED AT OVER 104,000.

State Ticket Runs Slightly Ahead of McKinley—Republicans Gain Seven Votes in the Assembly Contrary to Indications of Early Returns—Rival Chairmen Give Reasons for Their Respective Victory and Defeat—Pluralities by Counties.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The returns from the farming districts in Wisconsin are coming in slowly. However, enough are in to make it certain that McKinley will have a plurality of 104,475, and that La Follette will have practically the same plurality. On the face of the returns from the extreme western part of the State it looks as if, when the canvass of the State is completed, La Follette will run slightly ahead of McKinley.

The result shows that the gold Democratic vote in the State went almost entirely to the Republicans. The Democrats have carried only four counties—Calumet, Ozaukee, Jefferson, and Dodge. In 1896 they carried three, but Lincoln, one of these, swung back into the Republican column this year, while Jefferson and Dodge, which were formerly strongly Democratic, but which have been in the Republican column for six years, have gone back into the Democratic ranks by much smaller majorities than formerly.

Chairman Bryant Is Pleased.

Chairman Bryant of the Republican Central committee today gave out the following statement: "From the reports received at our headquarters I am of the opinion that McKinley and La Follette will carry Wisconsin by 106,000. We will also elect ten Congressmen and carry all except four counties. The result of this victory, I believe, was brought about by the splendid administration of President McKinley during the last four years, and the desire of the people of this State to have a change in the caucus and convention laws, as well as by the thorough organization which the Republican committee had throughout the State. I am more than pleased with the outcome of the campaign."

Democrats Try to Explain.

Chairman Warden of the Democratic State committee issued a long explanatory statement, a part of which follows:

"The result of yesterday's election, in its stupendous majorities for the Republicans, is a great surprise to everybody, Republicans no less than Democrats. The great mass of voters seem to have been satisfied with present conditions and unawed by the menacing dangers of the McKinley administration. What the outcome means remains to be seen. Bryan stood for everything that every true American holds dear, and will be so recorded by the future historian, but in the clouds of misrepresentation in which the Republican managers seem to have befogged the campaign the American people seem to have seen only disaster in his success. Victory for the Democracy was impossible under the circumstances under any leadership, and there is no occasion for the party to mistrust the worthiness either of its leadership or its cause.

"Four years hence the policy of the Republican party will have been more fully demonstrated, and the result may be patiently awaited. Wisconsin, apparently, has been no worse deluded than many other more prominent States, and the party may well congratulate itself that the verdict against it is not more pronounced."

Republicans Gain Legislators.

Instead of losing any members of the Legislature as the early returns last night indicated the Republicans have made a gain. In the Senate there will be two Democrats and thirty-one Republicans, while the Assembly will be composed of eighty-eight Republicans and twelve Democrats, a gain of seven for the Republicans.

REJOICING AT YATES' HOME.

Neighbors of Governor-Elect in Jacksonville Celebrate—Plan Big Jollification for Tonight.

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Great rejoicing has been indulged in here all day and last night by the friends and neighbors of Richard Yates. Cheering, booming cannon, waving flags, and almost entire suspension of business were the features. Preparations are being made for a jollification to be held tomorrow night. Judge Yates will be present and address his fellow-citizens at the wigwam after the parade.

ITALIAN WOMEN LEARN TO VOTE.

Result in First Ward Shows Effect of Dr. Frances Dickinson's Work on Educational Lines.

Dr. Frances Dickinson, the recognized leader of the women in the First Ward in politics, succeeded in getting a number of Italian women to vote on Tuesday. The women voted largely the way their husbands did, except that they wanted Carrie T. Alexander, who had been among them, for one trustee. They learned how to scratch their tickets and then told their husbands. This was how the name of Carrie T. Alexander happened to run quite a little ahead of the ticket in the First Ward.

Dr. Dickinson, who voted at a Clark street polling place, excited the humorous proclivities of several of the judges. They asked her to vote the straight ticket, because they said it would keep them out all night if people scratched the ballots. She answered them that she believed in voting the straight ticket "even if the devil was on it."

The number of women who voted at the election will not be known for some time, but women who are interested say the figures will correspond closely with those of registration. The registration fell off so much this year that they assume only the women especially interested in voting took the trouble to register.

W. A. CLARK ON TOP IN MONTANA.

Hopes His "Vindication" Will Land Him in Senate from Which He Was Cast Out.

WAR OF MILLIONAIRES.

METHODS NOT OF BEST.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—By a strange coalition of discordant political elements and a campaign of money so fierce that it terminated in ante-election riots, W. A. Clark, retired from the United States Senate as a convicted briber, has secured in his own State the "vindication" he sought. While the multi-millionaire mine owner has virtually bought himself back into political prestige, there is little to object to on that score. His opponents have spent money freely and have resorted to methods quite as disgraceful.

The campaign of "vindication" is said to have cost Mr. Clark $5,000,000.

While returns from the back-country districts are not yet completed, enough is known to assure the election of Toole for Governor, who carries with him the entire Fusion-Democrat (Clark) State ticket. Folsom, Rep., and Hogan, Ind., Dem. (Daly), for Governor, are running well together, but neither will come within several thousand votes of Toole.

It was a desperate game that the discredited Senator attempted when his sons set in motion, the party machinery of the State early in the summer. That the Daly crowd would fight the Clark adherents with all the old-time vigor there could be no doubt. With no possibility in sight of harmonizing the factions, Clark decided that should he be able to organize the State convention he would throw out every delegate who was known or suspected to be a partisan of his rival.

There was no secrecy. The program was openly announced, and the primaries were fought out on those lines. Clark secured control of the convention and the Daly men were cast out in a body, later meeting in Butte and nominating a bolting ticket, with Secretary of State Hogan, Pop., for Governor.

Forms Political Partnerships.

But where Clark won his fight was in attracting extraneous political elements to his cause. F. Augustus Heinze, whose business nerve and political audacity make him one of the wonders of the West, was known as a Republican, and as such had a following. Heinze has something like 300 suits pending against the Amalgamated Copper company, which is controlled by Daly and Standard Oil interests. Some suits he has already won by, his opponents charge, a corruption of the judiciary.

Heinze was naturally arrayed against Daly, and when the Standard Oil crowd began to take an active interest in the welfare of the Republican ticket Heinze became the logical ally of Clark. A bolting county convention was held in Silver Bow County and the Eight-Hour Republican party was organized. This, the Heinze party, later fused with Clark, although they had nothing in common other than a common enemy. The Heinze crowd went over to Clark after the Republicans, like the Democrats, had thrown out the dissenters.

With Heinze and his trumped-up eight-hour issue with him, this same issue having previously been taken up by the Clark crowd, it was easy for Clark to persuade the Populists to come into camp. Leaders in the labor movement were already on Clark's political pay roll, and although the labor party named Ferguson for Governor the rest of the ticket was left blank and later was filled by the State committee with men friendly to Clark.

When, one dismal afternoon in September, W. A. Clark returned to Butte from Europe and was driven through the streets behind a brass band his sons had hired, he was received with acclaim—as a hero, even a martyr—by so-called Democrats, Republicans, Populists, and labor leaders who crowded the streets. Just the amount of money this demonstration cost is not known, but it was only an incident of the campaign expenditures. Whatever the cost, it was money well spent, as from that time on the Clark wave took on force, and although the Daly crowd met him dollar for dollar throughout the campaign the "vindication" seemed predestined.

Clark Seeks the Senate.

No one who knows W. A. Clark can doubt that he will be a candidate before the Legislature in January for the high office he disgraced. Returns indicate that he will have a majority over Republicans and hostile Democrats, and if so the United States Senate will have another chance to consider the credentials of the man who one time bought his way to membership—who was about to leave in disgrace, but with the sympathy of his colleagues, and then by a trick had the effrontery to claim his lost seat on the appointment of a Lieutenant Governor. While Clark has been "vindicated" at home, he will never be content until he regains the high place in the national council of which he was deprived. Such a final vindication would be dearer to him even than his millions.

The Clark party will have a majority of at least 8,000 in the State and Bryan probably will have 15,000. Caldwell Edwards, on the fusion ticket, has been elected to Congress.

An amendment of the constitution was carried providing for an increase in the number of Supreme Court Judges from three to five, and the Governor, an anti-Amalgamated Copper company man, will have power to appoint. This phase of the situation is highly gratifying to Heinze, the man of the 300 pending suits.

SAYS PEOPLE CAN BE TRUSTED.

Postmaster General Smith Sees in Election Result the Strength of American Institutions.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—Postmaster General Emory Smith returned today from Philadelphia, where he cast his vote. He said tonight: "This overwhelming result shows that the deliberate judgment, honor, and integrity of the American people can safely be trusted. The value of this result in its immediate effect, and in its illustration of American character and stability, cannot be overestimated. It is an evidence of the strength of American institutions. It assures the unbroken continuance of President McKinley's policies of national honor and greatness. The popular verdict crushes the free silver heresy and assures perfect stability in the maintenance of the gold standard. It also pricks the bubble of so-called imperialism and shows that this hollow cry had no material weight with the people."

INDICTED ON THREE COUNTS.

Democratic Councilman Is Charged with Soliciting a Bribe from an Indianapolis Manufacturer.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—John M. Higgins, Democratic Councilman in Ward Fifteen, was indicted by the grand jury today for soliciting a bribe from D. M. Parry, head of a large industrial concern.

There were three indictments against Higgins, and all were in connection with a switch ordinance which Mr. Parry wished passed. Higgins spent the afternoon and evening trying to secure bail, most of his Democratic friends refusing to go on his bond.

There have been numerous rumors of corruption among other Councilmen, but the grand jury made no further report. Higgins is a drayman. He has been a power in the Fifteenth Ward.

CLAIMED BY BOTH SIDES.

KENTUCKY STILL IN THE DOUBTFUL COLUMN.

Chairman Combs of the Republican State Committee Figures a Majority of 3,000 for Yerkes with McKinley Running Below Slightly—Courier-Journal Estimates Bryan's Lead at 7,784 and Puts Beckham's at 4,068—Four Republican Congressmen.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8, 2 a. m.—[Special.]—Leslie Combs, chairman of the Republican State Campaign committee, says:

"We still believe Mr. Yerkes has been elected by a majority of 3,000 votes. Our figures show that McKinley has run 900 votes behind Yerkes. At least 3,000 Republican ballots have not yet been counted in certain counties, and these will increase the Republican vote.

"We also claim the election of four Republican Congressmen—namely: Boreing in the Eleventh District, Irwin in the Fifth, McKenzie Moss in the Third, and Hopkins in the Tenth. We are also of the opinion that Samuel J. Pugh has been elected over Kehoe in the Ninth District."

With returns from all but sixty-two out of 1,884 precincts in Kentucky the Courier-Journal puts Bryan's majority at 7,784 and Beckham's at 4,068. The missing precincts are evenly divided between Democrats and Republicans.

Governor Beckham, at Democratic headquarters, said tonight: "I am absolutely certain that I have been elected Governor by a majority of between 5,000 and 10,000 votes."

MANY TRAGEDIES IN KENTUCKY.

Seven Men Shot in Quarrels, but Only Two Result from Political Differences.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 7.—At Versailles last night George Woodruff, Town Marshal of Midway, Ky., shot and killed Alfred Stanhope, an internal revenue storekeeper, and probably fatally shot Thomas Etherington, a bystander. The tragedy was the outcome of a quarrel a week ago between the 10-year-old sons of Woodruff and Stanhope, the fathers taking up the quarrel.

In Harlan County last night John Day shot and killed Henry Osborn after a brief quarrel.

At Middlesboro last night Grant Raines, colored, and J. Griffith, white, quarreled over a crap game and opened fire simultaneously. Raines was shot through the heart, but lived long enough to give Griffith his death wound.

At Buckeye, in Garrard County, Edgar Brown, aged 18 years, and Luther Ray, aged 16, were drinking and arguing politics, Ray being a Democrat and Brown a Republican. The result was a quarrel, during which Brown was shot and instantly killed. The boys were sons of well-to-do farmers.

Robert Munsey, a farmer who lived near Burnside, Ky., died there from the effects of a double charge of shot, believed by some to have been fired into his head by mistake, although his friends claim the killing was the outgrowth of politics.

HARRISON ON THE RESULT.

Says the Reduced Majority Proves the City Hall Was Sincere in Its Support of the Ticket.

Mayor Carter H. Harrison said yesterday, speaking of the election: "Naturally there is little comfort to be found in the outcome, but I am well pleased with the results in Cook County and Chicago, in view of the landslide. Four years ago McKinley carried the city by 56,011 plurality. This year he received 8,307. It is a victory for the so-called machine and will take the wind out of the sails of certain gentlemen who claimed throughout the campaign that the City Hall was not sincere in supporting the Democratic ticket. I look upon the defeat of Congressman Lorimer in the Second District and other like candidates as a victory for honest service in public affairs. I congratulate the Democrats on that victory."

NEW SENATOR FROM COLORADO.

Wolcott's Defeat Is Generally Conceded—Bryan's Plurality Estimated at from 30,000 to 40,000.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 7.—Returns from yesterday's election are slowly coming in, but sufficient figures and careful estimates have been received to show that Bryan's plurality will be from 30,000 to 35,000, and may reach 40,000. The Republican managers concede the Legislature to the Fusionists by a majority of fifty-six on joint ballot. Orman, Democrat, and the whole Fusion ticket will have about 25,000 plurality.

The defeat of Senator Wolcott for the Senate is generally conceded, but with several aspirants in the Fusion parties it is impossible to predict with any accuracy who his successor will be.

BLIZZARD COMING FROM NORTH

Heavy Fall of Snow Reported Throughout Northeastern Wisconsin—Cold Weather in Minnesota.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—There was a heavy snow-storm throughout the northeastern portion of the State today. From two to three inches of snow are reported at various places, but so far as the railroads are concerned there has been no delay of any kind.

The effect of the storm will be to cause an influx of deer hunters to the northern part of the State, and tonight the trains are crowded with sportsmen anxious to avail themselves of the advantage.

The storm has been general over Ashland, Lincoln, Vilas, and Langlade Counties. Every place from which a report has been received places the fall at from two to three inches.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 7.—A blizzard is bearing down upon this section. The weather has turned cold and heavy snowstorms are reported from various places. New Richmond, Wis., reports five inches, with the snow still falling and the wind blowing a gale.

THREE ARE FATALLY INJURED.

Rock Island Train Runs Down a Party of Chicagoans at Crossing Near New Lenox.

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Passenger train No. 141 on the Rock Island, which leaves Chicago at 5:50 and arrives at Joliet at 7:15, ran down a wagon and fatally injured three of its occupants and slightly injured two others near New Lenox this evening.

Thompson, John, slight injuries about the head.
Thompson, Mrs. John, injured internally; will probably die.
Terrill, James, arm broken.
Terrill, Mrs. James, severe bruises, injured internally; slight chance of recovery.

Thompson and Terrill are horse traders living on Polk street in Chicago and were returning from the horse fair in this city. They reached the crossing east of the New Lenox station just ahead of the train. The covering of the wagon prevented their seeing the approaching engine, which struck the vehicle squarely and demolished it. The force of the collision threw the people some distance from the track.

The injured people were brought to this city and taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

McLean to Have New Courthouse.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The proposition voted on by McLean County yesterday to issue $400,000 4 per cent four-year bonds, to pay for the new courthouse, was carried by a majority of 2,000 to 2,500.

Knife Used in Political Row.

Cambridge, O., Nov. 7.—Frank Hanes of Georgetown, this county, cut Gus Armbuster's throat during an argument over politics, severing the jugular vein, and he will die.

NEBRASKA VOTE STILL IN DOUBT.

Republicans Claim Advantage on Returns from About a Third of State.

LEAD BY TWO THOUSAND.

If Ratio of Gain Holds Throughout McKinley Will Have Fair Plurality.

LEGISLATURE IS CLOSE.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 8, 2 a. m.—[Special.]—From the partial returns now on hand the Republicans say they will secure a working majority of from fifteen to twenty on a joint ballot of the Legislature.

The Republicans still claim the State ticket will win by 5,000.

Complete figures were received from twenty of the ninety counties in the State. These counties polled 75,000 votes, or approximately one-third of the vote of the State. The vote of the twenty counties was returned as follows: Bryan, 37,890; McKinley, 40,069. These counties four years ago gave Bryan 38,092; McKinley, 34,461. This change, if maintained, will come near wiping out the Bryan plurality of 13,000 of 1896. Scattering returns from other counties show a smaller percentage of loss, and indicate that the fusion electoral ticket may win out by a lead of about 1,200 or 1,500.

The World-Herald (Dem.) this morning says: "The Legislature of Nebraska is fusion by seventy-two votes out of 133 on joint ballot. In the Senate there will be fourteen Republicans and nineteen Fusionists. In the House there will be forty-seven Republicans and fifty-three Fusionists."

The Populist committee claims that returns from twenty-five counties complete and 300 scattering precincts indicate that Governor Poynter's plurality will be about 4,600, with the balance of the State ticket running close up with him. The election of the Bryan Electors is claimed by a plurality of 2,000.

In Douglas County the closest race ever run by legislative competitors was won by the Republicans, as to nine of the twelve Representatives. The delegation will support Edward Rosewater for the Senate.

In the event of possible Democratic success in the Legislature one of the Senatorial vacancies will undoubtedly be awarded to Senator W. V. Allen, appointed by Governor Poynter last winter to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator M. L. Hayward, the newly elected Republican.

Republican Congressional Gains.

As the reports from the six Congressional Districts of Nebraska are received it becomes a matter of doubt whether the Democrats will be able to secure even one of the four which were formerly theirs. The other two are conceded to the Republicans. In the First District Congressman Burkett, Rep., has won over George Berge by the long lead of 3,000. Berge made the strongest campaign since Bryan covered the same district and was expected to cut heavily into the Republican majority. Congressman D. H. Mercer has triumphed for the Omaha district by 1,400, varying little from his majority of four years ago. The Third District, in which Judge Robinson, Dem., has striven for reëlection, is in doubt, with the odds somewhat in his favor. The Populist friends of Congressman Starke, Democratic incumbent, for the Fourth, admit that Pope has their candidate at a disadvantage, and in the Fifth Morlan has conducted a winning fight against Shallenberger.

Kincaid Makes Good Fight.

The most gratifying returns to Republicans are from the Sixth, where Moses Kincaid, Rep., has worked against a fusion majority of 4,000. Custer County, formerly Populist by 1,200, has given him 500, with the southwest corner of the State, a Republican community, to be heard from. There is a good chance of his election by a small margin. The delay in receiving returns on Congressmen is accounted for by the fact that several districts contain from fifteen to twenty counties.

TRY TO EXPLAIN THEIR DEFEAT.

MANY BLAME PLATFORM.

Full Dinner Pail and Coercive Power of Trusts Also Arraigned for Losses.

SOME EDITORIAL OPINIONS.

Every thing from the "full dinner pail" to the coercive power of trusts comes in for its share of blame from the Democratic press for the Democratic defeat at the polls. Some blame the Democratic convention for allowing Bryan to dictate the platform, while others trace the loss to a departure from old line Democracy and the grafting on to the parent stem the fusion parties. Most of them insist that whatever the causes for defeat were Hanna and the foreign policy have not been indorsed.

In the editorial comments which follow it will be seen that the habit of dodging free silver appears to have become fixed.

Not Free Expression of People.

PHILADELPHIA TIMES—The enormous concentration of capital has become the dominant power in this country. McKinley's reëlection is not the sign of popular approval. Disguise it under whatever name, it is the achievement of the money power alone that has tyrannized over the popular judgment and whether by fair means or by foul has prevented the free expression of the popular will.

Election Carries Warning.

BOSTON GLOBE—Unquestionably the continuance of good times helped materially to make their candidacy successful. Unquestionably, also, there are certain object lessons to be deduced from the results obtained at the polls yesterday, which, if the Republican managers are wise, they will lay closely to heart. It gives plain and unmistakable warning against the dangers which environ a continuance of the administration's "new departure" in colonial policies.

Is Not Hanna Indorsement.

BOSTON POST—While the electoral vote by an increased margin elects McKinley, the diminution of his popular plurality in Republican States carries with it a rebuke. The real danger is that the Hanna-McKinley coterie may take the verdict of yesterday's election as an approval of all they have done.

Not Indorsement of Policy.

BOSTON TRAVELLER—The election results cannot be construed into an indorsement of the colonial policy characterized as imperialism, nor do they warrant a continuation of blind Republican favor to the trusts.

Bryanism Not Eliminated.

NEW ORLEANS TIMES-DEMOCRAT—Mr. Bryan's disappearance from public life will be assumed by the partisans of monopoly, with whom the wish is father to the thought, but the masses do not forsake their leaders in that fashion. The Nebraskan has made a wonderful fight against the most fearful odds. The power of such a personality does not depend on the shifting fortunes of politics, for honesty and courage are permanent forces in the world's affairs. The battle for freedom against privilege must be fought to the end.

End of Bryan Chapter.

BALTIMORE DAILY NEWS—That this ends the Bryan chapter in the party's history cannot be doubted. What remains to be seen is whether it will sink into insignificance, or whether the vitality of this great historic party will reassert itself by restoring to it its old character and arraying it once again under leaders fitted for high responsibilities and commanding the confidence of the country.

Lost by Silver Plank.

BALTIMORE SUN—That ill-judged and unnecessary declaration for free coinage has cost Mr. Bryan the Presidency. Mr. McKinley has been reëlected, not because a majority of the people indorse his administration, but because they were afraid, without understanding the situation, that Mr. Bryan, if President, would disturb the financial system of the country. In forcing a declaration for free coinage into the platform he gave his political opponents the opportunity which they desired to play upon the fears of the timid.

Full Dinner Pail Did It.

DETROIT EVENING NEWS—The full dinner pail did it. Cleveland was an incubus, and the Democratic party had to tear itself to pieces to get rid of it. Bryan was another incubus which necessitated two defeats to get rid of.

Bryan Not Democracy's Choice.

DETROIT FREE PRESS—Rejecting Bryan is not indorsing McKinleyism. Had Mr. Bryan been content to allow the Democratic convention to be a Democratic convention; had he permitted it to voice the sentiments of the Democratic party and register the will of that party, the returns would have indicated an overwhelming Democratic victory. But the Kansas City convention allowed Mr. Bryan to trample under foot the convictions of three-fourths of its delegates, to place his personal judgment above the judgment of the representatives of the party, and the Presidency is the price that has been paid.

Plea for Old-Line Democracy.

ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC—Can there be question of the duty of the national Democracy? Can there be doubt of the necessity to turn resolutely from vain wanderings into the field of populism? Oldline Democracy, battling with reunited forces, supporting nominees acceptable to all true Democrats, and effectively organized, can elect a President of the United States no less certainly than they did a Sheriff of St. Louis last Tuesday.

Took Least of Two Evils.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH—Undoubtedly an unwillingness to accept Mr. Bryan's entire platform was more of a factor in determining the voters in large masses in the East and central West than a desire to indorse Mr. McKinley's colonial and foreign policies. Many Republicans and Democrats supported Mr. McKinley under protest, not because they liked him but because they liked Mr. Bryan's record and associations less.

Go Down in Glorious Defeat.

OMAHA WORLD-HERALD—We stand uncovered in the presence of a victorious foe. We extend our congratulations to the McKinleyites upon their great triumph, and reserve for ourselves the consolation that we fought for American principles, followed a great leader, and went to a glorious defeat with a clear conscience and a firm reliance in the justice and integrity of the lost cause.

Sees Reign of Vandalism.

KANSAS CITY TIMES—The reëlection of William McKinley means the indorsement of every violation of law, every willful perversion of the principles of free government made by the party in power during the last four years. It means that the ancient landmarks set up by the fathers for the guidance of the servants of the people are to be devoted to vandal destruction by men intrusted with political power. That the century and a quarter-old system of government of the people is to be relegated into disuse, and in its place is to be erected a government of the trusts, by the trusts, and for the trusts.

Vote for Military Empire.

INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL—The people, with their eyes wide open, have deliberately voted in favor of a policy of aggression and conquest throughout the world. They have voted that this shall be a military republic. They have voted against an income tax and in favor of a high protective tariff, and of big subsidies to private enterprises. They have voted against legislation to prohibit or regulate the trusts. But let us not hastily assume that this verdict in its largest sense is final. There is no reason for the followers of Thomas Jefferson to despair.

Due to Public Apathy.

ST. PAUL GLOBE—It will remain difficult for a long time to come to explain the strange apathy which prevailed throughout the campaign on the part of the masses. Nowhere was the enthusiasm anything like what it had been in even the least enthusiastic of the Presidential campaigns of the last twenty years. Campaign managers found themselves up to the last moment unable to solve this problem of popular silence and apparent indifference.

NEW MARK ON BAD TRACK.

KNIGHTBANNERET BREAKS ONE OF LAKESIDE'S RECORDS.

Griffith's Horse Runs a Mile and a Half in 2:37 1-2 Under Conditions Unfavorable for Good Time—Two Handicaps Are Contested at Aqueduct—Favonius Loses His First Race in California—Results at Latonia and Elsewhere.

The downfall of the favorites, a nose finish in the all-aged event, and the breaking of the mile and a half track record were the features of Lakeside racing yesterday. To Knightbanneret falls the honor of hanging up a new mark for the Indiana track. He, with Florizar, was a 2 to 1 second choice for the fifth race, The Unknown being the 7 to 10 favorite, and practically ignored at the price. Florizar carried the bulk of the money, but second was the best he could do. The winner assumed command racing down the backstretch and won eased up at the end.

The race for all ages, the fourth on the card, brought forth the only stirring finish of the day. Money Muss and Algareta, the second and first choices respectively, passed under the wire noses apart in the order named.

The upsetting of the favorites began when Kohnwreath and C. B. Campbell, both at 5 to 2, were beaten by Cora Goetz. The talent was given Macie Maree, Candleblack, and Olekma to choose from in the second race, as each was held at 2 to 1. Daisy O., at 8 to 1, upset calculations by winning after a mild drive, with Candleblack as the contender. Rosa Diah outraced Jake Weber, the favorite in the third race. Robert Waddell, at 4 to 5, was beaten handily by Benckhart, the 7 to 5 second choice, in the sixth event, and Prairie Dog walked away with the final event. Ben Chance and Hood's Brigade, second and first choices, finished in the money as named.

SEE TWO HANDICAPS AT AQUEDUCT.

New York, Nov. 7.—Two handicaps lent some tone to the racing at Aqueduct today and a good-sized crowd was on hand. The weather was bright and clear and the track fast. Only two favorites were successful, but three well-backed second choices gave the players the best of the argument with the books.

Judge Tarvin won the first race from Blarneystone and Dye. Impartial, at 12 to 1, made the running to the last furlong pole, but tired at the end. Isla, at 8 to 1 and 3 to 1, made every post a winning one, and won cleverly by three lengths from the favorite, McAdie. Sir Florian, backed down from 6 to 1 to 7 to 2, took the third race handily. Mitchell kept Sir Florian in a good position to the head of the stretch, when he came away and won by one and a half lengths from Prestidigitator.

The fourth race was the feature of the day. It was a handicap at one mile and a sixteenth. Belle of Troy was a hot favorite, but her saddle slipped just as the flag fell and Williams could do nothing but sit still, and she finished next to last. Maribert made the running by three or four lengths to the stretch, when First Whip wore him down and won ridden out by one length from Alsike, who beat the pacemaker a head for the place.

Malden, at 11 to 5, won the fifth race cleverly from the Golden Prince, the favorite, and Animosity, the favorite, galloped home in the last after Yorkshire Boy had run himself out in front.

FAVONIUS DEFEATED AT OAKLAND.

Eastern Horse Loses His First Race in California.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The best horses ever shipped to California have invariably been beaten one or more times. Morello, Rudolph, and Bannockburn all went down to defeat, and today Favonius, quite a good performer around New York, was only able to secure third place. Formero experienced no difficulty in defeating both Gonfalon and Favonius. The latter was handicapped by having little Daly in the saddle. He was unable to do justice to his mount, but the win of Formero was due to the heavy track, which he revels in, while neither Favonius nor Gonfalon was quite at home in the going. Favonius was a slight favorite over Gonfalon in the betting, but neither carried much money. Formero, however, was backed down from 6 to 3 to 1.

The early morning downpour made the track heavy and somewhat upset the calculations of the talent.

Urchin, a Kingston colt in Fink's stable, took the first race from Onyx.

The second event resulted in a throw down for the talent. Sad Sam came in for strong support. It was his first start in California and he was regarded as a good thing. Screenwell Lake, a much improved filly, beat Sad Sam in clever style. She was 8 and 10 to 1 in the betting.

The fourth race at a mile produced a hot finish between Essence and Sunello, but the latter won out by a head in the last few strides.

Knight Draws the Finish Fine.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 7.—J. J. T., in the last race at Latonia today, was favorite at 2 to 1 and led into the stretch by ten lengths. Knight eased up his mount and did not notice Ollie J., who came through with a rush and almost nipped the race at the wire. The weather was rather chilly today, but a good-sized crowd turned out. Twelve bookies did business. Track fast. Summaries:

Winners at Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The racing conditions today were perfect. The weather was all that could be desired, the track in good condition, and the fields in all but the last two events closely matched. It was ladies' day, too, and the grand stand was well filled.

Weather clear and track good.

First race, 5 furlongs—Sister Alice, 104 pounds [Castro], 2 to 1, first by two lengths; Lady Hastings, 109 [E. Flynn], 3 to 1, second by two lengths; Golden C., 108 [Burris], third. Time, 1:23. Eleanor Howard, Grandma, and Mme. Gerst also ran.

Second race, 4½ furlongs—Virgie d'Or, 97 pounds [C. Murphy], 4 to 1, first by length and a half; Antithesis, 105 [E. Flynn], 3 to 1, second by four lengths; Sweet Dream, 102 [M. Williams], third. Time, 1:00. Dr. Carrick, Hanno, and Anna Coons also ran.

Third race, 5½ furlongs—Bettie B., 105 pounds [Stewart], 7 to 2, first by one length; Hleaway, 107 [E. Flynn], 4 to 1, second by a head; Mascagni, 107 [Burris], third. Time, 1:16. Julia Rose and May S. also ran.

Fourth race, 1⅛ miles—Jessie Jarboe, 100 pounds [Hart], 1 to 3, first by two lengths; Leonag, 102 [Mulligan], 3 to 1, second by eight lengths; Zonne, 98 [Coakley], third. Time, 2:07. Etta Stevens and Giftie also ran.

Fifth race, 4½ furlongs—Toad Raney, 107 pounds [E. Flynn], 7 to 10, first by one length; Henry's Sister, 99 [M. Williams], 8 to 1, second by three lengths; Gladys B., 86 [C. Murphy], third. Time, 1:01½. Lelia Barr and Scorpulette also ran.

Feud of Caldwell and Bullman.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Starter Caldwell and Jockey Bullman have locked horns, and what the finish will be is beyond conception. It was last Saturday that Caldwell plastered a fine of $100 on Bullman for taking too many liberties with his starts. It was only yesterday that Caldwell repeated the dose and tacked on a suspension of three days. In the last race Bullman broke from behind on Rewald and came at the gate with a rush, which was against order. This exhibition cost Bullman his vacation, which offended him more than the second $100 fine, which was inflicted earlier in the day. Bullman is sore over the punishment meted out to him. "It looks much as if Caldwell would drive me away from here," said he. "Ever since last spring he has had it in for me. If you remember I left here early because I could not get a fair deal, and when I got to Saratoga he kept after me until I was forced to quit and go back to New York. And now he has started after me again."

BOXING FATALITY AT DETROIT.

Michael Goldman Fatally Knocked Out by Bernard Carroll.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—Michael Goldman of Bay City, known in the ring as "Kid" O'Brien, who was knocked down and out last night by Bernard Carroll of this city before the Cadillac Athletic club, died at St. Mary's Hospital early today from concussion of the brain without recovering consciousness. Carroll is under arrest at police headquarters.

SILER'S GOSSIP OF THE FIGHTERS.

[BY GEORGE SILER.]

If Patsy Broderick's record counts for anything, which it certainly does, it will go hard with Benny Yanger, whom Patsy meets in the windup at the Star Theater tomorrow night. Broderick's record shows, among others, victories and knockouts over Jimmy Boyle, Johnny Whitaker, Jack Madden, Sam Meyers, Tom Asher, George Murray, Billy Patterson, and Kid Buckley. It also shows a fifteen round draw with Billy Rotchford, a twenty round draw with Tim Callahan, and one of twenty-five rounds with Patsy Haley. He lost a twenty round decision to Sammy Kelly and went nine round with Dave Sullivan, when the police interfered. His victories, while probably not so numerous as Yanger's, shows he defeated better men than has Benny, and on that account he is much fancied by local fight followers to win tomorrow night's contest.

Broderick, since his arrival in Chicago, has been training faithfully at the Star Theater gymnasium and is reported as being in first-class condition. His left arm, which was injured in his battle with "Spike" Haley about six months ago, is as well as ever and, "with his left duke in shape," as he puts it, he has no fear of the result. Patsy is a sturdily built little chap, a stiff puncher, and game in all the word implies. He has been boxing daily with young Cody, Johnny Van Heest, and Frankie Noel, and if he acquits himself as well tomorrow night as he has with his trainers the bout ought to be a warm affair.

Yanger has had Tommy Sullivan and Johnny Reagan in his training camp the last six days and hard licks in the daily set-tos have been the order. Benny's draw with Young Mowatt, who was defeated by Tommy Sullivan and Buddy Ryan, gave him quite a setback, and a win over Broderick will be a retriever.

The local featherweight championship is an enigma at present, as Sullivan, Ryan, Harris, Yanger, and the latest arrival, Broderick, are reaching for the title. The loser of the Yanger-Broderick contest will be relegated to the rear, while the winner will be given an opportunity of meeting those referred to. The semi-windup will be between Johnny Reagan and Kid Garfield and ought to result in a clever go.

Joe Choynski returned to the city yesterday from Denver, where he fought big Fred Russell and won on a foul. Russell deliberately struck Joe after the gong sounded denoting the end of the fourth round and knocked him through the ropes and off the platform. Choynski has a badly injured hand as the result of the fall, and may be unable to meet Joe Walcott at Tattersall's on Nov. 27. Should it be found in a couple of days that his injuries will cripple him for some time arrangements for an all-star card will be made for that night.

Terry McGovern, who fights "Kid" Broad at Tattersall's next Tuesday night, will arrive in Chicago Sunday noon. The boys are to meet at 126 pounds, weigh in at 3 o'clock. Broad is working along nicely within a pound of that weight.

A boxing entertainment will be given at the Press club gymnasium tonight, when the following boxers will contest for a decision: Eddie Carroll vs. Paddy Evans, Pete Boyle vs. Jack Mullins, and Jack Beauscholte vs. John Connors. There will also be exhibition bouts by Jack Root, Tommy White, the Forbes brothers, and others.

Tommy Ryan and Jeff Thorne will furnish the windup at the C. A. A. boxing entertainment on Saturday night.

NEW LEAGUE PROMOTERS ACTIVE.

Claim to Have Backing for a Club in Washington.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Developments within the last few days have given the project of the promoters of the new baseball league a big boom here. The cause of the present activity is believed to be largely due to the attempt of the American league to locate clubs in the East. Frank Dwyer, who has charge of the Washington end of the enterprise, says a meeting of the American association will be held in Chicago on Nov. 15. Mr. Dwyer is acting as the representative of Thomas C. Noyes, owner of Thrice-a-Day Bulletin, who has interests in a theater here and in the Washington Evening Star. This information has just leaked out and is assurance that there is capital to be found for the Washington end of the National association. Moreover, the Washington Electric and Street railway company, which controls two-thirds of the street car systems here, has offered to help fit up ball grounds on one of its lines on which an option is held.

Mr. Dwyer said tonight: "The National association circuit has been completed with St. Louis, Milwaukee, Chicago, and Detroit, in the West, and Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, and Washington in the East. Our association is a go."

LEASES THE ROCKWELL GROUND.

Douglas Park Cricket Club Secures a Playing Field.

The Douglas Park Cricket club has just secured a lease of the grounds at Ogden avenue and Rockwell street, formerly occupied by the Gaelic Athletic association. For some time past the club officials have been looking around for a private ground, the turf in Douglas Park, where the club has played for several seasons, being unsuitable for cricket. The new ground is of ample size for cricket and affords room for a number of tennis courts. It is the intention of the club to sod a space of from thirty to forty yards square, and as the soil is of a clayey character a fine wicket should be obtained.

Cricket on the West Side has suffered for lack of inclosed grounds, but now that the Douglas Park men have followed the example of the South Side players a strong club should result.

Professional Charles Braithwaite of Philadelphia, who has been putting in a new pitch on the Wanderers' grounds at Parkside, has nearly finished his work. The center of the ground has been excavated to a depth of eight inches and filled in with clay, topped off with loam. It is expected the wicket will be one of the best in America, and the Wanderers will make every effort to have it in shape for the annual tournament of the Northwestern Cricket association next season.

Johnson Goes East Today.

President Johnson of the American league will leave Chicago for Philadelphia this morning. He went to Milwaukee yesterday afternoon to hold a consultation with Milwaukee baseball men in regard to their desires in the expansion movement. President Johnson will return to Chicago this morning, and with Comiskey will start East to arrange details of the league's occupancy of Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. Somors will join the party, and Manning, the fourth member of the Circuit committee, may make the trip and look over the field.

Northwestern Baseball League.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 7.—A Northwestern baseball league has been formed, comprising the cities of Duluth, Superior, Ashland, Marquette, Ishpeming, and Hancock, Mich. Ted Sullivan, a well known baseball man, is the promoter of the scheme. This is the first baseball organization in this section for several years.

WEDDING IN CAPITAL'S SOCIETY.

Chicago Insurance Man Marries Daughter of Judge Samuel P. Wheeler at Springfield.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—An event of more than ordinary interest in local society was the wedding here this evening of Miss Elizabeth Wheeler to Harry Otis Phillips of Chicago. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock by the Rev. T. D. Logan of the First Presbyterian Church at the home of the bride's parents, Judge and Mrs. Samuel P. Wheeler, in the presence of 150 guests.

The spacious residence, formerly the home of Senator Cullom, was elaborately decorated for the occasion. Miss Abigail Wheeler was maid of honor, Miss Harriet Wheeler and the Misses Frances and Ellen Avery of Peoria bridesmaids. Walter T. Campbell of St. Louis was best man and Messrs. Milo Phillips of Minneapolis, Charles W. Highley of Chicago, William Woodworth of Peoria, and George C. Holmes of Springfield, ushers. Mary Kreider of Springfield was the flower girl and Master Elmer E. Hagler of Springfield the ring bearer.

After spending their honeymoon in the East Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will reside in Chicago.

STAGG FINDS A NEW MAN.

Robert Moth, Weighing 199 Pounds, Shows Excellent Work on the Scrubs—Lord Is Tried at Right End—Fun with the Pitching Gun—Princeton Players Badly Crippled by Their Game with Columbia—Work at Other Colleges.

Coach Stagg gave up all hope some time ago of getting any more good material for the football team this season, but yesterday he unexpectedly discovered a promising candidate for guard. The new man is Robert Moth, and he weighs 199 pounds. He was on the South Side Academy eleven last year. He came out yesterday to try for the freshman team which is being formed to play the sophomores, and his work was so good that it attracted Stagg's attention, and he was put immediately on the scrub team and lined up against the varsity. Although he has not been out before this year he played his position well, and Trainer Connibear said he played all around his opponent, Jensen. Moth would have been out to try for the team early in the season but for the death of his mother early in the fall.

The maroons, who had no practice on Monday and only light signal work on Tuesday, were put hard at work again yesterday. They seemed to have benefited by their rest, as they went into the scrimmage with unusual fierceness and vigor. The coaches, however, were not satisfied, and urged them on all the harder. Stagg, Herschberger, Kennedy, Connibear, Thatcher, and Speed were all straining their lungs in their efforts to make them plunge in harder, especially in their charges. The men did not get out for practice till late, and when the scrimmage was started it was already dusk. The mixture of rain and snow which was falling added to the discomforts of falling in the mud. The practice game was continued for about twenty minutes, and in that time the varsity eleven had plowed its way through the line for three touchdowns, two by Henry and one by Horton.

Lord was tried at right end and in some ways, Stagg said, he was satisfactory. He is the best man on the team at catching punts, according to the coach, and as Chicago is sadly in need of some one to do this important work, it is probable Lord will be kept at this position.

The patent gun for pitching curved balls was taken out and tried yesterday and furnished a good deal of amusement for every one but the batter. The gun seems to have a will of its own and does not signal even to the catcher what kind of a curve is coming. As a result, the batter is in danger of being pierced by a ball on an inshoot unless he is good at dodging. Even then he has not much chance, as the ball is delivered so quickly that the man at the plate hardly has time to swing his bat before the ball is gone.

One man succeeded in getting a foul tip off of it, but that was the best that could be done. While the men would not acknowledge that they were afraid, it was observed they kept at a safe distance from the plate. Professor Thatcher was not out at the time the gun was tested. When he heard of the test he wished he had been out to try it, whereupon Stagg challenged him to make an attempt and said he would give him a special trial. Professor Thatcher agreed to accept, provided he was informed as to what kind of curves were hurled at him. It is not known when the contest will come off, as it is to be behind closed gates.

Coach Hollister still keeps his Northwestern protégés behind closed gates, but reports of the practice leak leaked out and these are none too favorable for supporters of the purple team. Again the usual changes have been made. It is a peculiar fact that the Northwestern team has not played a game this year with the lineup the same as in a previous game. The same men have been in the game, but they have been in different positions. The fine defense which characterized the games with Illinois and Beloit has almost disappeared and the scrubs find hardly any difficulty in going through the line.

G. O. Deitz is now at the head of the tandem. He cannot be anything but a help to it, with his weight, but his defensive work in the line will be sadly missed. The work of Deitz in carrying the ball from the tackle position has never been surpassed at Northwestern, and it was his work and that of Smiley that defeated Knox.

It has finally been decided that Smiley is out of the game for the rest of the season. Hollister has taken McChesney from right end and made him the last man of the tandem, Davidson going to the right end. This change meets with disapproval, as Davidson has been one of the most consistent players behind the line this year. This means that either Johnson or Davidson will be out of the game. Johnson was not out yesterday, as he has been in poor condition for some time. Without a question McChesney is the best punter that the purple has, but either Johnson or Davidson will be missed in the other work. Ward has not been out this week, but will probably go in the game with Chicago.

MORGAN PARK BEATS ST. VINCENT.

Good Game Won by the Academy Boys—Score 11 to 5.

The Morgan Park Academy and St. Vincent College teams played at Morgan Park yesterday with a final score of 11 to 5 in favor of Morgan Park. In the first half St. Vincent started down the field, using a guards back formation. The academy line gave way, allowing the college boys two chances for goals from the field. Lejeune missed both attempts. The academy took a brace, and with long runs by Paddock, Harper, and Mendenhall the ball was carried the length of the field, only to be fumbled. Griffin gained the ball for St. Vincent and scored a touchdown. After this the academy easily made their gains and long runs were repeatedly made by Paddock, Mefford, Harper, and Mendenhall. Oliver was pushed over twice and kicked one goal. St. Vincent played a good game for a light team and made good gains by the use of tandem bucks. Morgan Park goes to Lake Forest on Saturday to play the academy.

Highland Park Cadets, 27; Athenæum, 0

The Northwestern Military Academy Cadets played a walkover game with the Chicago Athenæum yesterday afternoon on the academy campus at Highland Park. The defensive work of the cadets was especially fine, the Athenæums losing the ball within three downs almost every time, and frequently losing heavily. They put up, however, a plucky game. The teams were evenly matched in weight, but the superior physical condition of the cadets was too much for them.

The lineup was as follows:

IOWA IS PRACTICING FIELD KICKS.

Hawkeye Eleven Learning New Tricks for the Michigan Game.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The Iowa football team, which is located at Lakeside, on Lake St. Clair, had light practice today, which was watched by a large number of people from Mount Clemens and Ann Arbor. In the lineup the eleven played fast ball, and with more snap than at any time this week. The men appear to be in the pink of condition, and Coach Knipe is endeavoring to keep them so until next Saturday, when the team will meet Michigan here. Coach "Biff" Lea of Ann Arbor, who witnessed the Chicago game, is perfecting his men so as to meet the plays developed there, but the Iowans are learning a new set. These were not tried today, owing to the inquisitive crowd present. Warner, the tackle, practiced kicking goals from the thirty, forty, and fifty yard lines. At the shorter distances he invariably placed the ball squarely between the goal posts and succeeded in kicking the majority of goals from the other distances. Cogswell, a sub half, wrenched his shoulder and is out of the practice. The eleven was given a run of half a mile before the players were allowed to quit, so as to keep up their wind.

NOT ONE CRIPPLE AT MICHIGAN.

Lea Reports That His Men Are in Fine Condition for Iowa.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The varsity will see the last of Regent's Field as a practice ground tomorrow afternoon until after the Iowa game. Coach Lea will escort them, bag and baggage, to some point near Detroit, where they will work in seclusion and put the finishing touches on the strong defensive and offensive play that has been worked up in the last week of secret practice.

"The squad is in perfect condition," said Coach Lea tonight, "and I am satisfied with their work. We haven't got a single cripple in the lot."

"Biffy" Lea lined up the two teams this afternoon for a scrimmage, but it was little more than signal work, as no attention was given to scoring. Marks has returned from his home, where he went to vote, and the varsity lineup is complete to a man. For Friday night a mammoth mass-meeting is scheduled, at which new rooting yells and songs will be rehearsed.

Notre Dame Scrubs Score Twice.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—In twenty-five minutes of practice today the scrubs made two touchdowns against the varsity. They were aided by Coach McWeeny, and put so great force and spirit into their work that the regulars invariably went down before them. The showing of the scrubs may wake up the varsity men, who appear listless in practice. True, four of them are almost unable to go through the signals, yet the others are in condition. The line is especially strong now, Farragher being back to his old form and Stoudt improving in his playing every day. Coach O'Dea will give his men some hard work tomorrow. It will be his last chance before he takes them up to his old college, Wisconsin.

Illinois Continues Light Work.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The practice of the varsity this evening was the best seen since Purdue. In fifteen minutes the regulars made four touchdowns against the scrubs and showed as good offensive work as has been seen for some time. On the defensive the work was effective, the two sets of backs playing fine ball. The interference has improved wonderfully since Purdue, and with Illinois kicking a good deal Minnesota will not be as vexatious a problem as before. The team leaves tomorrow evening for Minneapolis and will get one practice more.

Badgers Are Doing Light Work.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Coach King is giving the Badgers practically no hard work in preparation for the Notre Dame game. Twenty minutes' signal practice was everything given today and this has been the order ever since the return from Minnesota. Another change in the lineup which may prove permanent was made when Cochems was taken from left end and put in at left half.

YALE BREAKS TRADITIONAL RULE.

Adopts Secret Practice for the Game with the Carlisle Indians.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Captain Gordon Brown of the Yale varsity football eleven this afternoon cast aside the tradition which says that a Yale team shall not go into executive session except for the games with Harvard and Princeton. Fear of the red men from Carlisle resulted in Yale's first secret practice of the season. Captain Brown has, however, decided to make the closing half of the practice every day of this fall open in order that the eleven may receive the inspiration of the presence of the hundreds of students. Four of the most valuable members of the varsity team—Hale, Chadwick, Olcott, and Hamlin—were hurt during the practice today, Hale being taken from the field in a hack to a surgeon, where his wrenched knee was examined. He will be able to play against Carlisle on Saturday.

Hale is Yale's most valuable ground gainer and an injury to him would blast her hopes for the three big games with Carlisle, Princeton, and Harvard.

Captain Brown sent the squad through twenty minute halves, which are the longest the eleven will play before lining up against the redskins on Saturday.

Word has been received from Carlisle that the team will leave its Pennsylvania home on Friday morning and arrive here that evening.

It was plain today that Al Sharpe had been dropped back to the second eleven permanently. He has been the only drop kicker on the varsity all the fall and today Captain Brown began introducing plays in which Quarterback Jim Wear would be used for field goals in place of Sharpe. Wear's attempts today were all failures with one exception. Morris Ely, '98, and Lauriet Bliss, '98, came today and joined the coaching squad. John Hall will arrive tomorrow and take charge of the ends.

The arrival at Yale of George Foster Sanford, the Columbia football coach, started gossip tonight as to whether Sanford had been invited to come to coach the Yale team. The Yale coaches profess ignorance of the matter, but it is rumored Sanford will be found at the Yale field tomorrow coaching the blues for their game with Carlisle.

ARE LAME AND HALT AT PRINCETON.

Tigers Badly Shaken Up in Their Game with Columbia.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Princeton's eleven was badly shaken up in its game with Columbia yesterday. There was scarcely a man on the field this afternoon who did not bear marks of the struggle and several were so thoroughly stiffened up that they were unable to take part in the short signal drill. Both guards and Dana wore big white bandages around their heads, protecting the cuts which they received. One of Captain Pell's eyes is black and swollen almost shut, while Meier, the quarter back, is nursing an injured ankle. Hart, the half back, did not appear in uniform and McClave and Hodgman also were lame.

McCord and Mattis, who were supposed to have been injured severely, are in shape again and apparently not any the worse for their tussle.

The work was about as light as it could be made and it will probably take at least another day before Trainer Robinson will have the regular eleven fit to resume hard work.

Davis, the Andover man, who has been on the hospital list with a bad knee for some time, was out again and received a lot of attention from the coaches. Many think he may be found at one of the end positions when the team settles down.

The students and players have taken their two defeats much to heart, but they do not despair yet of winning the final match, although they admit the odds are greatly against them.

DALY IS CARRIED OFF THE FIELD.

Harvard Captain Receives His First Serious Injury in Years.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Captain Charles Daly bruised his knee so badly in practice today that he had to be carried from the field, and will be unable to go into practice again for some days. Daly has borne a reputation for being invulnerable. In three years' of games, big and small, to say nothing of practice, he has never been hurt enough to prevent his playing. In the majority of the games he has been the smallest man on the team.

Harvard's defeat of Penn seems to have been a bad blow from the crimson. There has been a fearful slump. The team was today demoralized in practice. The varsity, after dozens of rushes, made one score on a plunge by Putnam, but aside from this there was nothing done. The formations were ragged, the men slow, and the signals mixed. Haughton was still on the field coaching the kickers. Ellis was in citizens' clothes, but on crutches, and he did nothing but look on, while Kendall and Siliman punted. The fact that Haughton is at work on this department shows that Harvard is after a punter.

Elkes Makes New Records.

Brockton, Mass., Nov. 7.—Harry Elkes' hard luck continues to follow him, but this afternoon he succeeded in equaling the world's bicycle record for two miles and taking from one to fifteen seconds off the miles up to and including the fourteenth mile. On the first lap after the fourteenth the chain of the motor broke and Elkes was thrown and injured. Up to the time of the accident Elkes' riding was remarkable. The following table shows his time:

Miles.		Miles.
1	1:25¼	8	11:31
2	2:51 2-5	9	12:57 1-5
3	4:18	10	14:25

Pottstown, Pa., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Hill School eleven defeated the Princeton freshman team in a hard game here today by a score of 11 to 0.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 7.—It is reported that the Portland mine at Cripple Creek has been sold to an English syndicate, including the Exploration company, the Venture company, and Werner, Beit & Co. The price is given as $15,000,000. A new company will be organized to take over the property, and its stock will be floated in London.

Trouble Growing Out of County Politics Causes Two and Probably Four Deaths at Anderson.

Anderson, Tex., Nov. 7.—In a street duel at noon today, growing out of county politics, John Bradley and Deputy Sheriff William L. Scott were killed, and John Bradley Jr. and Sheriff Garrett Scott were fatally wounded.

It is feared further trouble will ensue, as much excitement prevails among the friends of both sides.

American Photographs in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 7.—An exhibition of 150 photographs, taken by American women amateurs, which was opened here today, has proved a revelation to the Russian photographers. The collection was loaned by Miss Johnstone, its owner. The photographs were first sent to Moscow from Paris.

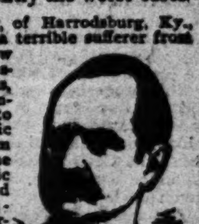
CATARRH

Catarrh has become such a common disease that a person entirely free from this disgusting complaint is seldom met with. It is customary to speak of Catarrh as nothing more serious than a bad cold, a simple inflammation of the nose and throat. It is, in fact, a complicated and very dangerous disease; if not at first, it very soon becomes so.

The blood is quickly contaminated by the foul secretions, and the poison through the general circulation is carried to all parts of the system.

Salves, washes and sprays are unsatisfactory and disappointing, because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does. It cleanses the blood of the poison and eliminates from the system all catarrhal secretions, and thus cures thoroughly and permanently the worst cases.

Mr. P. H. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., writes: "Having been a terrible sufferer from Catarrh, and being now sound and well, the question often put to me is, 'What cured you?' In answer I feel it my duty to state that Swift's Specific is the medicine. I am such a true believer in the efficacy of Swift's Specific that I can honestly and conscientiously recommend it to any one suffering from Catarrh. Have recommended it to many, and am happy to say that those whom I have induced to use it can bear me out in the statement that it will cure any case of Catarrh if taken according to directions."



SSS is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the greatest of all blood medicines and tonics.

If you have Catarrh don't wait until it becomes deep-seated and chronic, but begin at once the use of S. S. S., and send for our book on blood and skin diseases and write our physicians about your case.

ELECTION CAUSE OF STOCK BOOM.

Crowds Visit Exchange to Witness Brokers' Celebration of the Victory.

SHARP ADVANCE IN PRICES

Produce Men Organize Procession, Headed by Rooster, and Visit Other Bodies.

NIGHT DEALS WITH LONDON.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Today's business on the Stock Exchange, caused by the confidence restored with McKinley's reëlection, was with one exception the greatest in the exchange's history.

The galleries were filled to the limit when the gavel fell, and so great were the crowds around the various posts and so numerous were the orders to buy that there was considerable confusion at the opening. Prices for stocks opened at wide ranges, but it was not long before quotations had got down to a business basis and trading was transacted with less show of excitement.

It was not alone in the Stock Exchange that there were excited crowds waiting for news of the opening prices. In every broker's office and around every ticker there were as many as could get near the tape waiting to see what figures would come out.

Produce Exchange Celebrates.

In the other exchanges the joy was as great as on the Stock Exchange. The floor of the Produce Exchange suddenly went wild at 2:30 p. m. Somebody brought in a big roll of flags. The brokers seized them and began to dance around in a circle on the broad floor, waving the banners and shouting campaign songs.

Soon the Sixty-ninth Regiment band came marching into the great building, and the President of the Produce Exchange Sound Money league, Frank Brainard, led a grand march, into which every one fell, shouting and cheering.

A "game" rooster tied to the top of a pole led the van and screeched defiance when the band began to play. The music roused its ire, and when the financiers began to crow in imitation it was frantic.

Crowing Rooster at the Head.

Headed by the band, playing "Yankee Doodle," the Sound Money league and the Produce Exchange swept out of the building and down Beaver street toward Wall street, the rooster screeching all the time.

J. C. Lamprey of the Erie road, carried the big sound money flag. The staff broke, and down came the golden banner upon his head. Four assistants rescued him from the meshes and righting the pole he again took his place in the line.

A giant negro, who headed the procession and was nearly 7 feet too, carried the great silken banner of the league.

"My name is William Havemeyed Lewis," he said. "Be sure and get in de 'Havemeyer,' please; I b'longs wid dis crowd, I does."

Just as the crowd left the Produce Exchange an immense campaign flag was cut loose from the high dome of the building and fell in the air, while the band played "Dixie," and the crowd shouted the song.

March Through the Streets.

The procession swept by the steps of the Cotton Exchange in South William street, where another cheering crowd was waving flags. To the tune of the "Star-Spangled Banner" the Cotton Exchange fell in behind the Produce Exchange, and, filling the highway from curb to curb, eddied toward the Stock Exchange in Wall street.

From the windows of big buildings long tapes of paper came streaming down from the hands of typewriters, who alternately cheered and blew kisses at the victorious rooster in the lead.

With laughter and cheers the procession wound through the door of the Stock Exchange, and President Rudolph Keppler of the exchange seized a broom in his left hand and a flag in his right and acted as drum major, while the shouters circled on the floor of the exchange and the band played.

Cheers for Everybody.

Then, massing in front of the desk of the President, all hands joined in cheer after cheer for every one from Mark Hanna to Governor Roosevelt. Mr. R. H. Thomas, President of the Stock Exchange Sound Money club, led the cheering.

Then, playing "Yankee Doodle," the line of march was taken up from the other door of the exchange, and, after passing through New street, Wall street, Nassau, and Maiden Lane, the crowd of marchers went back by way of Broadway to Bowling Green and the Produce Exchange Building.

Once more in the building the financiers cheered to the echo for McKinley and sound money. The band played "Auld Lang Syne," the rooster crowed weakly once more, and the jubilation was over.

Ice Stock First Sale.

The first quotation made on any stock in today's market in the Stock Exchange was on American Ice, in which there was a sale of 100 shares at 39, a gain of 1¾ points over election. At first the crowds were too busy to notice the significance of the initial quotation, but after they had time to digest opening prices it was considered something of a coincidence that the first stock in which a sale was quoted should be in the securities of the ice trust, which undoubtedly cut a considerable figure in the campaign which has just ended.

Night Deals with London.

When the stock market opened at 10 o'clock today it did not represent the first trading in stocks for the account of New York investors. The London market opens at 10 o'clock, which corresponds with 5 o'clock New York time, and even before the opening of the London Exchange there was an active market in the "street" for American securities.

In anticipation of this, and in the hope of profiting by an early knowledge of the result of the election, a great many traders had staid up all night and had sent orders to be executed by cable in London. As it turned out, however, many of these orders could not be filled.

Advances Sharp; Orders Unfilled.

The market was so erratic and the advance so sharp on the other side that orders for the purchase of stocks given at a rising figure could not, in many instances, be executed by reason of the advances coming before the receipt of the cables in London.

It is estimated that in the neighborhood of 100,000 shares of stock were bought in London before the New York market opened. London has been an active buyer of American securities during the recent advance, covering sales of "calls" made at lower figures. The selling of a call practically amounts to going short of the market, and operators on the other side who were active traders in privileges of this kind began buying more than two weeks ago to cover their outstanding contracts.

In London yesterday American securities were weak as a result of a growing feeling on the part of traders there that Bryan's chances had improved. When trading began this morning London was short, as represented in the sale of calls anywhere from 100,000 to 300,000 shares of American securities.

LOCAL MARKETS GAIN HEAVILY.

Industrial Stocks Particularly Show Sharp Advances—Night Trading with London.

Strength in local stocks was general at the opening yesterday. Though prices were active and moved up on Monday, yesterday's market showed that they had not discounted then the election of McKinley. The greatest benefit was derived from the Republican success by industrial stocks, as trading in the other issues was limited. Sales for the day amounted to 13,957, which is several times larger than the usual business transacted, and ahead of any record for a long time.

Good feeling prevailed everywhere among the brokers' offices in Chicago. An improvement in the trading on the local exchange does not represent the extra business done in the offices here. The greater part of the trading, of course, was in New York, and Chicago houses proved an important factor in the Eastern market.

Several of the brokers' offices were open all night and advantage was taken by their customers of the earlier opening of the London exchange to make a profit by scalping before the New York session began. Astute operators placed some orders in London on Monday for execution on Wednesday. They were helped in their plans by the certainty of McKinley's election, as shown by early returns. Then the boom in stocks as soon as the New York exchange opened assured their gains without any more trouble.

The scene on the Chicago exchange at the opening resembled the ones witnessed last year during the heat of the great industrial speculation conducted here. The floor contained a large number of brokers, and from the opening till the closing hour business was active. The greatest rush of orders was at the time of opening in the morning.

The local issues did not nearly regain the prices at which they sold a year ago. National Biscuit common sold up to 39, where it has not been since last February, on a five-share lot. At no time did it get down to Monday's prices, when it sold at 36¾ on the advance, discounting the election of McKinley. It went to 37½ and closed ¼ above the low price. Biscuit preferred was dull at 92 and at 92¼.

American Linseed stocks were active at higher prices during the morning, but realizing sales before the close of the session depressed the prices to below Monday's quotations. The preferred sold as high as 55¼, 1½ above Monday's high point, but declined to 52½, closing at 53, a loss of ⅞ from the previous close. Linseed common sold at 13¼ and then fell to 11⅝. It stood at the close at 11⅞, a loss of ⅝ from the last quotation on Monday.

Diamond Match was another active industrial. It sold at 127¾ and closed at 127½, a net gain of 1. American Strawboard rose to 31, an advance of 1½. Metropolitan Elevated common made a gain of 1¼, and the preferred was 1 higher. Northwestern Elevated common made a gain of 1 and the preferred the same. West Chicago Street Railroad made a net advance of 1½, selling up to 101½ from an opening at par.

Net advances in local stocks represent the following gains to stockholders of the companies:

American Strawboard	$ 90,000
Diamond Match	150,000
Metropolitan Elevated common	93,750
Metropolitan Elevated preferred	90,000
National Biscuit common	375,000
National Biscuit preferred	125,000
Northwestern Elevated common	50,000
Northwestern Elevated preferred	50,000
West Chicago Street railroad	197,835

C. H. M'CORMICK AND FAMILY BACK FROM A LONG TRIP IN EUROPE.

Gratified at American Success in Paris Exposition—Nations of Old World Greatly Interested in United States Election.

Cyrus H. McCormick and his family returned to Chicago yesterday from an extended tour in Europe. They visited Russia and southern Europe and spent several weeks in Paris. They were absent five months.

Mr. McCormick had much to say in regard to the prominent part that the United States took in the exposition.

"America came off with flying colors in the distribution of awards," he said, "and much of the credit must go to Commissioner Peck. We were second only to France in the matter of awards, especially in the line of agricultural implements and accessories. Naturally I was interested in these more than in the other exhibits, but I did not overlook the general display from the markets and factories of America. We ought to be proud of this big country and its accomplishments.

"We have the eyes of all Europe on us and our work. Even the election did not escape the notice of the foreign world. It has interested them more than one would think. They look for a continuation of the present friendly relations, and they feel that this can only be secured through the maintenance of the present governmental policy by the reëlection of the party in power.

"The necessity for registration two weeks before election prevented my taking an active part in the election. I regretted this much. I had hopes of getting home in time to register, but my plans miscarried."

CONTRACT FOR SHIP THAT DEPENDED ON ELECTION IS CLOSED.

South Chicago Company to Build for Captain C. W. Elphicke Big Freighter—Terms Previously Agreed Upon, but Deal Was Contingent on Result.

The first of a number of contracts for new ships, which have been held up pending the result of the election, was closed yesterday by President W. L. Brown of the American Shipbuilding company. It was for the construction of a steel steamer 430 feet keel, 50 feet beam, and 28½ feet depth of hold for Captain C. W. Elphicke of Chicago and his associates.

The new boat will be built at South Chicago, and is to be ready for sea next June. It will belong to the 7,000-ton class of ships, and will be equipped with quadruple expansion engines and all modern additions of a first-rate ship. It will be a duplicate of the steamer ordered by Captain Elphicke some weeks ago.

With this contract, as with others, the terms were all agreed upon, and the shipbuilding company secured options on the steel which is to go into the construction. Then everybody waited for the news of the election. If McKinley was elected the contracts were to be signed. If he were defeated, the deals were to be declared off.

The first of the steamers just completed by the American Shipbuilding company especially for service on the Atlantic left Lorain, O., yesterday for the coast. The next steamer will follow in a week. The four boats built for this service will get away before the St. Lawrence canals freeze up.

It is said that at present prices the lake shipyards can build fully as cheaply as English yards. If it were not for the handicap of the canals which limit the size of ships that can be sent to the coast the lake yards could now hold their own in direct competition with the Clyde in the construction of all classes of freight steamers.

BURGLARY MAY BE PLANNED.

Women Lured from Homes on Information That Money Awaits Them at Express Office.

General Manager Antisdel of the American Express company has reported to the police what is believed to be an ingenious scheme for robbing houses. During the last week a score of persons, the majojrity being women from the Northwest Side of the city, have called at the company's offices in Monroe street, each one applying for a package of money, which the applicant had been notified would be delivered upon demand.

There were no such packages, and upon investigation it turned out that a man wearing a blue uniform and representing himself as an American Express agent had been going from house to house notifying residents of the money which must be applied for in person.

The manager said that its men always delivered the packages in wagons, and asked persons to call at the office only when they were unable to effect a delivery on account of the addressee's absence from home.

The police believe that the man planned to enter and rob the house when he had enticed the owner away by this scheme. J. McBurney, 665 Jackson boulevard, was one of the complainants. No robberies of such houses have been reported to the police.

FINES WEBER AND KANTER

JUDGE DUNNE ASSESSES MONEY LENDERS $500 EACH.

Contempt of Court in Refusing to Produce Their Records in Police Examination Case—Appeal Taken to Supreme Court—Commissioner McGann Expected to File Charges Against Supt. Doherty—Protests to Be Made Against New Ward Lines.

David B. Weber and Samuel C. Kanter, the money lenders, were fined $500 each by Judge Dunne yesterday for contempt of court. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court. Attorney Rosenthal said that his clients did not intend paying their fines, but would give bail while the appeal is pending.

The two men were ordered by Judge Dunne to bring in their account books so that an examination could be made in order to ascertain if possible from the entries what business transactions had taken place between the firm and members of the Police department. The two money lenders were charged with furnishing, for a certain consideration, the questions which were used at the recent civil service examination for police Lieutenants.

The former bookkeper of the firm, Miss Knabjohann, who is the chief informant against the men, alleges that the books of which she had charge contain entries showing to which policemen the questions were sold. President Lindblom of the Civil Service commission, after trying in vain to get information from the defendants, attempted to have the books brought into court. An order to that effect was secured from Judge Dunne, but the money lenders refused to produce the books.

"I believe the testimony which was offered before us by Miss Knabjohann was true," said President Lindblom, "but it is probable that the commission will let the police Lieutenants' examination stand. You see, we are between two fires in this matter. On one side stands the facts as already known, and on the other is the injunction asked for before Judge Dunne to restrain us from interfering. The decision of the court will enable the commission to act with more certainty."

McGann May Act Against Doherty.

Commissioner of Public Works McGann probably will file charges against M. J. Doherty, Superintendent of Streets, against whom the Civil Service commission has found adversely.

"I think it likely that Mr. McGann will prefer charges against his subordinate," said President Lindblom. "We have no authority to compel him to do so, but there is a moral obligation which may lead him to take the step. Mr. Doherty was pronounced incompetent by this commission, and it seems to be incumbent on Mr. McGann to take decisive and immediate action."

Protest Against New Ward Lines.

The most emphatic protests against the present ward redistricting scheme has come from the Fourth Ward. The politicians there declare that the proposed transformation will tend to destroy their political prestige. The Redistricting committee meets this afternoon and, while the intent is to assign numbers to the several wards, it is likely that a fight will be made on the proposed method of laying the boundary lines. The Fourth Ward men base their objection to the change on the fact that the rearrangement will put their division into three Congressional districts.

Thirty-second ward men are also indignant. They think the south line of their bailiwick should be Fifty-first street instead of Fifty-fifth. Other contentions will probably come before the committee.

TO CHANGE FORECLOSURE LAW.

Realty Men Want Redemption Period to Expire When Property Is Sold at Auction.

The Chicago Real Estate board at the regular November meeting yesterday afternoon adopted the resolution presented by Edward G. Pauling of a special committee instructing the attorneys of the board to draw up an amendment to the present law relating to the foreclosure proceedings and judicial sales of real estate by placing the legal time allowed for redemption fifteen months before the sale instead of the same length of time after the judicial auction.

The plan is to introduce the amendment at the next General Assembly at Springfield. If it becomes a law persons buying property at judicial sales will be given immediate possession, as the legal time for redemption will have expired. It is anticipated that such a measure will increase the number of bidders at these sales.

President George L. Warner named the following nominating committee to select officers for the board for 1901, to be voted upon at the December election: George Birkhoff Jr., chairman; W. G. Jackson, E. H. Fishburn, C. O. Goss, and Aaron B. Mead. Among those mentioned as possible Presidential material are Valentine H. Surghnor and Benjamin R. De Young.

A letter was read from N. Thomasson suggesting that the board have a standing industrial committee for the purpose of conferring with manufacturing industries looking for a desirable location. It is likely that the board will act favorably on the matter at a future meeting.

A proposition looking to a change in the laws so as to allow corporate control and ownership of ground in large cities was voted down. The rental committee made a report which places floor space in buildings on the same basis as ground areas, which was adopted.

PUTS NEW LIFE IN MONEY WORLD

BIMETALLISM IS DEAD.

Governor of the Bank of England Says It Is Guarantee of World's Peace.

AMERICAN STOCKS GO UP.

[Special Cable to the New York World and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Nov. 7.—McKinley's election created a commotion here only second to that caused by Salisbury's recent victory at the polls. It was the dominant topic of the newspapers as well on the street cars, in the counting-houses, and at the clubs. Financial circles in the City of London experienced the keenest relief when McKinley's victory became assured, and England's leading representatives of high finance expressed intense satisfaction.

The Governor of the Bank of England, Samuel Stewart Gladstone, discussing the effect on the money and stock markets of McKinley's reëlection, said: "The Bank of England never gives opinions, but my personal view is that McKinley's election must have a healthy effect both financially and politically.

"I consider it in the first place as a great security for the peace of the world. Here the undoubted belief has been that if Bryan were elected it might mean disturbance and unsettlement in the financial world, though probably had he attained power he would have been more cautious than was anticipated. He had already, I see, modified his silver policy, but the mere chance of his being chosen, although all portents were in favor of McKinley, did have a restrictive influence on business.

"Now we may look to a revival of business and the strengthening of American securities."

Thinks Bimetallism Is Dead.

"How do you consider Bryan's second defeat will affect the bimetallic movement?" was asked.

"Here I think it had already ceased to count and this defeat should kill it. I am convinced on the whole that the election has turned out for the best."

The Hon. Francis Baring, the working chief of the firm of Baring Bros., in reply to similar questions, said:

"The good effect of McKinley's election has been already reflected in the American market, where the prices have hardened greatly. I believe it will increase confidence and that business will improve. It had been arrested to some extent by the uncertainty, but now it has begun to go ahead again and English capital will be more freely invested in American securities and undertakings.

"As to its bearing on bimetallism that is too big a question to go into today. Sufficient for the day is the evil thereof."

View of J. P. Morgan.

At J. S. Morgan's London office Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan was much more decided in his opinion on the result. He said:

"I consider it will be a relief to business interests both here and in America that the election is over. It is true, nobody here who knew anything of the situation in the United States feared Bryan's election, and the result has been to some extent discounted as far as securities were concerned, but the general effect on commerce and finance must be excellent. For the last fortnight prices have showed an upward tendency, and today the general relief is expressed by further immediate improvement.

"As to the silver movement, that is already dead over here, though if it had any lingering remains of life in it doubtless Bryan's election would have revived it. Now it has got its finishing stroke.

"The buying of American securities here is mainly for America, and there has been a steady stream of buying for some time, but now McKinley is elected English money will also be forthcoming for American stocks."

Opinion of Gold Buyer.

Sir Samuel Montagu, head of the well known bankers and bullionist firm and one of the shrewdest financiers in England, said:

"In consultation with my partners we agreed in the view that if Mr. Bryan was elected the Americans would immediately begin to hoard gold, apprehending some kind of silver legislation. That would have drawn on our gold reserves, causing a stringency in the money market. This fear was removed by McKinley's election, and now the drain of gold will stop and therefore the effect on the money market will be good. It will also improve commerce and enhance sound American securities for investors and manufacturers, who feared the possibility of Bryan's election and were uncertain whether they would be paid in gold or silver."

The offices occupied by the Bimetallic league in 1896, then a powerful, active silverite organization, were found untenanted.

Rush for American Securities.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 7.—An unusual number of brokers gathered on the curb early this morning to take advantage of the results of the election in the United States.

When the stock market opened there was great excitement in the American market, with decided rises all along the line, shortly followed by a slight relapse. The excitement continued during the greater part of the day. The initial advance was well maintained with intervals of slight relapses on profit-taking, in some cases with further advances, closing quieter and below the best prices. Grand Trunks rose, in sympathy. Foreigners were depressed, especially Chinese and Spanish securities.

There was continuous and late active dealing on the street after the close. Americans were a quarter to three-quarters above closing prices.

Comments of the Press.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 8, 3 a. m.—Most of the morning papers in their comments upon the American election take the line followed by the Daily News, which says:

"The elections mark the end of Bryanism and an approval of the policy of expansion. There is no reason to doubt Mr. Bryan's honesty. He is straightforward and sincere, but he is the victim of a hopeless infatuation and practical men felt no confidence in him. The adhesion of Tammany Hall is not Mr. Bryan's fault, but his misfortune."

The Daily Telegraph observes:

"America has refused to strike the Stars and Stripes in the Pacific. She accepts and indorses the expansionist policy, which has nothing in common with artificial aggression but which is, on the contrary, the sign and index of her vitality and of her coming of age as a great power.

"She has chosen to go forward, and, whether the fact is welcomed or disliked, when America chooses to go forward she must go forward.

"The result of the election is important for Great Britain. It suggests the coöperation of the two great Anglo-Saxon powers in the far East. This coöperation can hardly fail to become more vigorous and definite. With the exit of Mr. Bryan and free silver American competition will be more efficiently equipped for progress in external markets than ever before. We should say that the most decided result of the elections will be a vigorous promotion of Mr. McKinley's policy in the creation of a great merchant marine."

Silver and Crokerism.

The afternoon papers yesterday voice the general sentiment of England with the result of the Presidential election in the United States. The Star says:

"Had Bryan kept to the issues of anti-imperialism, anti-trusts, and social reform he might conceivably have won. Sound money proved his undoing. He has been 'crucified on a cross of gold,' but it has been much of a voluntary crucifixion. The most remarkable feature is the personal defeat of 'Boss' Croker."

The Westminster Gazette says:

"Mr. Bryan spoke for millions conscious of the tyranny of money in the United States, but he fatally handicapped himself with the free silver craze. His close association with 'Boss' Croker also blighted their hopes in him as a cleanser of administrations."

The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"The result is most welcome from every viewpoint. In McKinley and Roosevelt Great Britain has just the sort of friends we want."

The Times expresses the opinion that had Bryan been elected even all the checks of the constitution could not have restrained him from experiments fatal to social order and material prosperity, and it concludes:

"From that danger the country is mercifully delivered, certainly for the present, and we may hope for all time."

America a World Power.

The Globe, basing its comments on the idea that "imperialism" was the main point at issue, says:

"Henceforth the United States will take its place as a world power. We gladly welcome the entry of the young giant of the West into the councils of the world."

The St. James Gazette remarks:

"It would have been always unworthy of America had the corruption and jobbery of Tammany Hall carried the day, but especially it would have been little short of disastrous to the world at large if Mr. Bryan had received the mandate to reverse the only policy the United States can possibly pursue in Cuba and the Philippines, which is the policy of Mr. McKinley."

ELECTION PLEASES GERMANY.

Official Circles and Newspapers Have Only Words of Approval for McKinley.

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—German government circles are all delighted at President McKinley's reëlection. The United States Embassy today received many congratulations.

Dr. von Holleben, the German Ambassador to the United States, who is now in this city, said: "We all rejoice over it."

Dr. Barth, the Freisinnige leader, said: "I regard Mr. McKinley's election, all things considered, as the best result and more conducive to the interests of general civilization when compared with the results which Mr. Bryan's election would have brought. For the economic interests of both the United States and Germany the present result is also more satisfactory."

Views of German Press.

Following are some of the German press comments:

The Tageblatt—The Germans greet McKinley's election above all as a victory for sound currency over revolutionary monetary experiments, which would have been calculated to severely shake the basis of the entire world's commerce. Anyhow, Germany's policy is to nurse close and loyal relations with the head of a country that is connected with us by so many economic and national ties as is the United States. We hope that during his forthcoming administration all political questions will be solved between the two countries in the spirit of fairness and mutual confidence. Above all, we hope that the question of a commercial treaty will be solved.

The Vossische Zeitung—Germany can only rejoice at the further strengthening and solidification of the economic conditions in the United States. Not only for North American industrial interests is McKinley's reëlection of great importance but also for the entire commerce of the world, which is vitally interested in a secure gold currency in the United States.

The Neueste Nachrichten—From a German standpoint Mr. McKinley's reëlection gives no occasion for regret. Of course, there have been differences between the two states during the last few years, but when we look back today upon their settlement the conclusion arrived at is that Mr. McKinley did not stand in the way of a settlement.

The National Zeitung—Mr. McKinley's victory can only be received by us with satisfaction. From the standpoint of international monetary relations the result of the election calls forth the same satisfaction.

Impetus to Imperialism.

The Kreuz Zeitung says: "The policy of imperialism has received a new impulse through Mr. McKinley's election—namely: the sanction of the American people."

The Boersen Zeitung says: "Abroad Mr. McKinley's election will be received with satisfaction, for the demagogical behavior of the Democrats everywhere was regarded as a dangerous proceeding, and shows that the Republican triumph was the smaller of two evils. We may hope that the United States will become convinced that the system of studied disregard which it has hitherto pursued can no longer be maintained."

The Deutsche Tages Zeitung, which is the main agrarian organ, says: "The whole American election could be greatly simplified by each party making a showdown of the number of dollars meant to be expended upon the election. This would also show the number of electors. But then the Americans like an election campaign, as it is exciting sport."

The Taegliche Rundschau says: "Undoubtedly for America an era of world power politics of the most intense description begins, and, judging from the samples thereof already seen, this will not be a factor for promoting the world's peace. The United States will not show its true face in the Chinese question. We cannot say that our confidence in Mr. McKinley's good will toward Germany is strong."

OFFICIAL FRANCE IS PLEASED.

News of McKinley's Re-election Received with Satisfaction in Paris—Diverging Views of the Press.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune by Grace Corneau.]

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The reëlection of President McKinley is received with deep satisfaction in official circles in France, where he is regarded as the statesman who transformed the United States into one of the great world powers. His reëlection is particularly pleasing to President Loubet, who expressed his deep satisfaction. The French press comments on the election as aiding in insuring the peace of the world and prosperity in America. Several Nationalist papers, however, see in McKinley a menace to French interests and rivalry in commerce.

The Temps says: "Bryan is beaten, but this does not mean that McKinley has triumphed. It is still possible that the new Congress may not have a Republican majority, and that the Republican party has been warned that it cannot play with fire in carrying out the new imperialism to an extreme, and, restrained by the powerful Democratic opposition, it will put itself on its good behavior and arrest the expenses of the ultra-capitalistic policy within and of the ultra-expansionists abroad, which nearly lost it the White House."

The Journal des Debats says:

"Our country has certainly no reason to fear an accentuation of the Americans' world policy. American imperialism has never appeared desirous to don the mask the English press persisted in offering it. It has no tendency to become the creature of the British or any other imperialism. In this matter, as in others, America will act independently, and our policy has nothing to dread from the assertion of purely American interests."

NEW SEEKER FOR THE POLE.

Canadian Shipmaster Promises, if Given Aid, to Reach the Long Sought Northern Goal.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune by Arthur L. Clarke.]

LONDON, Nov. 8, 3 a. m.—The latest aspirant for north pole fame is Captain Bernier, a Canadian and shipmaster of the steamship Scottish King. He says he has been promised some support from the Dominion government, and if he secures the necessary additional aid from London will stake his reputation, his life, and $50,000 that he will reach the pole. He says he proposes to work with nature instead of against her, as other explorers have, but refuses to go into details. Bernier is 48 years old, and has been a skipper thirty-one years. He looks as hard as iron.

Will Make Millions Fly.

George A. Cooper, who, with James Henry Smith, inherited the bulk of "Chicago" Smith's $50,000,000, has found life in the sleepy town of Elgin, Scotland, much too slow since he became a man of wealth, and he has decided to come to London to break into society. He has taken the house in Grosvenor square which formerly belonged to Heywood Lonsdale, where he will, it is expected, eclipse Mrs. Mackey's famous entertainments. He has also rented a shooting estate in Scotland and is negotiating for a country house near London. Cooper was a lawyer in Elgin before his rich relative died.

American Girl Weds a Lord.

Another American girl has decided to take the chances of married happiness with a man of title. Miss Grace Bruce Carr, daughter of Colonel H. M. Carr of Kentucky, was married at noon yesterday to Lord Newborough in the historic Chapel Royal of Savoy. The chapel was decorated with palms and white flowers. The service was fully choral. The Rev. P. W. Wyatt officiated, United States Ambassador Choate giving the bride away. The reception at the Savoy Hotel was largely attended. Early in the afternoon the couple left for Paris, en route to Ceylon, for a long honeymoon tour. Lord Newborough is the fourth member of the Wynn house to wear the title created in 1776.

He is 27 years old, good looking, democratic, educated at Heidelburg and Cambridge, is a member of the Bachelor's club, owns 28,800 acres of land, and is generally considered a decent chap. The bride is described by many as the most beautiful American married in London for a decade.

Popular Actor to Wed.

An engagement that will cause no little flutter in both social and artistic circles in London is that of J. Forbes Robertson, the famous English actor, to Gertrude Elliott, the young California actress, which is announced this morning. The date of the wedding is not yet announced, but it is understood that it will be in the near future. A few intimate friends of the couple declare that it is a pure love match, notwithstanding the fact that Robertson is 47 and Miss Elliott considerably under 30. Not since the days when Ada Rehan played regularly once a year in London has any American actress won such general favor as Miss Elliott. When she first came to London, less than two years ago, she quickly secured recognition. First in "The Cowboy and the Lady," later in "A Royal Family," and "Lady Huntworth's Experiments." Some three months ago she was engaged to take the place of Mrs. Campbell, leading woman in Mr. Robertson's company, and has since been playing in the provinces with marked success such parts as Juliet and Ophelia.

Chile Not Buying Warships.

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, Nov. 7.—The rumors that the Chilean government are buying warships are unfounded. The future President will be proclaimed at a great, liberal convention. The probable candidates are Don Pedro Montt, Fernando Lazcano, and Ramon Barros Luco.

Japanese Actors in St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 7.—The first Japanese actors to visit Russia have just given their initial private performance at the Japanese Legation here. The enterprise promises to be successful.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY PLEASES REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

Business and Professional Citizens Unite in Declaring McKinley's Election a Guarantee of Four Years More of Good Times—Democrats Rejoice in Bryan's Final Eclipse—Believe Time at Hand for Party Reorganization—Financial Sky Cleared.

Representative business and professional men of Chicago, from whom expressions of opinion on the result of the election were secured yesterday, were practically unanimous in declaring that the triumph of the Republican party is a guarantee of continued prosperity for the nation, and a relief to the financial and commercial world. With the same unanimity the opinion prevailed that the Democratic party was done with Bryan and free silver, and ready for reoganization along old lines. While a few labor leaders looked at the future gloomily, others rejoiced in the confidence that the cause of organized labor was likely to be better served by the Republican than the Democratic party. Among the interviews obtained are the following:

JOHN J. MITCHELL, President Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, Rep.—It is a great relief to the financial and commercial world that there will be no change. Many things have been held off waiting the outcome, and every one starting out in enterprises now knows what the future has in store. This is the last of Bryan and Bryanism. What we want next is an election between the Democrats and Republicans, where the success of neither side will upset financial and commercial conditions.

JAMES B. FORGAN, President First National Bank, Rep.—The result of the election will be that the financial uestion—at all events, free silver—will be out of politics permanently. The Democrats will never bring forward the free coinage of silver in any campaign again, and from our standpoint that is most satisfactory. It has been a bugbear, something indefinite in the future, which has caused us a touch of anxiety in both our domestic and foreign relations, and it is entirely eliminated now. Bryan's personality is dead.

EDWIN A. POTTER, President of American Trust and Savings Bank, Rep.—The result is as strong an indorsement as could possibly be given to the national administration and shows that substantial, thinking men have great confidence in McKinley's ability. We may look forward to a period of progress both at home and in our commerce with the rest of the world. The question of the gold standard is settled, so far as this country is concerned, for all time to come.

JOHN A. LYNCH, President National Bank of the Republic, gold Dem.—There is a change in people today that shows they are happy over the election. There is no mistake about its effect on business. Manufacturers at the head of large plants are going ahead and making contracts now without fear.

EDWARD S. LACEY, President Bankers' National Bank, Rep.—I think that whatever discussion there may have been on the stump the determining issue of the campaign was the silver question. The result has shown that the West has abandoned its position on the silver question, and that there was no weakening in the East. The silver question is now out of politics and future campaigns will be conducted on issues which will not affect so seriously the commercial and industrial interests of the country. The retirement of Bryan from politics will be of lasting benefit, not only to the Democrats but to the people at large.

ALFRED L. BAKER of Alfred L. Baker & Co., stock and bond brokers, Rep.—The immediate effect of this most emphatic indorsement of the administration has been the largest day on the New York Stock Exchange since last April. I do not think this is confined only to a sudden rise. It is the beginning of a better condition of things generally, and I think prices of securities will go higher and business enterprises become revived generally. We are on the eve of supplanting Great Britain both in its commercial supremacy and as the financial center of the world. This is our destiny, and although it brings with it many transient evils we should keep this destiny steadily in view.

D. R. FORGAN, Gold Dem.—No political party will ever run against the business interest of the country again. The Democrats have learned a lesson, and after this they will choose politics instead of opposing the busines-men.

FRED POUCHOT, chairman Board of Business Agents, Building Trades council—I am greatly pleased at the Republican victory, for I believe the laboringman will benefit from it far more than from a victory of the Democratic party. The Republican party always has been a truer and better friend of labor than the Democratic party. Laboringmen have made a mistake in believing Bryan to be their friend. Such men are enemies of labor, not friends.

WILLIAM LOOS, President Union No. 1, Brotherhood Carpenters and Joiners—It suits me, for I believe the laboringman does better with the Republican party in power than with the Democrats. I look to see a great deal of building in Chicago next year, and I expect to see labor well employed.

E. A. DAVIS, Secretary Building Trades council—We may have one more general election in this country, and if the Republicans are again successful there will be an end to the republic. The result of the election means increased burdens on the laboringman.

FRANK BUCHANAN, President Bridge and Structural Iron Workers—The election was the triumph of the oppressors of labor. Unless there is a change in present legislative ways the time will come, although perhaps a long way off, when the laboringmen will have to take up arms in defense of their rights.

DR. SANGER BROWN, Cleveland Democrat—I experience a feeling of relief that the result is as announced.

DR. FRANCIS W. M'NAMARA—The constant trustworthiness of the Republican party and its principles and leaders has but received a further recognition at the hands of the people.

GEORGE W. RIGGS, General Manager New York Life Insurance company—The result is the finest thing that ever happened. In my office we had sixty-three men, three of whom were for Bryan. We had accepted twenty-one life risks for which the parties stipulated they would not pay in the event of McKinley's defeat. We had none acceptable upon the election of Bryan.

S. M. FELTON, President Chicago and Alton railway, Rep.—McKinley's reëlection will have a most excellent effect on the business of the country. It will restore the confidence and business activity that we have had for the last three years. The overwhelming majority McKinley has received will forever settle the money question, which in the past has been such a serious menace to the financial and business interests of the country.

WILLIAM BROWN, General Solicitor Chicago and Alton railway, Dem.—Every American citizen should bow to the will of the majority and lend a helping hand to the officers who have been chosen to execute our laws. Every citizen who appreciates his citizenship and realizes his obligations will entertain the hope that our legislative officers will so discharge their duties as to merit the commendation of the whole people. By their election they should become officers of the people and not of the party. I have confidence to believe that they will do so.

PAUL MORTON, Vice President Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railroad, Dem.—The defeat of Bryan makes it possible for the gold Democrats to return to their party and makes it probable that hereafter a Democratic candidate for President of the United States will be a man of such sound views and principles that his election would not cause a financial flurry. There should be two great parties, both of which should stand for the welfare of the country.

W. C. BROWN, General Manager Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad, Rep.—McKinley's reëlection insures four years more of prosperity. The great work of improvement that has been going on on Western roads for the last three years will now be continued, and more money will be spent on improvements and construction during the next two years than has been spent in the preceding ten years. The prospects for business on the Burlington have never been as favorable as they are today.

F. C. DONALD, Commissioner of the Central Passenger association, Dem.—I voted the Democratic national ticket, beginning with Seymour, until four years ago, when Bryan was nominated. I considered the platform adopted at Chicago a conspiracy against common honesty and good government. I could not adopt their creed without feeling that I was either a knave or a fool. Considering that the Democrats had thrown away all traditions of their party, I voted for McKinley then and did so again this time.

J. C. PEASLEY, Vice President of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, Ind.—I felt it my duty to vote the Republican ticket this year because the reëlection of McKinley was calculated to insure continued financial and commercial prosperity to the country. Bryan's election would undoubtedly have been wrought with disastrous results. The victory is more sweeping that I dared to hope for.

R. W. HOSMER of R. W. Hosmer & Co.—The reëlection of William McKinley means that stable and prosperous conditions will be continued in the American commercial, mercantile, and industrial world. It is a great victory.

L. W. BODMAN, Rep.—There is a sense of relief on the Board of Trade that McKinley is elected, that the tension is over, and that we are assured of four more years of reasonable prosperity. Eventually, I think, the grain business will show an improvement, but just now, under the influence of light speculative demand and heavy stocks, there does not seem to be much chance for an immediate increase of trade in this department of business. So far as stocks are concerned, the best judges say we are entering upon a good, strong, bull campaign, and that stocks which show good earnings are bound to increase in value as a direct result of the election.

CLARENCE S. PELLET, President of the Chicago Underwriters' association—McKinley's reëlection is a big Republican victory, and it is having on the instant a most beneficial effect upon every trade, industry, and business in the country.

FRANK F. HOLMES, Secretary of the National Association of Local Fire Insurance Agents—Bryan's weak position on the Philippine question, in my opinion, had much to do with McKinley's landslide.

C. P. WHITNEY, chairman of the Executive committee of the National Association of Local Fire Agents—The reëlection of McKinley has instantly restored confidence and is a victory for good government and the Republican party.

GEORGE BIRKHOFF JR.—Restored confidence means a general but gradual betterment of conditions in the real estate market.

HARVEY B. HURD—I am delighted. William McKinley's reëlection is going to help everything and everybody.

JUDGE EDWARD F. DUNNE—I simply am dazed over the result. I do not care to discuss it.

WILLIAM J. POPE, Rep.—Every merchant who has contributed toward the defeat of Bryanism with all its commercial heresies, naturally rejoices in the result of yesterday's election. Possibly the intensity of the enthusiasm, however, is somewhat diminished by the fear that the coming Congress will be encouraged by the present administration to enact laws that will be against the interest of the people and will ultimately overthrow the Republican party.

JOHN P. ALTGELD, Dem.—It simply demonstrates that money can control the American election. Mr. Bryan carried the patriotic intelligence of America. He was defeated by crime. The Republican leaders boasted for some weeks that they had enough money to carry this election and they intended to do it. The methods relied on were those followed by Odell in New York. He made no speeches. He simply sat in the Fifth Avenue Hotel and gave out checks. In Chicago there were over 40,000 names on the registration list in excess of the voting population. It took money to handle that species of fraud, and, as our folks had none and the Republicans had all they wanted, they were the only ones who could utilize that block of votes. The sentiment of the people of Chicago was more strongly Democratic than it was in the fall of 1892, when we carried the city by between 30,000 and 40,000. Had the fraudulent names been stricken off the registration list we would have carried the city this time by a like majority. The city administration had it in its power to have this done but it did not do it. Why it did not I do not know. Prominent Republicans here told me ten days before the election that there was a trade on here in Chicago by which the Republicans were to be given the city this fall and the Democrats were to have it in the spring. Whether that is correct or not I do not know. I do know that no effort was made to weed out the frauds, and that consequently instead of carrying the city by 40,000 we have lost it by over 8,000.

PROFESSOR LAURENCE J. LAUGHLIN—The decisive defeat of Mr. Bryan indicates that the conservative business-men are not inclined to give any support to the kind of radicalism represented by Bryan. The absorption of the old Democratic party by the radical and Populistic element is much to be regretted. The health of the Republican party depends upon its facing a strong and alert opposition.

CHARLES G. DAWES—McKinley's reëlection is a triumph of sound principles over everything bad as represented by Bryan and the combined forces of Democracy and Populism behind him. It means that this government will move right along at the head of the procession in the march of civilization and progress.

THE REV. W. C. GRAY—The most important result is the rebuke given attempts to create class distinctions in the country.

FRANKLIN MACVEAGH—The extent of the victory and its decisive character is its most important element.

THE REV. P. S. HENSON—I thank the Lord we are delivered from a pestilential raiser of class distinctions.

THE REV. WILLIAM M. LAWRENCE—The country did not hope for the large majority in New York, Illinois, Ohio, and Indiana, but it never rains, as you know.

BISHOP J. M. THOBURN—I believe that the election of McKinley is almost certain to bring the war in the Philippines to a speedy close, as it will be likely to cause the followers of Aguinaldo to desert their leader. I would not be surprised to hear almost any time of the surrender of Aguinaldo to the American soldiers. In the formulation of a scheme of government for the Philippines I think that the commission will be materially and immediately aided by the results of the election.

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL.

MISS BERNITA CLARK DRINKS ACID IN PALMER HOUSE.

Leaves Note Saying Deed Was Accidental — Card in Her Pocket Is Inscribed Lucius Selwyn Clark, 277 Dearborn Street — Her Body Is Not Identified—Supposed to Live in Chicago—Two Other Women Attempt Suicide.

Miss Bernita Clark was found dead in a room at the Palmer House yesterday afternoon. A bottle partly filled with carbolic acid was on a stand, while a glass containing water and acid stood on the dressing table.

A sheet of paper, pinned to her jacket which lay on a chair near the bed, contained these words, hardly legible because of the weakness of the woman when they were written:

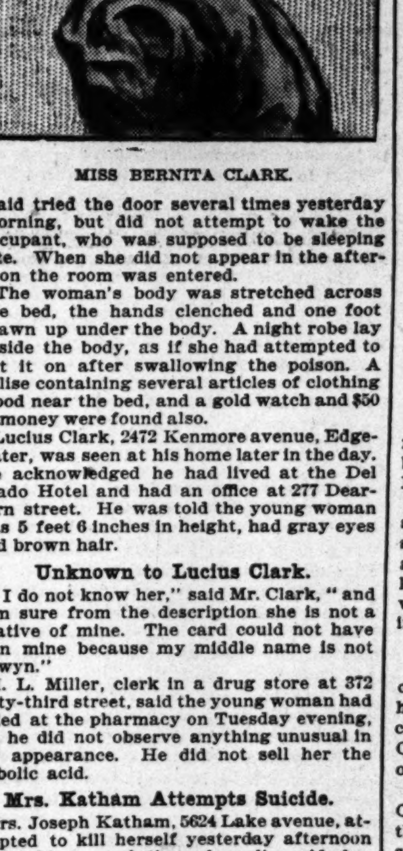
Swallowed by mistake; thought it was a glass of water.

The body was taken to Rolston's undertaking rooms. Up to 2 o'clock this morning it had not been identified. The only clew was a card in the pocket of the young woman's jacket. This was engraved "Lucius Selwyn Clark," and in a corner was scribbled "277 Dearborn street" and "Del Prado Hotel." Below was written the name Bernita Clark.

Secures Room at Palmer House.

The young woman went to the Palmer House on Tuesday night and registered as Miss B. F. Clark, Chicago. She told Night Clerk Robert Mahon that she preferred to remain down-town to going home in the election night crowd. She was wet and cold, but appeared to the clerk to be a woman of refinement. She was dressed in a dark brown skirt, shirt waist, and jacket, her brown hair being covered with a Rough Rider felt hat.

She was assigned to a room on the fourth floor, but appeared so preoccupied when the boy directed her to it that he had to speak several times to get her to leave the elevator. She rang for a pitcher of water, and nothing further was heard from her. A chambermaid tried the door several times yesterday morning, but did not attempt to wake the occupant, who was supposed to be sleeping late. When she did not appear in the afternoon the room was entered.



MISS BERNITA CLARK.

The woman's body was stretched across the bed, the hands clenched and one foot drawn up under the body. A night robe lay beside the body, as if she had attempted to put it on after swallowing the poison. A valise containing several articles of clothing stood near the bed, and a gold watch and $50 in money were found also.

Lucius Clark, 2472 Kenmore avenue, Edgewater, was seen at his home later in the day. He acknowledged he had lived at the Del Prado Hotel and had an office at 277 Dearborn street. He was told the young woman was 5 feet 6 inches in height, had gray eyes and brown hair.

Unknown to Lucius Clark.

"I do not know her," said Mr. Clark, "and I am sure from the description she is not a relative of mine. The card could not have been mine because my middle name is not Selwyn."

H. L. Miller, clerk in a drug store at 372 Sixty-third street, said the young woman had called at the pharmacy on Tuesday evening, but he did not observe anything unusual in her appearance. He did not sell her the carbolic acid.

Mrs. Katham Attempts Suicide.

Mrs. Joseph Katham, 5624 Lake avenue, attempted to kill herself yesterday afternoon by drinking a solution of oxalic acid, because, she said, her husband treated her cruelly. Her brother came to her rescue in time to secure a physician and save her life. A warrant was sworn out against Katham in Justice Quinn's court, and he will answer this morning to the charge of assault.

Mrs. Katham is the wife of a restaurant keeper known in Hyde Park as "Joe the Greek." He was at one time a museum attraction, being known as "The Greek Giant."

Drinks Acid in the Street.

A woman supposed to be Mrs. Mary Kane drank carbolic acid while walking in Van Buren, near Morgan street, last night. Then stuffing a handkerchief in her pocket she seated herself on the curbing. In a few minutes she fell headforemost into the street. Robert O'Brien, 271 West Van Buren street, ran to her assistance, thinking she might have fainted. Then detecting the odor of the poison O'Brien notified the Desplaines street police. The woman was removed to the County Hospital. All means of identification about her clothing had been carefully destroyed, with the exception of a letter which was sewed in a skirt.

The letter was found by a nurse at the hospital. It was addressed to Mrs. Mary Kane, 86 Showlton street, Chicago, was dated from Le Grand, Ia., and signed John Kane. The city directory gives no such street as Showlton street. The woman's condition is critical.

WORK FOR POPULARITY PRIZE.

Young Women at Holy Name Church Bazaar Carrying on a Campaign for Votes.

The six young women who are striving to carry off the prize for popularity in the Holy Name Church bazaar are carrying on a secret campaign. Unlike political managers they do not claim victory in advance, but are working for votes and keeping the number of voters to themselves. On the blackboard which bears the names of the contestants the following figures are given:

May De Souza	218
Anna E. Kempf	206
Sophie Enders	100
Nora Mullen	100
Norma Stewart	50
Grace Cunningham	141

These figures, it is said, do not represent the real strength of the candidates. The actual figures will not be made public until three days before the contest closes. Meantime, each of the six young women is busy getting votes.

Last night marked the beginning of the third week of the bazaar, which closes on Nov. 14. Election night there was a lively voting contest for the Presidential candidates. Alderman Minwegen backed Mr. Bryan, while Alderman Helm was McKinley's sponsor. The result was a victory for McKinley, the vote being 463 to 491 in favor of the latter.

New Power of Govenor of Gibraltar.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 7.—An order in Council, empowering the Governor to expel any person from Gibraltar he judges undesirable, has been promulgated. British and other residents not employed in her Majesty's service are required to register at the police offices and must take out permits.

RUSSIA CLAIMS NEW ALLIANCE.

Agreement Said to Have Been Made to Counterbalance Anglo-German Treaty.

FOUR POWERS ARE IN IT.

Entire Plan Looked Upon as Visionary Dream of the St. Petersburg Press.

CHINESE OFFICIALS SHOT.

[Special Cable to The Chicago Tribune by Arthur L. Clarke.]

LONDON, Nov. 8, 3 a. m.—A special from St. Petersburg says:

"The Novoe Vremya has just had another beautiful dream to the effect that an understanding has been formed between Russia, France, Japan, and the United States by way of a counterpoise to the Anglo-German agreement. The report unquestionably is of the wish-father-to-the-thought order. Yet the Vremya, to add a bit of versimilitude, declares that the publication of the announcement was officially sanctioned. The Vremya adds that the results of the new alliance will become specifically apparent if McKinley is reëlected President of the United States."

Surprise at Inclusion of Japan.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Express, impressed as usual with the so-called official utterances of the Russian press, sagely declares that surprise is manifested at the inclusion of Japan in this new understanding, for her interests and those of Russia in the far East are generally supposed to be irreconcilably antagonistic. Then he adds with childlike credulity with regard to the United States:

"There have been many hints dropped in official circles pointing to the development of more than friendly relations between that country and Russia, and the Novoe Vremya's announcement makes clear a great deal of mysterious correspondence between St. Petersburg and Washington on the subject of the first Russian note proposing the evacuation of Pekin. The impression in official circles here is that by the operation of the new quadruple alliance Great Britain and Germany will be somewhat left out in the cold as far as the future of China is concerned."

Chinese Offenders Executed.

A Times dispatch from Shanghai on Nov. 7 says: "Tingyung, the acting Viceroy of China, the Tartar General Kueiheng, and Colonel Wang Chaume have been shot at Pao Ting Fu by order of a court-martial.

"Chungli, the President of the Board of Revenue, has been arrested by the French near Pekin.

"It is reported that Yunglu is afraid to proceed to Singanfu, while Prince Tuan, disguised as a Buddhist priest, is said to be traveling west to Mongolia."

Killed in an Explosion.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The following dispatch from Major General Lorne Campbell has been received by the Secretary of State from India:

"At Ting Ling the Chinese attempted to steal powder and caused an explosion. Two soldiers and three camp followers were killed and four camp followers were injured. A large number of Chinese were killed or wounded, owing to their wadded coats catching fire."

Suicide Not Confirmed.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—Minister Wu called at the State department today and handed to Secretary Hay the following cablegram dated Nov. 6, 1900, from Viceroy Chang Chih-Tung, received by Minister Wu on the morning of Nov. 7:

"The other day I received a telegram from Chen, Governor of Shensi, informing me that Yu Hsien had committed suicide by swallowing gold leaf, which news I wired to you. I have now received another telegram from Governor Chen stating that he has not yet received confirmation of Yu's death, and he fears it is not reliable. I have, however, learned that Yu Hsien has left Shansi and that the Governor of Shansi, Hsi Liang, is taking the responsibility of suppressing all rioters. Please convey the above to the honorable Secretary of State."

Boxers Shot by British.

TAKU, Nov. 7.—A British column under General Richardson left Pao Ting Fu on Oct. 28, marching in the direction of Pekin. At Tung My Ing the troops tried three Boxer chiefs, destroyers of a chapel and killers of native Christians. The British shot the chiefs. On Oct. 30 General Richardson met 500 imperial troops commanded by General Fan. Both sides advanced for a parley, but owing to an unfortunate misunderstanding an Indian trumpeter shot General Fan dead. The trumpeter was arrested, and the incident was explained to the Chinese, the two forces then proceeding by different routes.

General Richardson burned two villages, the places where Messrs. Robinson and Norman, the missionaries, were murdered, and demanded that the City of Yang Ching should pay 40,000 taels as compensation to the families of the victims. The payment was guaranteed.

Three other villages were burned near Sang Fang on Nov. 4.

ZELAYA TO VISIT WASHINGTON.

President of Nicaragua Will See United States Congress in Connection with Canal Plans.

Managua, Nicaragua, Oct. 18.—[Correspondence.]—There are rumors current at this capital that President Zelaya and part of his Cabinet intend to visit Washington during the winter of 1900-'01, while the United States Congress is in session. It is said that the principal object of this contemplated trip is in connection with the proposed acquisition by the United States of the Nicaragua Canal route.

WANTS FEEDER FROM CALUMET.

Alderman Badenoch Favors a New Drainage District—Cost Estimated at $4,000,000.

Alderman Badenoch is urging the building of another connection between the drainage canal and the lake. He would dredge a channel from the Calumet River to the canal. The Alderman says that this would reduce the current in the Chicago River one-fourth and benefit navigation. An estimate has been secured on the construction of a ditch to the Sag, which engineers say could be completed at a cost of about $4,000,000.

An organization is now being formed to promote the plan.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

RICHARD HARDING DAVIS SCORES THE BRITISH IN AFRICA.

In His Volume, "With Both Armies in South Africa," He Shows a Sudden and Complete Conversion to Boer Side—Found the Burghers to Be Better Gentlemen than the British Officers—Book Is Unpleasant Reading for Englishmen.

THE most significant feature of Richard Harding Davis' book, "With Both Armies in South Africa" (Scribner), is the sudden and complete change of the author's sympathies from the moment he came in personal contact with the Boers. He began as a correspondent with Buller's army and was one of the first to enter Ladysmith after the siege. Throughout this part of his book his sympathies are seen to be with the British, though he does not parrot the British abuse of the Boers as Julian Ralph has done in his book.

Then Mr. Davis went to Pretoria and remained there until the British took the town. He entered the country of the Boers with the usual prejudices against them, but he had not been there a week before the quiet dignity and manliness of the burghers had completely won him. With this change in his sympathies there came a corresponding revulsion of feeling against the British, and this finds voice in his book in a style that is likely to make his persona non grata in London for some years to come.

Mr. Davis found that the Boers regarded the war with a calmness and fairness in striking contrast with the hysteria of the Englishmen on the same subject. "It must be because the English are so conscious of the injustice of this war that they rail as they do at the Boer," he says. Among the burghers he found none of the abusive talk against the enemy that he had heard daily in the British camp.

Mrs. Kruger was found red-eyed with weeping, three days after the Boer victory at Spion Kop, because she was haunted with the thought of all those English dead still lying unburied. "I cry when I think of the mothers and children of those poor men," she explained. When General Botha wrote to General Buller requesting permission to bury the English dead, Buller replied that he would refrain from firing on the burying party and requested that the Boers should "send him a bill for the trouble." Mr. Davis found that this reply of Buller's and a certain British officer's reference to "good pig sticking" at Elandslaagte were the only incidents of the war which the burghers could not discuss with tolerance.

After commenting on the "ill-breeding and callousness of such remarks," Mr. Davis indulges his taste for slashing criticism in passages like these:

> In this campaign everything seems to have been done to degrade war, to make it even more brutal than it is; to callous the mind toward it; to rob it of all its possible heroism and terrible magnificence. We have the incident of the British officer who protested loudly against General Cronje receiving a cigar when he asked for one; of another who distributed Mrs. Cronje's wisp of false hair as a souvenir to his brother officers; of Captain C. of the Scots Greys, who photographed the Boers while the Tommies bayoneted them. These incidents make warfare worse than brutal. It becomes vulgar.
> During this crisis the Englishman did not, unfortunately, see himself as others saw him. He acted, and talked, and wrote as extravagantly about this little war as he would had the combined fleets and armies of the whole world attacked his island home. He stamped his foot and sang "Britons never, never shall be slaves;" when nobody wanted to make him a slave, and he recited the "Absent-Minded Beggar" on all public occasions, and wore a necktie of national colors as though the foeman's foot were already on his shore, instead of seeing, as every one else saw, that after forcing a war most insolently and barefacedly on one of the smallest governments on the globe, that smallest government was giving him for six months a severe and humiliating thrashing.

The actions of the British prisoners at Pretoria deepened the author's unfavorable impression. He says he went into the prison compound with a sympathetic readiness to do anything he could for the men, but their violent abuse of the Boer officers who accompanied him embarrassed and disgusted him. "When one has refused to fight further with the rifle," he remarks, "it is not becoming to continue the fight with the tongue, nor to insult the man whom you have begged for mercy." His description of the pusillanimous actions of the English burghers—the ones who had received the franchise which the war was supposed to be all about—at least explains why President Kruger was not anxious to increase the number of this kind of citizens. Mr. Davis says the two chief characteristics of the Boers are simplicity and courtesy—the two qualities which the British have always denied they possessed.

"We have been misinformed and blinded by a propaganda against the Boer," says Mr. Davis, "a manipulation of press and Parliament which has never been equaled in dexterity of misrepresentation nor audacity of untruth, not even by the boulevard journalists who live on blackmail and the Monte Carlo sustenance fund." He says England has lost its prestige as well as its 20,000 dead. "When Lord Roberts and his army fling out the black flag and go forth under it on Jameson raid—when they murder old men and young boys because they fight for their homes—the best that they can ask of any one is silence as to their misdeeds and that their triumph may be crowned with oblivion."

Mr. Davis happened to be on the same train that took the Chicago ambulance corps to Pretoria. "Already the men had found that the Red Cross bandage had become burdensome and bound them too tightly," he says. "It was stopping the circulation of the fighting blood in their Irish veins. Two days later all but five of the bandages had been ripped off forever. I am only reporting what happened. If I were expressing opinions I would be forced to say that it is not becoming that the Red Cross flag should be used to cover a fighting man." The author has criticisms for other people, especially General Buller, who, he says, was too slow in following up an advantage.

It is evident that Mr. Davis saw little of actual battles from either side. His book has none of the vivid descriptions written by men like Steevens or Hillegas. It is given up to moralizing in Mr. Davis' characteristic and rather intemperate style, but it is valuable as a record of how the sympathies of a fair-minded American went over to the Boer side after he had seen both sides.

Fresh Literary Notes.

Dr. A. Conan Doyle has sufficient confidence in Lord Roberts and his present position to believe that the Boer war was over some time ago. Accordingly, he finished his history of that conflict and sent it over to complete the part that McClure, Phillips & Co. already had standing in type to await the end. It is now all in hand, and will be pushed forward to early publication.

Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland of Boston writes to "The Tribune" to correct a slight error that crept into a recent review of her book, "Po' White Trash." She was referred to as the author of the version of "Joan of Arc," played by Fanny Davenport. She wishes to correct this persistent rumor, and states that she never even saw the play either in manuscript or on the stage.

Color photography continues to demonstrate its beauty and utility in the monthly called Birds and Nature, edited by William Kerr Highley and published by A. W. Mumford of Chicago. The November number contains lifelike illustrations of many birds, animals, and flowers, all in the original colors, with descriptive matter to go with them. This periodical is a valuable aid to the study of natural history.

The social and material rather than the political growth of the United States is the motive of "The Expansion of the American People," by Professor Edwin Erle Sparks of the University of Chicago. The book describes the movement of the people across the continent, weaving in local history at every point and showing how all these incidents have led to the making of the union. It will be published by Scott, Foresman & Co., Chicago.

That amiable and gifted poet, Joaquin Miller, has written a volume of "True Bear Stories." This fact has aroused some speculation as to whether the "Poet of the Sierras" is to tread at last in the footsteps of Mr. Seton-Thompson and other artist-writers who tell animal stories from the animal's point of view. It appears, however, that Mr. Miller's volume, which is to come from the press of Rand, McNally & Co., contains tales all related from the hunter's point of view.

DELAY IN THE MANDAMUS CASE.

Judge Tuley Decides That the Cook County Courts Have No Jurisdiction in the Matter.

Judge Tuley rendered an opinion yesterday afternoon in the case of the Teachers' federation petition for mandamus against the State Board of Equalization, deciding that the courts of Cook County have no jurisdiction.

Miss Haley and Miss Goggin said last night they would probably file another petition in Springfield today. The State board meets there today, and if the summonses are issued immediately a large number of board members might again be served.

The case was a peculiar one and the arguments yesterday almost entirely on technicalities. Judge Tuley's decision was based on the law which says the suit must be commenced in the county in which the defendant resides or is to be found. The collective nature of the defendant, the State Board of Equalization, made it difficult to determine upon a residence.

The fact that the meetings are held in Springfield, Judge Tuley decided, gave natural jurisdiction to the courts there. If the courts of more than one county might hold jurisdiction, he said, there might be mandamuses issued from different courts at the same time, commanding different courses of action.

The teachers expressed themselves as well satisfied with the result of the hearing. "It now gives us a chance to go ahead with certainty," said Miss Haley. "When the case comes up for hearing in Sangamon County we can be confident that it will go ahead. This is in no sense a point of defeat for us; it is simply a ruling of the court as to jurisdiction."

The court had a laugh at the expense of the State board members in the afternoon when Attorney John S. Miller brought up the question of the pay which is received from the State.

"These Board of Equalization members get but $5 a day for a few days' service," said Mr. Miller.

"Is that all they get?" asked Judge Tuley, and then he joined in the general laugh that followed.

The petition for mandamus was dismissed after the Judge had given his opinion. Miss Haley and Miss Goggin and Attorney Greenacre left for Springfield to file a new petition this morning. The petition had been prepared in anticipation of the ruling.

The Path of the Storm

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

It is the Saturday of the great tornado in Galveston. Richard Blount, junior partner of Pembroke & Blount, is surprised by the appearance at his office of his younger brother George, who has come from college at Austin to secure the indorsement of his brother to notes for debts. There is a stormy scene. Richard, a calculating, matter-of-fact business-man, upbraids his easy-going brother for presuming to depend upon him even to guarantee payment, and also for his friendly attitude toward Fred Pembroke, the disowned son of the senior partner. He calls George a hound, and the younger accuses his brother of a desire to marry Edith Powers, his (Richard's) ward, who has promised herself to George. The storm forces them to leave the building. Richard Blount returns for $200,000 of government bonds he had left lying on a table, discovers Fred Pembroke and a tough partner cracking the safe, and exchanges shots with them. George Blount takes Edith Powers from a housetop just in time to save her life.

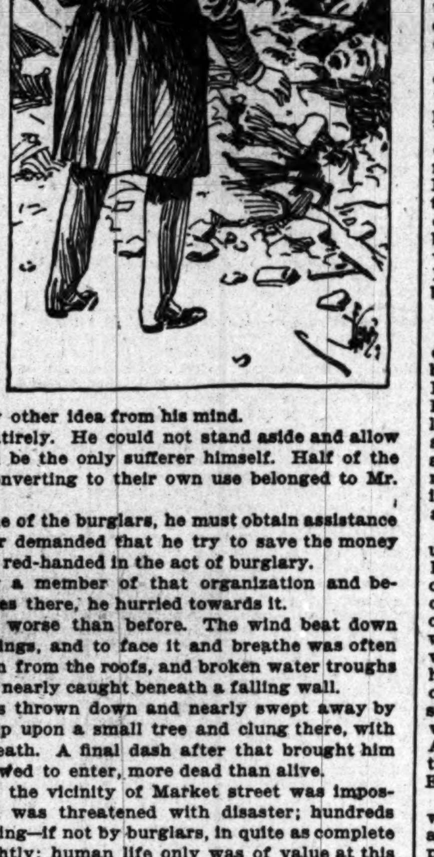
CHAPTER VIII.—"THE DEAD SPEAK NOT."

THE junior partner of Pembroke & Blount was no coward; he showed that when he, single-handed, opened the fight with the men who had taken possession of the firm's office. And the outcome of the affair might have been much different had he not heard the cry.

The man who spoke—one of the burglars—knew him, and called him "Dick." There was but one person in the world who called him Dick, and the realization of that fact had driven him from the field in fear and horror.

He believed the man who had recognized him to be his brother George!

Knowing George's sore need of cash, and believing, as he did, that he had shown ample evidence of worthlessness, it was but another step to believing him guilty of such a despicable deed as this.



George had suddenly disappeared when they were leaving the office that afternoon. Might he not have hidden inside and let in his confederate when Richard and Cawson were gone?

The bonds and the cash in the safe were a tempting bait. And the terrible storm which raged over the city would make the discovery of the robbers almost impossible.

It seems an awful thing that one brother should have believed such villainy possible of another; but Richard had never understood George, nor had he tried to understand him. Richard was stern, cautious, and moderate. George impulsive, generous to a fault, and light-hearted.

To Richard's mind, had his brother truly "reformed" after the disgraceful experiences of his freshman year at college, he should, figuratively speaking, have gone about in sackcloth and ashes for the rest of his natural life. These boys had had no mother since early in childhood to watch over them and "introduce" them to each other, and Richard was so much the elder and so much different from George that he at once laid all the younger man's foolishness and all his mistakes to inbred wickedness.

And now he believed him a thief!

He never knew how he reached the flooded street after the fight in the office. At first he had no idea where he was going, nor what he should do. He only wished to get away from the vicinity of his brother's shame.

But then, after he had struggled on a block or two, he was stricken with the thought that he was running away and allowing the burglars to loot the vault as well as to carry off the bonds. The shame of his discovery had, for the moment, driven every other idea from his mind.

But the bonds and money were not his entirely. He could not stand aside and allow George to accomplish his infamous task and be the only sufferer himself. Half of the property those men back in the office were converting to their own use belonged to Mr. Pembroke.

At the risk of betraying the identity of one of the burglars, he must obtain assistance and go to the rescue. His duty to his partner demanded that he try to save the money and bonds even if George Blount was caught red-handed in the act of burglary.

He was near the Artillery club, and, being a member of that organization and believing he would find some of his acquaintances there, he hurried towards it.

To pass through the streets now was far worse than before. The wind beat down into the tunnels between the trembling buildings, and to face it and breathe was often utterly impossible. Chimney pots, slates torn from the roofs, and broken water troughs rained about him, and more than once he was nearly caught beneath a falling wall.

At Broadway, just before the club, he was thrown down and nearly swept away by the swirling water; but he managed to get a grip upon a small tree and clung there, with his back to the wind, until he recovered his breath. A final dash after that brought him to the door of the building, where he was allowed to enter, more dead than alive.

But to obtain men to return with him to the vicinity of Market street was impossible. His was not the only business which was threatened with disaster; hundreds of other men would lose their all before morning—if not by burglars, in quite as complete a manner. Money and property were held lightly; human life only was of value at this awful time.

Even Blount was shaken out of his selfishness. The pathetic scenes about him made him forget his own loss. Mothers mourning their offsprings ingulfed in the rushing waters and men lamenting the loss of all who had been dear to them made his own mere loss of money shrink to pitiful proportions.

The danger which possibly menaced Edith disturbed him; but he scarcely believed the reports brought from the West End. He truly thought them exaggerated.

As the night advanced, to have left the trembling building would have been to face an awful death. There was little confusion in the crowd of refugees, only a clinging closer together, without discriminations of class or sex, as the waters advanced foot by foot.

It seemed inevitable that everything living on the island must be swept away before midnight. The building rocked like a ship laboring in heavy seas. From time to time it seemed as though the roof would be cut from above them and with every crash of window pane or chimney bricks the shrinking throng thought surely the building would crumble and bury them all in its ruins.

Nearly twenty-four hours after the first breath of the storm swept the city (at a quarter to 2 in the morning) the waters reached their height. Suddenly, as though commanded as were the waves of Galilee by the only one who can control the elements, and without any other apparent reason, the waters began to subside, and in twenty minutes had gone down two feet.

The wind shrieked away into the north to do damage at other Texas towns, and the most terrible tornado of which history relates (most terrible in its effects, at least) had passed over and left the once wealthy City of Galveston a ruin.

By daybreak most of the streets were free of the flood and strewn about them were countless ghastly relics of the awful night. Richard, stumbling through the devastated streets toward the office of Pembroke & Blount, turned his eyes in horror from the denuded bodies that lay huddled as the waters had left them, their sightless eyes staring upward at the pitiless heavens.

In many places the highways were barricaded by fallen walls, and he had to work his way carefully over or around them. Already parties were out searching for lost ones amid the ruins, and sneaking ghoul-like from before these emissaries of mercy were those creatures in whom the catastrophe had awakened no pity but only greed.

Blount arrived at Market street at length, within a block of his office, and stopped with a cry. The upper part of the building was utterly wrecked and had fallen in upon the lower stories.

He hurried on and found it possible to enter the front door. One side of the corridor was wrecked, but the door into the private office was open—just as he had left it. Inside that room, however, he found that one wall and part of the ceiling had fallen in.

He made his way to the outer office with difficulty. The room looked as though a dynamite bomb had been exploded there.

As he gazed upon the ruin a groan reached his ears. He ran in and saw the form of a burly man lying outstretched before the vault, the door of which was still intact. A part of the ceiling had fallen and pinned the fellow to the floor.

"I say, for God's sake take these bloomin' bricks off me!" cried the man, his rolling eyes resting upon the white face of the newcomer. "I've been here for hours this way, an' it's been h—l—that's what it has."

Richard set to work at once to free him. He saw that the catastrophe had overtaken the building almost immediately following his escape.

What had become of the person who had uttered his name?

"Where is the man who was with you?" he asked hoarsely.

"One of these high-flyers—and a sneak like the rest o' them. He knowed all about the vault, boss, an' got me to go in wid him——"

"The hound!" he yelled, finally falling back helplessly. "He's swiped 'em and left me here to die. I'll have his heart's blood if ever I get out of this."

"I'll see if I can find somebody to help me lift you out," the junior partner said, and he started for the street again.

As he passed through the inner room he stopped with a sudden fear at his heart. There was something lying under the pile of débris which had fallen here when the building had been wrecked!

He crept closer, his breath coming gaspingly, his finger nails working convulsively into his palms until the blood came. He saw a man's arm and part of a leg beneath the crushing weight of the avalanche of brick and mortar.

Marquise de Fontenoy Letter.

LORD ROSSLYN has certainly not improved his case against Winston Churchill by appealing to the Prince of Wales in the matter as Colonel-in-Chief of the regiments against whom he brought charges of inefficiency, not to say cowardice, in his book entitled "Twice Captured"—charges that he himself admits are founded on mere hearsay, and that he expresses his readiness to withdraw if disproved by means of an official inquiry.

In any case the Prince would naturally be prejudiced in favor of the regiments of which he is Colonel, and it is notorious in London society that the Prince holds Lord Rosslyn in particular aversion, taking the ground that some of the things of which he has been guilty are such as to render it impossible for him to continue to recognize him. Indeed, it is this attitude on the part of the heir apparent towards the Earl which has led to the ill-feeling between the latter's sister, the Countess of Warwick, and the Prince.

Lady Warwick was formerly one of the most intimate friends of England's future King. But for three years past she has scarcely set eyes on him, and he has ceased to dine with her, or even to call on her.

The trouble dates back to the time when Lord Rosslyn, without an invitation, attended a ball given by Lord Derby in honor of the Prince and Princess of Wales. As I have already stated in these columns, the names of all guests at an entertainment in honor of royalty must be previously submitted and approved of by the chief royal guests in order to avoid any awkward "rencontres" with people whom they do not wish to meet. The Prince, as well as Lord Derby, knew perfectly well that Lord Rosslyn's name was not on the list of invited guests, and his presence, therefore, was a more than ordinary piece of impudence, since entertainments in honor of royalty are almost the only ones in London where no "bringing on" of uninvited guests is tolerated. On seeing Lord Rosslyn the Prince at once called Lord Derby's attention to the fact, who immediately, in the hearing and in the presence of both the Prince and Princess of Wales, called Lord Rosslyn to account, and ordered him at once to leave the house, directing the servants to show him the door. Lord Rosslyn's sisters, Lady Warwick and the Duchess of Sutherland, were both present, and gave evidence of their resentment by leaving the ball immediately afterwards without waiting for the royal guests to go. Nor has there been any social intercourse between the Countess and the Prince since.

Wilfrid Ashley, whose engagement to the daughter of Sir Ernest Cassel has just been announced, is a great-grandson of Lady Palmerston, from whom, indeed, he has inherited the famous country seat of Broadlands, in Hampshire, one of the few country seats in which Ruskin used to feel himself at home. It is a lovely place, within easy reach of London, and the house parties there in the days of Lady Palmerston enjoyed an altogether European celebrity.

Wilfrid Ashley cannot, therefore, be looked upon in any way as a fortune hunter, since he is exceedingly well off on his own account. His bride, however, will have a colossal fortune, for she is the only child of her father and the sole heiress of the wealth of this Anglo-German financier, whose fortune is estimated in the neighborhood of $100,000,000. Sir Ernest Cassel received his knighthood a year ago for his services in financing the Nile regulation works and the Nile dam at Assiout and at Assouan, which when completed will have the effect of doubling the cultivated area of Egypt.

Wilfrid Ashley belongs to a family of which the Earl of Shaftesbury is the head, and at the time of his engagement was heir presumptive to his cousin's earldom as well as to the entailed estates. But since the betrothal Lady Shaftesbury, who is a sister of the present Duke of Westminster, and a stepdaughter, therefore, of George Wyndham, the new Secretary for Ireland, has given birth to a son and heir, which, of course, diminishes the prospects of Wilfrid Ashley ever becoming Earl of Shaftesbury.

Wilfrid's father is the Rt. Hon. Evelyn Ashley, who was for many years private secretary to Lord Palmerston, and subsequently held a number of minor offices in various Liberal administrations. He was the favorite son of his father, the seventh Earl of Shaftesbury, popularly known as the lay Bishop, and who may be said to have had not only the control of all church patronage whenever his brother-in-law, Lord Palmerston, was in office, but likewise to have exercised even when Tory Cabinets were in power, and throughout his long life an extraordinary influence in the ecclesiastical affairs of Great Britain.

The present Earl of Shaftesbury was at one time reported to be engaged to an American actress, a native of Chicago, Miss Sadie Macdonald. But she died rather suddenly, stories being current at the time to the effect that she had committed suicide on his account. His two principal country seats are St. Giles House, a typical old English country seat, and Belfast Castle in Ireland. But, inasmuch as the late Countess of Shaftesbury left testamentary instructions to the effect that all the magnificent furniture of Belfast Castle should be sold and the proceeds devoted to charity, the place has never been occupied by the present Earl.

One of Lord Mount Temple's sisters married the late Lord Shaftesbury, and a brother, the Hon. Charles Cowper, after marrying as his first wife the widow of the famous Count d'Orsay, a daughter of the equally notorious Countess of Blessington, wedded "en secondes noces" an American woman, Jessie, the daughter of Colonel Clinton McLean. Previous to becoming his wife she had been on the stage, and achieved a good deal of popularity in "Collen Bawn" and other similar plays, in the United States and in England before marrying the Hon. Charles at Nice. She is a native of Newburg on the Hudson, and, although left well off by her husband, was guilty of such extravagance that about six years ago she was gazetted in England as a bankrupt with half a million dollars' worth of liabilities and barely $10,000 worth of assets.

Professor Frederick Starr of the department of anthropology at the University of Chicago has been honored by Queen Wilhelmina of Holland with a silver medal of the Royal Museum at Leyden in recognition of his services in presenting the museum with valuable busts and a book containing descriptions of the Indians of New Mexico and Mexico.

The obverse side of the medal bears a portrait of the Queen, surrounded by a border of oak leaves and the inscription, "Wilhelmina Koningin der Nederlander." On the reverse another border of oak leaves surrounds the inscription, "Voor Verdiensten Jégens, 's Ryks Musea Aan Frederick Starr, 1900." The medal is surmounted by the royal crown, and is suspended from a band of watered silk vertically striped, with a central stripe of red and the sides of orange.

The book which Professor Starr presented to the museum is one written by himself, and represents the result of six years of investigation and study among the Indians of Mexico. In addition to this, he sent a set of sixteen busts of the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico, which he made after his trip to New Mexico three years ago.

PRIZES FOR PIE AND BREAD.

Annual Home Science Reception Today in Chicago Woman's Club Rooms.

The annual home science reception, which will be given today at the rooms of the Chicago Woman's club, will be the largest in point of exhibits ever held here. Over 200 housekeepers and cooks have entered the contest and the rooms are filled with pies, cake, bread, and other articles. Twelve classes will be awarded three prizes each of $5, $2.50, and a magazine. Many dishes from the households of society women will be in competition.

A feature of the affair will be the awarding of long service medals to those who have been in the continuous service of one employer more than ten years. The names of over fifty employés of this length of service have been handed in. The medals will enable their holders to obtain the most desirable situations.

The largest single exhibit will be in the class of breakfast breads. There are twenty entries. Thirteen loaves of bread had been received last night and will compete for the prizes in that class. Fourteen cakes and nine pies are an attractive part of the exhibit. In addition there are all kinds of soups, fish, meats, salads, and desserts.

One entry caused the establishment of a miscellaneous department, as no one on the committee could decide where to classify "Hungarian horns." Therese Franz, employed by Mrs. O. L. Schmidt, 3328 Michigan avenue, entered the article.

The reception will be held during the afternoon and evening from 2 o'clock until 10:30. The committee in charge of the arrangements is composed of the following women:

Miss Lillian Gillett,

CROWDS AT FLOWER SHOW

NEARLY 4,000 PERSONS ATTEND EXHIBITION DURING DAY.

New Features Being Added Constantly and Rivalry Among the Florists Is Keen — Carnations to Take the Place of Roses—Two Varieties of the Latter Class, Never Seen Before in Chicago, Attract the Attention of Visitors at the Auditorium.

The reign of the roses is over and today the carnation will pose for the admiration of the visitors at the flower show at the Auditorium. Yesterday's attendance showed a gratifying increase over the previous day. The attendance during the day and evening was about 4,000. New features are constantly being added, so that it is expected that the interest will continue unabated until the close of the show on Saturday.

The intense rivalry displayed by the florists in the competition for the prize of $100 offered for the most artistic exhibit is resulting in some fine effects. Yesterday the judges gave the most points and the honors for the day to Ernst Weinhoeber.

The special trophy, a silver cup, offered by C. D. Peacock for the best twelve blooms of a new rose never before exhibited in this country was won by the "Marquise Litta," a rose exhibited by Bassett & Washburn. The "Marquise Litta" is a new French red rose which is courting popular favor.

Chrysanthemums were the ruling flower in the table decoration contest yesterday. Today white flowers will be used, tomorrow roses, and on Saturday the competitors will use their own taste in the selection of the flower. The Anderson Floral company scored the highest number of points in the contest yesterday, exhibiting a mound of delicately shaded pink chrysanthemums.

The "Queen of Edgeley," a new rose grown by the Floral Exchange of Philadelphia and exhibited for the first time in Chicago, received honorable mention by the judges. The new rose is the exact counterpart of the American beauty in every point except color, which is a bright pink. Honorable mention was also given to Frank R. Chandler for a specimen of coffee plant, a fine specimen of phylanthus, and a group of ornamental foliage. Mrs. George M. Pullman was awarded a certificate of merit for her collection of palms and foliage plants. Among the awards were the following:

Amateur Musical Club.

The Amateur Musical club gave the ninety-first of its series of artists' recitals—the first of the current season—at Fullerton Hall, in the Art Institute, yesterday afternoon, presenting Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, contralto, in the following program:

Aria from "Rinaldo"	Händel
Aria from "St. Paul"	Mendelssohn
Die junge Nonne	Schubert
Wohin	Schubert
Die Allmacht	Schubert
Rastlose Liebe	Schubert
Liebestreu	Brahms
Sapphische Ode	Brahms
Three songs from "Dichterliebe"	Schumann
Lotosblume	Schumann
Die Höhn und Wälder schon steigen	Robert Franz
Herbstlied	Robert Franz
Drei Zigeuner	F. Liszt
Schwanenlied	L. Hartmann
Wie ein Grüssen	Ad. Mehrkens

The size of the audience was such as to tax to the utmost the seating capacity of the hall, and the singer's enjoyable work was followed throughout with the closest attention. Several of the selections had already been presented here by Mme. Schumann-Heink—at the song recital she gave at University Hall last May, and, as on that occasion, Schubert's "Wohin" was immediately redemanded, while the same composer's "Die Allmacht," Brahms' "Saphische Ode," and Robert Franz's "Herbstlied" were received with prolonged applause. "Die Allmacht," in particular, was given with great artistic breadth and sonority of tone, and in the Franz number the singer rose to a really magnificent climax. The pianoforte accompaniments were played with much elegance by Mrs. Edwin N. Lapham.

Tonight, at Central Music Hall, Mr. Burton Holmes will repeat his lecture on the Paris exposition. Tomorrow evening, at the same place he will give his lecture entitled "The Wonders of Thessaly, from the Vale of Tempe to the Monasteries in the Air." This lecture will be repeated on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon.

BOOM IN MONEY MARKET.

DEMAND AND SUPPLY INCREASE ON ELECTION RESULT.

President James B. Forgan of the First National Says That General Business Is Much Improved—Borrowers Are Disposed to Go into New Business and Bankers to Lend—Iowa Telephone Company Absorbed by Central Union—Stocks Active.

Election was followed by great activity in the money market. Banks which had been holding large reserves in order that an unexpected result to the campaign might find them prepared, made arrangements for loaning to customers and buying commercial paper. Country banks which had been holding off also were in the market for paper. That this did not result in changes in rates in Chicago was due to the fact that customers needed more money to carry out plans for their business. The demand offset the increase in loanable funds.

Speaking of the influences of election on the money market, President James B. Forgan of the First National bank said: "Some banks throughout the country that have been holding back have come in now that election is over and bought commercial paper of brokers, although not to a sufficient extent to affect rates for money. Brokers have had to hold back for the country banks to act. The demand is strong, and at the same time the country banks feel free to lend their money customers are coming forward. The renewed demand offsets the influence of the country banks in entering the market for paper. There is no surplus money around to enable any one to break rates.

"General business is much improved, and on both sides of the money market there is activity. Banks feel free to let money out, and merchants and borrowers are disposed to go into new business. The result will be seen in more and more activity in business as time goes on."

Call money loaned in New York yesterday at 1 to 6 per cent, 4½ being the ruling rate. Money closed offered at 2 per cent, with the last loan at that rate. The 1 per cent reached at one time in the day was regarded as due to manipulation, as the New York bank reserves are not at a high point.

Takes In Iowa Telephone Company.

The Central Union Telephone company will absorb the Iowa Telephone company. Stockholders of the latter corporation have agreed to exchange their holdings for stock in the Central Union company. The total outstanding capital stock of the Iowa company is $769,900. The majority of this is owned by the American Bell Telephone and Telegraph company and the Central Union. The two companies were closely affiliated before, as both are controlled by the Bell people. The Iowa company has $200,000 of bonds outstanding.

Local Stocks Are Buoyant.

Local stocks were buoyant as a sequel to McKinley's reëlection. Industrials were benefited most by the better feeling, though some of the other issues improved also. National Biscuit common sold at 39 for a lot of five shares, and at the low point of the day was 1 above Monday's close. Opening prices generally showed great improvement over the previous quotations. Linseed common was at 13¾ at one time, but ended the day at 11⅞, ⅜ below the close on Monday. The preferred was active, but also weak, selling as high as 55½ and closing at 53.

The local bond list was dull in contrast to that in New York, where the sales amounted to the large sum of $5,118,000.

STOCK PRICES ON THE BOOM.

[BY E. W. HARDEN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Price changes in the quotations for securities on the New York stock market today as a result of the overwhelming Republican victory were far reaching and decisive. Throughout the list of securities traded in, and this included nearly every stock listed on the exchange, advances were shown which, in few instances, amounted to less than 1 point, and in many cases ranged from 4 to 6 points. Arbitrage houses trading for operators on the other side had exceptionally large orders for the purchase of securities, many of these being for amounts ranging from 1,000 to 15,000 shares.

Toward the close many buyers of stocks on the other side evidently concluded that the market was due for a reaction. Those who had been heavy purchasers in the early trading took the selling side and disposed of large blocks of securities.

These sales, however, did not affect the market materially. There was plenty of support given to stocks, particularly by out-of-town traders, who had put in large orders for the purchase of securities. In part the recessions in the market which came before the close was due to the foreign selling.

Chicago traded on an extensive scale in today's market. All of the private wire houses having Chicago connections reported big buying orders, and these orders were well scattered through the list of active securities. Perhaps the greatest amount of buying from Chicago was in the steel stocks, People's Gas, the grangers, Southern Pacific, and the Atchison issues. It is safe to say that fully 100,000 shares of stock were bought through orders from Chicago. Nearly half of this amount was taken through one house. Philadelphia, Boston, Cincinnati, St. Louis, and other of the principal cities contributed liberally to the buying.

It may be said in general terms that today's buying was buying by the public. The professionals had the market taken out of their hands, as they often have in times of any sustained movement in securities. In the early trading some of the big operators were sellers of securities. They had handsome profits on opening quotations and there was a general opinion among them that the initial advance might be followed by a reaction through realizing sales.

As a result of this the large operators unloaded stocks in 1,000 share lots, being willing to take the profits that had then accrued rather than wait for further possible advances. The buying orders in were too large to admit of much of a decline, and as a result the closing today was not far from the top figures.

To give a list of those securities in which there were sharp gains would practically be to enumerate all of the securities on the list traded in. Those in which Chicago traded most, with the net advances for the day, were:

Steel and Wire common, 3¼ points, and the preferred 2⅝ points; Steel Hoop common, 2 points; Federal Steel common, 4 points, and the preferred 3⅝ points; National Steel common, 3 points, and the preferred 2⅝ points; Atchison common, 1½ points, and the preferred 1⅝ points; Burlington, 1⅛ points; St. Paul, 2¼ points; Northwestern, 1½ points; Rock Island, 1⅝ points; Missouri Pacific, 2 points; Louisville and Nashville, 1¼ points; Northern Pacific, 3⅝ points, and the preferred 2¼ points; People's Gas, 2⅝ points; Southern Pacific, 1⅝ points; and Union Pacific, 1¼ points.

IN THE NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—No such excited demand for stocks has been witnessed on the New York Stock Exchange since the boom days of the flotation of the securities of the new industrial combinations in the spring of 1899, as today kept all departments of the Stock Exchange at a fever heat of animation and activity. In the opening dealings there changed hands instantaneously with the sounding of the gong no less than 15,000 shares of Union Pacific, 8,000 shares of Atchison, 6,000 shares of Southern Pacific and of American Steel and Wire, and of several thousand shares each of a number of other important stocks.

A large business in Americans had been done in the London market before the stock market opened in New York. Commission houses kept their offices open all night and took orders which were executed in London as early as 3 o'clock, New York time. Foreign arbitrage brokers in New York estimated that as a result of the New York buying in London and the London selling in New York no less than 150,000 shares of various stocks changed hands from foreign to American owners.

But the operations by cable were largely confined to professional operators. The events of the day in the New York market proved that the great mass of outside speculators which is attracted by a national political event, waited to place their orders in the New York market. The professional operators, who have been taking on long stock for several weeks past, threw over their holdings on an enormous scale to take advantage of the outside demand. The buying continued with such animation and speculative sentiment became so buoyant that buying for long account was renewed on a large scale by both professional and outside speculators.

The sudden relapse in the money market had much to do with the renewed outburst of speculation. It became clear that the pinched condition of Monday was the outcome of conservative safeguards against contingent disturbance of the money market, and funds were poured into the market freely. As against the 25 per cent rate on Monday the first loan today was made at 5 per cent, which was the highest of the day. In the late dealings, after needs had been largely supplied, the rate fell to 1 per cent.

The exchange market promptly responded, demand sterling rising fully ⅜ over Monday's nominal rate. The large transfer of stock ownership from foreign to American hands also affected the exchange market materially.

The movement of Pennsylvania was notable even in the day's broad and active market, and Northern Pacific shared this prominence in a less degree. The extreme advance in Pennsylvania was 5¼ points and in Northern Pacific 3⅞. In the industrial department gains were even more marked, but the movement there was far more feverish and irregular. The steel stocks were in the foreground, and many of them advanced between 4 and 5 points.

The bond market was quite as active, comparatively, as the stock market, and was also broad, although the mortgages with speculative value were the most prominent. Several of these rose from 1 to 1¾ per cent. Total sales, par value, $5,255,000. United States refunding 2s, the old 4s, and 5s advanced ¼, and new 4s ½ per cent on the last call.

Money on call easy at 1@5 per cent; last loan, 2 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 4¼@5 per cent. Sterling exchange firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at 484¼ for demand and at 480⅜@480½ for sixty days; posted rates, 481@481¼ and 485. Commercial bills, 479¾@480. Silver certificates, 63¾@65c. Bar silver, 63⅝c. Mexican dollars, 50⅝c. Government bonds strong. State bonds strong. Railroad bonds strong.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The local stock market reflected the improved feeling that comes with the satisfactory election news. Prices, as a rule, made substantial advance on a phenomenally large volume of transactions. Realizing was heavy, but buying on the whole was stronger than the selling.

Leading brokers and some of the most successful traders expressed great satisfaction at the action of the market. It was believed that the stronger interests were buying the stocks thrown on the market by the smaller traders, who realized quite heavily, and that the foundation for a broad and strong market was being laid.

New York bought considerable Sugar common and some railroad stocks. Private advices from New York were bullish.

Home investment stocks were more active and as a rule higher. Erie Telephone advanced 1 to 103; New England, 2 to 126; and American, after advancing 2½ to 132, dropped back to 149¾. Boston and Maine was 2½ lower at 190 and New Haven was up ¼ to 212. Gas and Coke 5s were fractionally higher, and Dominion Coal advanced 2¼ to 40⅝.

The coppers were apparently held in check somewhat by the conflicting reports as to the election results in Montana. They opened higher as a rule, sold down, and then recovered. Boston and Montana was comparatively dull, opening 5 higher at 330 and selling down slowly to 326. Amalgamated had another active day, selling as high as 96¼ and closing with a net gain of 1 at 95⅛. Parrott was up 1½ to 48¼; Butte, 1 to 70; Old Dominion, 1 to 24; Copper Range, 2 to 24⅛; and Centennial, ¼ to 18⅛. Isle Royal was the most active copper on the board, rising 2 to 41, and closing unchanged at 39. Calumet rose 5 to 800 and Tamarack 5 to 270.

Call loans, 3½@4 per cent. Time loans, collateral, 4@5½ per cent. Time loans, mercantile paper, 4½@6 per cent. Clearing-house loans, 4 per cent.

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Commercial-Advertiser's London financial cablegram:

"Americans" dominated the markets here today. They were first, the rest were nowhere. The triumph of Mr. McKinley aroused the greatest enthusiasm. The market, which opened at 9 o'clock, was surprised by heavy realizing sales from New York, but London easily absorbed all these offerings, although the public was not prominent as purchasers. The professionals regarded the Republican majority in the House of Representatives as a powerful factor, and investors are expected to come into the market for American bonds, considering how much they yield, while stocks are thought to be relatively more attractive. The continent did little, but the market finished buoyant and active, although it is said that the business done was much less than that transacted after the election in 1896.

The bank lost £150,000 gold to Egypt and a small parcel of gold was taken for New York in the open market on an exceptional order. Money rates were unaltered.

Exchange—Paris, 25.09½; Berlin, 20.45¼. The October trade returns show exports increased 4½ per cent, entirely due to coal prices. Otherwise there was a considerable decrease in yarns, textiles, and metals. Imports increased 9.08 per cent.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Money was fairly easy. The efforts of the Bank of England to reduce the floating supply had no appreciable effect on the values. Discounts were firm. There was much caution manifested in view of the uncertainty as to what New York will do in the way of drawing gold from Europe. The announcement of new treasury bills strengthens rates.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—Business on the bourse today opened dull, influenced by yesterday's weakness, and subsequently realizations of Spanish securities intensified the depression. Kaffirs were weak. Toward the close there was a sharp recovery in some cases. Rio Tintos opened firm, reacted, and afterwards were in demand. At the close there was a general improvement.

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Americans were animated at the official opening of the boerse today on election returns from the United States. Home funds were in good demand and locals fluctuated considerably, closing weak on realizations. Internationals were dull, especially Spanish 4s.

WHEAT BULGE NOT HELD.

ELECTION FAILS TO HELP GRAIN PRICES.

Up 1 Cent Early on Strong Liverpool Cables and Argentine Damage Claims, but Closes 1⅛ Cents Under the Top—Support Poor and Rumored Shutting Down of Minneapolis Mills Alarms Holders—Corn a Shade Lower, but Situation Strong.

Wheat prices shared early in the general wave of prosperity induced by the election of McKinley, assisted in the advance by higher prices at Liverpool, based on a fair consumptive demand and renewed claims of a damage of one-third to the Argentine crop. But speculators who had carried wheat over this election were prompt to take profits, the outside investment selling continued dull, and prices broke badly at the close. An opening gain of ⅞c was replaced at the close by a net loss of ⅝c in December. That future sold at 74⅞c at the start, declined 1¼c on heavy realizing, rallied ⅝c on Argentine damage claims, hung around 74¼c, and in the last hour broke sharply to 73¾-⅝c on heavy short sales by Phillips and hurried unloading by scattered longs. The early selling was by commission houses, Gifford, Canby, and Schwartz-Dupee leading. New York was a buyer, St. Louis a conspicuous seller. Weakness at Minneapolis and a report that the Washburn-Crosby mills there would shut down accelerated the closing decline. Argentine news was contradictory, as usual, the course of the market suggesting that the trade was most influenced by a London cable to the Northwestern Miller stating the crop had been impaired in quality, but not in quantity, by unfavorable weather. There was a good cash demand, which may have more effect on today's prices, sales here being 100,000 bu No. 2 red and 200,000 bu hard winter, the seaboard reporting sales of 640,000 bu. Clearances were 429,160 bu. Primary receipts were heavy, but much lighter than in 1899, being 1,444,751 bu, compared with 1,995,275 bu, for two days. Shipments were 543,052 bu, compared with 648,852 bu last year. Bradstreet's statement of the world's available supply was bearish, an increase of 1,177,000 bu for the week, compared with a decrease of 1,453,000 bu last year. Local contract stocks increased 164,000 bu, to 10,884,000 bu. Total stocks are 19,686,000 bu, a gain of 380,000 bu for the week. Liverpool futures closed ¾-1d higher, spot was up ½d. London was ½-1d higher, Antwerp unchanged, and Paris 1½c higher.

Corn a Trifle Easier.

Within a much smaller range corn followed the example of wheat, up about ¼c early on the election swell, but closing at a decline of ⅛-¼c. The shipping demand continued urgent, but sales were restricted, some shippers being still on the anxious seat as to a source of supply for sales already made for November shipment. The country is not yet selling eagerly and acceptances are light, but favorable weather encouraged expectations of better results, and there was some selling of December by elevators. The Phillips interest was apparently not concerned to support November, selling some on the opening bulge to 38⅝c, but was most active in buying December and selling May. Local contract stocks showed a decrease of 921,000 bu for the week, and are now 1,442,000 bu. Total local stocks fell off 1,723,000 bu, to 2,751,000 bu. The world's available supply decreased 890,000 bu for the week. Local receipts were somewhat larger—390 cars—with 360 estimated for today. Shipping sales here were 370,000 bu, and the seaboard sold 400,000 bu. Clearances were heavy at 871,820 bu. Primary receipts for two days were 873,411 bu, compared with 1,317,000 bu for the corresponding days last year, and shipments were 1,263,527 bu, compared with 919,741 bu last year. Foreign markets were higher, Liverpool up ⅛-¼d, with spot unchanged; London up ⅛-⅜d.

The close on provisions was about 5c lower all around, mainly owing to heavy sales by Wolff, Logan and a good proportion of the scalping crowd. Logan's sales were principally of lard, a matter of 5,000 tcs, and was apparently a stop-loss order. Shorts were moderate buyers early in the day, but the demand from this source was soon satisfied. Packers were moderate buyers of lard, but the whole market was narrow. Cash demand for product continues good, and shipments were fairly liberal, 7,057,000 lbs of meats, against 7,404,000 lbs last year, and 3,830,000 lbs of lard, against 4,891,000 lbs the corresponding day last year. Hog receipts were light—25,000 head—but, it being the day after election, this was not considered especially significant. Thirty-five thousand are estimated for today. Western packing points had 58,300 head, against 85,000 last week and 79,500 last year.

Oats was the usual narrow market, showing no feature whatever and only an indifferent trade. Bradstreet's world's available increased 51,000 bu, against an increase the same week last year of 116,000 bu. The seaboard cleared 109,600 bu, and 110,000 bu were taken at New York for export. The December price all day was between 21⅞c and 22¼c, the lower figure prevailing at the close, making the market ⅛c off from Monday. In May the loss was fractionally less.

Rye was steady, in moderate demand, and unchanged. December sold at 48⅝c, this being bid at the close. For January 49c was bid, sellers asking 50c. May was held at 3½c over December, with buyers offering 3c over. Private elevator stocks are 47,000 bu, making 585,000 bu in all. Two days' inspection was only 3 cars.

Barley continues strong on light receipts, though two days' inspection, 104 cars, looked fairly large. Prices were not much, if any, changed. Sales of feed were made at 36c. Malting sold 54@57c, and choice, if here, would have brought 60c.

Seeds were inactive. November timothy was $4.20 bid and contract clover nominally $10.00. Country lots ranged from $7.00@9.25. Flaxseed was easy, quiet, and lower. No. 1 Northwestern closed $1.77½@1.78, about 2c off. November fell from $1.78 to $1.75; December the same. May sold early at $1.79 and later at $1.75, closing at the inside. Receipts here were 55 cars, at Duluth 302 cars, and Minneapolis 123 cars.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Estimated receipts today: Wheat, 165 cars; corn, 360 cars; oats, 160 cars; hogs, 35,000.

Snow cabled Bartlett & Frazier from Buenos Ayres: "There was a cyclone yesterday with a hail-storm in the Province of Santa Fé, the largest growing wheat province. Think crop damaged materially. Best local authorities are reducing their estimates for the total crop."

Carrington-Hannah have advices that all except one of the Washburn-Crosby mills will close down within a day or two.

The Chicago market is now on a shipping basis to Liverpool, in which market our hard winter is a good delivery. The Chicago-Liverpool shipping cost, every charge included, is 18¾c.

The Ohio crop report makes the wheat area sown for the 1901 crop short 562,000 acres compared with 1900, or 79 per cent of last year's acreage. On a fair yield this would mean a shortage of 8,000,000 bu. Earlier sown wheat is suffering from the fly. Most farmers tried to sow late, the average date being Oct. 2. Corn yield 96 of full average. Potato crop, 8,460,000 bu, or 76 bu per acre.

A grain merchant at St. Joseph, Mo., writes to a friend on the floor: "I am of the opinion that December corn will sell at 40c if there is a brisk foreign demand. There seems to be a good demand for new corn setting in now. All the territory south of a line drawn through central Kansas, central Missouri, and east from the southern extremity of Illinois has raised a much poorer crop this year than it did last. It is estimated that Texas will take millions of bu of corn from this territory."

There was a sale of a membership yesterday at $2,050 net to the buyer.

A representative of a large receiving house, now traveling in central Illinois, writes that the corn all through that section is in bad condition and that little of it is likely to grade No. 3. There is a good deal of dry rot, the result of the unseasonably warm weather in the fall.

The market for coffee futures opened quiet at 5 points decline and ruled dull and heavy under weak public and private cables and slack spot demand. Cotton—The market today opened easy at a decline of 3@8 points. Favorable weather and fairly full receipts, with no particular promise of frost in the near future, offset the early foreign news, and when later cables showed weakness the local market became quite unsettled and the decline was increased to 13@16 points as compared with the closing figures of Monday. Private cables stated that the English cotton trade had discounted the election results. Later in the day the market became dull, with dealings mostly local, and with both sides showing marked hesitation owing to the continued bug bear furnished by the frost question, it being reported that cotton was still being matured and picked in important parts of the South. The market closed steady at a net loss of 13@16 points.

GEORGE CLEMENTS, W. M.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1900.

Policy of Violence Rebuked. One of the most impressive features of the election was the fact that as a rule the more than 15,000,000 of votes were cast without any symptom or suggestion of violence. In New York, where "Boss" Croker publicly advised Democrats to "throw the judges of election into the streets" if the count did not suit them, the election passed as quietly as possible. In Kentucky, where the Democrats have been breathing blood and slaughter for weeks, there was less than the normal number of homicides for the day. In Chicago, where the amusing Mr. Jones suggested "baseball bats" as a local irritant, one might have imagined that the city was in mourning, so quiet and peaceful was the passage of the day. The people as a whole seem to have realized the weight of the responsibility that was on them. Man by man they went to the polls and voted, waiting afterward in patience to hear the announcement of the people's will. When the announcement came it is true that pandemonium was let loose, but that was simply due to the relief from the long strain and to the feeling that in the opinion of the majority the people had decided wisely. The quiet and good order which prevailed throughout the country ought to be a sufficient lesson to future campaign managers who on any pretext are disposed to advise violence at the polls. In place of following such advice the voters are more likely to rebuke it when they cast their ballots.

Altgeld's Cry of Corruption. John P. Altgeld says that the election of President McKinley "means a triumph of bribery and corruption." Most of the other Bryanite leaders are manly enough to take their defeat for what it is—the verdict of the people—but in Altgeld's nature there is a vein of malice, bitterness, and vituperation that never fails to make a characteristic display of itself at a time like this. Probably if the vote for McKinley had been unanimous Altgeld would have said the same thing. To his jaundiced imagination every man who votes for the opposite ticket is "bribed" or "corrupted" or "coerced" or otherwise dishonest. He is still repeating his senseless and illogical charges about wholesale repeating and false registration in Chicago, which amounts to charging that all the Democratic election officials at the polls were weak-minded or dishonest, there being equal representation of both parties, since they failed to find these fraudulent voters. Altgeld's reiterated and absurd cry of corruption is discreditable and contemptible. The voters of the United States cast their ballots against Bryan not because they were bribed to do it, but because they had no use for Bryanism and Altgeldism. They voted as they did because they wanted to see these things buried out of sight where they would cease to threaten public order and the national welfare. It would be better for Mr. Altgeld if he could understand this fact, which is so clear to everybody else, instead of keeping up a false and meaningless cry of corruption against everybody else.

GROCERY CLERKS' LONG HOURS.

Members of the Butcher and Grocery Clerks' association have been holding meetings for the purpose of influencing employers and patrons in favor of their request for shorter hours and Sunday closing. This association has over 4,600 members in Chicago, and it has undertaken, by means of frequent parades, with music, fireworks, and speechmaking, to call the attention of the community to the hard and unjust conditions under which its members work. Its cause is one that calls for sympathy and reform of some kind. Probably no other employés in this city earn their wages with such long and exacting toil as those in the retail grocery stores and meat markets.

Most of the clerks in these lines of business must leave their homes at 5 o'clock in the morning to be at work by 6, and must continue at work until 7, or 8, or even 9 o'clock in the evening, and often until after midnight on Saturdays. This is an average of fifteen hours a day. They do not even have Sundays, for they must work from 7 o'clock to noon on Sunday. It is not strange that these men complain bitterly of having no time in which to enjoy their homes or families. As one of them says, the clerk kisses his sleeping babies good-by in the morning and does not see them again until late at night, when they are again asleep. There is no church and no recreation for these men, for they are too much exhausted to go anywhere when they reach home. The modern labor reforms, which have brought shorter hours and better wages to almost every other class of employés, have left the grocery and butcher clerks in as hard lines as those of a century ago.

The fault lies with the public more than with the employers, for the proprietors of the markets and grocery stores are trying to help the clerks in their movement. The housewife, with her own responsibilities to look after, gives little thought to the troubles of clerks. She wishes to be able to get her meat and groceries at any hour of the day or evening, or even on Sunday. To some extent it seems inevitable that the hours of the grocer must be longer than those of the dry goods dealer. Yet the hours can be shortened, and they would be if the proprietors would act in concert. The trouble is that when one keeps open evenings or Sundays they all think they must do so for fear of losing trade. The clerks are the ones who suffer most from this jealous rivalry.

Since the business is easily learned it will always be crowded in such a way as to keep wages comparatively low. The only hope of the clerks is in shorter hours, and patrons should do whatever they can to help them to secure this slight alleviation of their hard lot. The closing of the stores and markets all day on Sunday would be the first step in the right direction.

GOVERNOR YATES AND HIS VOTE.

Judge Yates' vote falls short of that of President McKinley. He is not the only Gubernatorial candidate who has failed to keep up with the head of the ticket. That which has happened in Illinois has happened in New York and Michigan also and probably in many other States. The greater vote for Democratic State tickets is explainable to some extent by the fact that many gold Democrats voted for Republican Presidential Electors and stopped there.

While this explains the discrepancy between Presidential and Gubernatorial votes in a number of States, it does not do so wholly in Illinois. Judge Yates suffered not merely from the scratching of the gold Democrats but from other causes.

One of them was an attempt to create prejudice against him on the score of prohibitionism, he being in practice a teetotaler, though never an advocate of political prohibition.

An effort was made to persuade the voters that he was dominated by the State and county "machine," which is not true and THE TRIBUNE believes never will be true.

It was claimed also that he would not respond to the demands of the pseudo-reformers in Cook County—those self-appointed guardians of the political morals of the State of Illinois and of the nation who exalt themselves in order that others may be abased.

The mock "reformers" have injured their cause more by their unnecessary warfare upon Judge Yates, against whom not one thing could honestly be alleged, than by anything they have done of late years. Judge Yates is a man of irreproachable personal and public character. He had met every reasonable demand made on him. His ability and fitness for the office are unquestionable. He had offered the most positive assurances that he would, to the extent of his ability, give the State an efficient administration. But he was "scratched" to some extent in pure wantonness by men who wished to show their power rather than to bring about pure government.

They aimed at Judge Yates' defeat to gratify personal pride and self-conceit. They did that disregarding the implied pledges that if he could give satisfactory assurances regarding some specified public questions he would have the support at least of the members of his own party who made these demands. It does not appear that he had it. It was to be expected, as has happened to every Governor for the last twenty years—Oglesby, Fifer, and Tanner—that he would run behind the Presidential candidate. That he should suffer from the odium attaching to the Tanner administration is not to be wondered at.

But he should have been spared the treachery of pretended friends—members of his own party—who had not prior to last Tuesday and have not now one decent reason to advance for refusing to support him.

THAT RENEGADE PETTIGREW.

On March 4 next Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota will leave the Senate forever. None will regret his departure. All Republicans will rejoice over it and be "exceeding glad." In 1895 a Republican Legislature reëlected the perfidious one Senator. The following year he deserted his party on the silver question. He did so not because he believed in free coinage but because he believed that would be the winning side. Like many a renegade before him he made a mistake in his calculations.

Like other renegades he became a more virulent and hateful opponent of the party he had left than the men who had always been fighting it. He espoused the cause of anti-expansion and Aguinaldo with special energy and vindictiveness because it was so anti-Republican. He declared that he was "ashamed of his country." He has been for over four years more vicious and politically "mean" than any of the men who left the party when he did or who have left it since.

After the close of the coming short session Pettigrew will cease to froth and foam and spew out his venom in the United States Senate. No Republican nor any Democratic member of that body will feel any personal sorrow over his departure. It will mean to them the loss of an anti-Republican vote, but it will rid them of the presence of a man they despise personally, politically, and in every other way.

South Dakota has been redeemed. That State will take a place where it belongs among the agricultural communities which are on the right side on the currency question and all questions of foreign policy, and which cannot be turned from the right path by false issues. Furthermore, South Dakota will have hereafter a Republican Senator to represent it instead of a furious apostate—neither flesh, fowl, nor good red herring.

THE GERRYMANDERED APPORTIONMENT.

Cook County gives McKinley a plurality of 20,000 and Lake County one of 3,000. These two counties elect seven Congressmen. Of the seven the Republicans have elected two by large majorities and one by a trifling majority, while their opponents have elected four, being at least one more than they are fairly entitled to.

This result shows the injustice of the gerrymandered apportionment of 1893. Its wrongfulness was obscured in 1894, 1896, and 1898, owing to the abnormally large vote cast for Republican candidates in those years, and especially in the first two. This year, when conditions in the City of Chicago are more normal than they have been for some time, it is easy to see how the Republican wards and towns have been lumped together to make two overwhelmingly Republican districts and thus make it possible for the Democrats to carry the remainder, even when they are in a minority in the county.

It will be the duty of the General Assembly, which will meet next January, to rectify the wrong committed during the reign of Altgeld by making a fair Congressional as well as legislative apportionment. Whether it will do so depends on the political complexion of the Lower House, which is not yet positively determined. If controlled by the Democrats they will be inclined to defeat any apportionment measure, even though it be a really fair one, which is urged by the Republicans, because it will mean the loss of an unfair advantage which is enjoyed now.

If the newly elected General Assembly does not reapportion the State because of a deadlock between the two Houses, as was the case in 1891, then the Congressional elections to be held two years hence will be held under the present apportionment. In that event the two additional members the State will gain under the last census will have to be elected at large by the vote of the whole State. Those two the Republicans should be able to elect, thus making good in part the losses due to an inequitable apportionment.

THE DEFEAT OF LORIMER.

THE TRIBUNE grieves over the defeat of Congressman Lorimer, but it does so decorously and mildly and not as one that refuseth to be comforted. Its sorrow is neither so loud nor so deep as that of Rachael weeping over her children. Mr. Lorimer is a more experienced and abler man than the Democrat who is to succeed him—but there will be many able and experienced Republicans in the next House. His defeat is the loss of a Republican vote—but the Republican majority will be large enough without his vote. It is not well that the Republicans should be too strong in the House. Excessive strength is a source of danger sometimes.

From the defeat of Lorimer the consoling reflection may be extracted that it may be followed by a disruption of the Cook County "machine" and a reorganization of the working Republican forces in this county. The Democracy is to be reorganized in the nation as a consequence of the downfall of Bryan. New and more acceptable men are to come to the front. Perhaps the Republicans of Cook County will be as fortunate as the Democrats are to be. They feel the need of new leaders and new political methods. They especially need harmony and with the present vindictive and rough-shod methods they cannot have it.

CITIES AS STORM CENTERS.

In all the large centers of population Mr. Bryan made urgent and incessant appeals to the discontented, and endeavored to excite class hatred for his own political benefit. He was successful in this in a measure, especially in Chicago, New York, and Boston. There he made heavy gains. In this city, for instance, he got 39,000 votes more than he did in 1896. His inflammatory policy stood him in better stead here, perhaps, because there have been long continued strikes, which have added to the number of the dissatisfied voters who favor "change for the sake of change."

From the nature of the case there are in this, as in every other American or foreign city—in New York or Berlin, London or Paris—large numbers of people who are discontented. They are not prosperous in their circumstances, while all around them they see others who are. While the men who are unprosperous often are responsible for their unfortunate condition, they will not admit it, but prefer to believe that luck is against them or that they have not been treated fairly by those who are better off than themselves. They are always in favor of a change—of a new deal in government—hoping that their circumstances may be improved thereby.

It is useless to appeal to such people to "let well enough alone." Their answer is that there is no "well enough" for them at that time. They will admit that prosperity is dwelling with others, but will deny that it has visited them. If they are unable to deny that they are a little better off than they were four years before they will argue that they ought to be much better off, and that a change will bring to them the betterment they are entitled to. If they admit that they have steady work and get living wages, they will complain that they have to live from hand to mouth and are unable to save anything.

These answers and arguments are too often prompted by a spirit of bitter envy of those who are more fortunate or deserving than themselves. The men who have savings bank deposits, paid-up life insurance policies, or little homes of their own, the product of their unwearied labor and their frugality, are not admired and their example imitated by fellow-workmen in whose hearts envy and discontent have an abiding place. The latter covet the prosperity of others, but will not work for it. They are always ready to listen to the demagogue, whether he be German, Englishman, Frenchman, or Nebraskan, who says they shall have plenty if they will follow him.

Mr. Bryan appealed to and fostered this spirit of envy and hatred. He told the unprosperous that they were so because they had been unjustly treated. To him all who were prosperous were undeserving and all who were earning little were injured and deserving. He had frowns for the contented of the community and smiles for the discontented. Thus he gained many votes in New York, Boston, and Chicago. It may be said that Croker helped him greatly in the first-named city, but there is no Croker in Chicago, and yet his vote is 26 per cent greater than in 1896.

But the votes which Mr. Bryan got by his inflammatory appeals to the less fortunate, who are discontented with existing conditions, and who say they will not "let ill enough alone," were paid for at a high price. He forfeited the respect of the contented members of the community, who are in the majority. He lost votes everywhere outside these cities—on the farms and in the villages and among thoughtful men in the cities—by the sinister arguments he used. He lost more votes than he made, for the people of the United States have not become so degenerate that an appeal to the baser passions of mankind, such as envy, hatred, and all uncharitableness, can help a candidate as much as it hurts him.

Mr. Boutell's Re-election to Congress. President McKinley failed to carry the Sixth Congressional District, but Mr. Henry S. Boutell was able to carry it and will again be its Representative in Congress. This triumph is due partly to Mr. Boutell's merits as a campaigner. It is doubtful whether any Representative with a large city constituency ever before made so thorough a canvass as did Mr. Boutell. No other man ever came into personal contact with so many of his constituents and by his bearing and his manner made so favorable an impression upon them. It is not entirely to this admirable canvass, however, that his success is due. His reëlection is to be ascribed chiefly to his merits—to his personal ability and to the usefulness which he has displayed as a Congressman. He is one of the Illinois members of the House whom his State and his party could ill afford to lose. Mr. Boutell is one of those indomitable fighters who refuse to give up and who will not "stay dead" even when their opponents think they have killed them off. He had a hard fight when he was first chosen at a special election in 1897 by less than 900 majority. He had a desperate struggle in the campaign of two years ago, and an even more bitter one this year. He has again emerged successfully, adding to his other laurels that of having gone ahead of the Presidential candidate. While Mr. McKinley is 800 votes behind, Mr. Boutell is 600 ahead. There will be no member in the next House of Representatives who will have gained his seat by virtue of a more exceptional and effective canvass than Mr. Henry S. Boutell, and every Republican in the district feels as if the reëlection of the Congressman were a personal triumph.

FOLLY OF DEMOCRATIC FORECASTING.

The uncertainty of Democratic forecasting never was more clearly demonstrated than in the recent election. It is to be presumed that the forecasters, men of political experience who have been actively managing a campaign, do not make their oracular and cocksure predictions merely for the purpose of stimulating and encouraging voters, but that they have more or less of faith in their forecastings, and that these represent their best judgment, based upon canvasses, meetings, processions, and reports from State and county committees.

The result in New York and Illinois is significant in its demonstration of the folly of forecasting. Mr. Croker is a professional politician, following politics largely for a living. He should know about what the State of New York would do and he should know almost exactly what the City of New York would do, and yet he forecasted that the State would give Bryan from 30,000 to 50,000, whereas it gives McKinley about 150,000, and that the city would give Bryan 80,000, whereas it fell short of that by about 45,000. Mr. McGuire, chairman of the Democratic State committee, was even farther away from the truth than Croker, for he placed Bryan's plurality in the State at 75,000. The Republican managers were more accurate forecasters. Mr. Odell gave McKinley 100,000 plurality in the State and claimed that the State ticket would be well up to the national ticket. Senator Platt proved himself the most sagacious prophet of them all when he placed McKinley's plurality at 125,000.

In Illinois the Republicans proved to be the most reliable forecasters. Mr. Rowe, the chairman of the Republican State committee, claimed 103,000 for McKinley, which is not far out of the way, while Mr. Watson, chairman of the Democratic State committee, assured the public that Illinois was safe for Bryan by 60,000. Mr. Yates was an accurate guesser when he gave McKinley 100,000. Mr. Burke is supposed to know Cook County from "lid to lid," and announced with confidence that it would give Bryan 20,000. If he had said McKinley instead of Bryan he would have been a prophet with honor. Mr. Jamieson is also supposed to know Cook County, and yet in his forecast he was 80,000 or more out of the way.

The chairman of the Democratic National committee, as he reads his forecast in the cold light of the returns, must be convinced either that there was an unknown quantity in the problem or that he made the most astounding error ever committed by a forecaster. On the eve of the election he sounded his trumpet and announced that "the Democrats will hold all the States they carried in 1896, with the possible exception of Wyoming." This they failed to do. With a triumphant flourish he adds: "We will also carry New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois." They did not carry one of these States. If Kentucky is declared for Bryan it will be by the grossest cheating. Finally, he winds up with this extraordinary peroration: "The States that will vote for Bryan will show that the people have confidence in him from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the northernmost to the southernmost boundaries of the republic." Mr. Payne of the Republican National committee, on the other hand, has the gift of genuine prophecy. He said in a dispatch to the editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE:

> President McKinley will be reëlected by a larger electoral vote than he had in 1896. He will carry every State he carried four years ago, and, in addition, will have twenty-two electoral votes which were cast for Bryan in 1896. McKinley is likely to make larger gains, but he is sure of having the twenty-two votes in the States of Kansas, South Dakota, Washington, Wyoming, and the one vote in California Bryan got in 1896.

RE-ELECT SENATOR CULLOM.

The Republicans will have a majority on joint ballot in the next General Assembly of Illinois. They will be able to elect a Republican Senator. There is but one man whom they should consider, and that is Senator Cullom. He is entitled to a reëlection, and it will now be in the power of his party to give him this merited honor. His record in the Senate has been honorable to himself and useful to his State and to his party. He emphatically deserves another term, and it is to the interest of the people of Illinois that he should be his own successor. No other man taking his place could have the influence which he has possessed for the last ten or twelve years. He enjoys the confidence of the administration and of his brother Senators. He occupies important positions on important committees. He has been faithful to all the trusts reposed in him and he enjoys deservedly the confidence and esteem of the people. The last Republican State convention declared in favor of his reëlection.

The Republicans of Illinois demand the reëlection of Senator Cullom, both because he is entitled to it and because he is the most valuable man for the place. It is almost certain now that he will command a majority of the votes in the Republican caucus, and no Republican member can afford to disregard the vote of a majority of the men of his own party elected to both Houses. If Shelby M. Cullom is returned to the Senate he will be for the next six years what he has been during his long period of service in that body—a credit to Illinois and to the Republican party, continuing to render honorable and efficient service to both, and rounding out his long and illustrious career in the public service with the ripened powers of his many years of experience and patriotic activity.

AND, as four years ago,
The next day the Snow Fell.

AT an early hour yesterday morning, according to reports, the Democratic donkey shook off its free silver nosebag and stamped on it.

IT will be better for Chairman Jones' peace of mind if he can bring himself to the point of conceding the election of Mr. McKinley before the 4th of next March, though it will make no difference in the inauguration ceremonies.

THE country is emphatically of the opinion that Mr. Bryan, considered as an applicant for a job as hired man, is not worth $50,000 a year.

IT is always likely to be fatal to the calculations of party leaders when the voters decide to mix a little of their religion with their politics.

CONCERNING Mr. Pettigrew it may be observed that Mr. Hanna of Cleveland, O., generally gets what he goes gunning after.

THE next national platform of the Democratic party will not "hereby reaffirm." It will "recognize the fact."

PROBABLY it will be months before Adlai Stevenson is free from disturbing nightmares in which he will "see in the near future a crisis approaching" that "unnerves" him.

IN its declaration of principles in 1904 the Democracy may go so far as to indorse the crime of '73.

BY comparing our respectable pluralities, Mr. Bryan, perhaps you will see that it pays better for a candidate to answer all proper questions in good faith.—Roosevelt.

ALL day yesterday the Hon. John P. Altgeld was exerting a pressure of 100 pounds of hatred to the square inch.

WHEN he went to the polls last Tuesday Governor Pingree was compelled to quit holding his nose in order to mark his ballot.

THERE is a general eagerness among Republicans to concede Nevada to Bryan as being about his size.

"I'm betting that, one by one,
I'll bag the ducks that Bryan
Has winged with his little gun."

Dim Ray of Comfort.

It was a few hours after the effects of the landslide had begun to be apparent in the returns.

The chiefs of the defeated party had assembled at the official headquarters, where they sat in monotonous silence, broken at intervals by the arrival of bulletins from the telegraph office in the back room, each a little more depressing than those that had preceded it, and the gloom was thick enough to cut with a knife.

Then came the following bit of news:

But the gloom soon settled down upon the assembled leaders again, and when a few friends from the outside came in for a crumb of comfort there was none to give them.

A bright thought, however, struck the principal magnate.

"Billiams," he said, in a hoarse whisper, turning to the man who appeared to be acting as secretary, "read that bulletin from Richland County, Wis., again!"

Which Billiams did.

PERSONALS.

Lord James of Hereford is the only man living who has refused the seals of the British Lord Chancellorship, the highest honor an English lawyer can hope to receive. He is a wealthy man and has had an immense law practice in his time.

Lord Wolseley, when he is free from his duties as Commander-in-Chief of the British army, will begin preparations for an extensive tour through Canada. He has long had a desire to go over the scenes of his early exploits on the Red River expedition.

The arrangements for carrying out Alfred Nobel's testamentary dispositions regarding his property are now complete, and it is announced that about $37,500 will be distributed annually in prizes to inventors, savants, authors, and promoters of peace.

The people of Swarthmore, Pa., have decided to build a suitable monument to the memory of Benjamin West, the painter, who was born there 162 years ago. The Pennsylvania railroad company has agreed to put in the foundation, which is to stand near the old West homestead.

An interesting relic of the Earl of Beaconsfield was sold at auction in the Parish of Hughenden, Bucks, England, recently. It was the two-wheeled pony chaise in which the Conservative leader was accustomed to take his country drives in company with Lady Beaconsfield when in residence at Hughenden Manor. The vehicle, old-fashioned in design, was knocked down for the small sum of 29s ($7.25), the purchaser being a local dealer.

ONLY ONE THING TO DO.

"Ah, my noble boy," sighed the Marquis as he ran his hand through his perfumed pompadour, "I alwis said you sold yourself too sheep—much too sheep."

"Nevaire mind, mon fathaire," said the noble boy, "eet is too late now to cr-r-y ovaire zee speelt meelk. We moost make zee best of a bad bar-r-gain. I did not come ovaire zis morning to talk of my meesfortunes. I came to ask of you a gr-r-reat favaire."

The white-haired Marquis frowned.

"You know my circumstances," he coldly said. "I can lend you nossing."

"I haf not came for money," exclaimed the Count. "I am not such a beeg fool as zat, mon fathaire. It is somesing deeferent. I owe every laundryman in Paree. Not one veel tr-r-rust me now. The venerable Marquis shook his head.

"Eet ees quite eempossible what you ask," he said. "We owe Mathilde quite too much as eet ees, and if we added to her wor-r-rk she would leave us wisout a moment's warning."

There was a dramatic silence.

"Parbleu," said the Count as he tapped the edge of his collar with his forefinger, "I haf worn zis collaire one—two—tree days. Look at zees cuffs! Beheld zis bosom! Sapristi! what am I to do?"

"Turn them," said the Marquis coldly as he picked up the Temps and resumed his reading.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

COLONEL STRONG'S DOLLAR.

One of Colonel Strong's possessions of which he was extravagantly proud was an "1804 dollar." He wore it in his pocket for many years and valued it at $5,000. Its market price is considerably less, though it is said there are only three such dollars in existence. A few years ago I could trace seven. One is in the mint cabinet at Philadelphia, the second belonged to M. A. Stickney, the third to W. S. Appleton, the fourth to L. G. Parmelee, the fifth to W. B. Wetmore, the sixth to Colonel W. L. Strong, and the seventh to a Mr. Scott of Philadelphia. Colonel Strong's was formerly in the cabinet of Robert C. Davies, I am informed, and was sold for $1,200. Our grand old Mayor used to ring it upon the table at Richter's café, where he went daily to eat his portion of crackers and milk when the gout did not have a grip on him.

One of the mysteries is the disappearance of the dollar of 1804 and their fictitious value today. There were issued from the mint no less than 19,570 of them. Some say that almost the entire mintage was lost at sea by the sinking of a vessel that was conveying it to China. Others maintain that the mintage of 1805 included this mintage, or a part of it; the records show that only 321 silver dollars were coined in 1805. At any rate, the "1804 dollar" is commonly known among numismatists as the king of rare American coins. Another mystery is that this coin has not been counterfeited, as were valuable ancient coins from the fifteenth century down.—New York Press.

Clever Yankee Ruse.

We should not be surprised if quite a fresh stimulus were given to emigration to the United States when the contents of a recent interesting telegram are made more widely known. This laconic message says that according to recent statistics the total population of the United States is 76,000,000, and of these only 2 per cent possess a piano. It is only those who have suffered and are suffering from the piano plague that stalks incessantly about our towns and suburbs who can appreciate the importance of such a message, and the very thought of a country where only one family in fifty has daughters addicted to the daily practice of scales, chromatic and otherwise, is a temptation to the victims of the ever-present piano to remove themselves and their households gods to the other side of the Atlantic. Truly, a cleverer move for attracting a colony of peace loving, desirable immigrants than this diplomatic telegram could not have been made. It does the greatest credit to Yankee cuteness.—Westminster Budget.

WAS MERELY REHEARSING.

A Detroit politician, who was in line for the Legislature, told his wife on a recent Sunday that he was going to the barn, which he said looked like a junk shop, to clean out the rubbish. In describing what followed his wife says: "He used to run a cigar store, you know, and when he quit business he brought the wooden Indian up to the barn. He had that Indian in a corner and was making a speech to it. Yes, sir, he was pounding the air, yelling at the top of his voice, and shaking his fist under the nose of the dummy.

"I was frightened. An acquaintance came along and I motioned him in. We slipped out to the barn, peeked through the cracks, and listened. I thought the acquaintance would suffocate with laughter. Finally he motioned me away, and in the house he talked to me.

"'Know what Jerry is doing?' he asked.

"'No. You don't think the poor boy has gone crazy?'

"'Not a bit of it. He's rehearsing a speech of acceptance to the convention. My, but he was in earnest. I thought he was going to hit that Indian. Let him go it. No harm done.'

"When Jerry came in I told him who had been there. He fumed violently for ten minutes and then informed me that the man running against him was our acquaintance. That's why Jerry told the committee that business would not permit him to make the race."—Detroit Free Press.

CAREFUL WITNESS.

A horse from a livery stable died soon after being returned, and the person who hired it was sued for damages. The question turned largely upon the reputation of the defendant as a hard rider.

"Astraddle, sir."

"No, no," said the lawyer. "I mean does he usually walk or trot or gallop?"

"Well," said the witness, apparently searching in the depths of his memory for facts, "when he rides a walkin' horse, he walks; when he rides a trottin' horse, he trots; and when he rides a gallopin' horse, he gallops; when——"

The lawyer was now angry. "I want to know at what pace the defendant usually goes—fast or slow?"

"Well," said the witness, "when his company rides fast he rides fast, and when his company rides slow he rides slow."

"Now, I want to know, sir," the lawyer said, much exasperated, and by now very stern, "how the defendant rides when he is alone."

"Well," said the witness, slowly, and more meditatively than ever, "when he was alone I weren't there, so I don't know."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Croker Going Abroad.

A disgruntled member of the Democratic club let slip this hint the other day: "If the election goes hard against Tammany Hall it is certain that Mr. Croker will leave the United States and take up his permanent residence in England and Ireland. He already owns valuable property over there, and his interests in America have been greatly lightened in the last two or three months. As a matter of fact, the old man is making the fight of his life. It is a case of win or lose everything with him. Once his power is broken he will disappear like a shot. Tammany Hall is packed with hyenas ready to gnaw at his vitals the moment they think it safe to throw off the cloak of friendship."—New York Press.

ACTION AGAINST FILIPINO JUNTA.

Great Britain Will Be Asked to Drive Insurgent Leaders from Hongkong.

ROOT TAKES FIRST STEP.

Requests State Department to Present Matter to British Government.

AGUINALDO OFFERS BRIBES.

WASHINGTON BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE,
Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.

To Check Filipino Junta in Hongkong.

With a view to checking the operations of the Filipino insurrectionary junta at Hongkong Great Britain will be asked by the United States to drive the members from British territory. This request will undoubtedly be complied with, and those who are directing the conduct of the rebel campaign will have to look for another location. The first steps toward accomplishing this have been taken by Secretary Root, who, in a communication to the Secretary of State, has asked that the attention of the British government be called to the unlawful acts of the junta at Hongkong. Mr. Root in his letter says that correspondence captured by the American forces in the Philippines shows that Hongkong is the principal base of operations of the Filipino insurgents and that the junta at that place is directing the military campaign in the Philippines.

He maintains also that the members of the junta do not confine themselves to the usages permitted by a neutral government to representatives of a belligerent in the territory of the neutral government, and therefore expresses the desire that the State department take the necessary steps through the British government, Hongkong being a British port, to break up this revolutionary body. He expresses the hope that the State department will see nothing to interfere with carrying out this line of action.

The State department will comply with the request of the Secretary of War, and in view of the precedent established by Great Britain in the Spanish-American war, it is probable that the junta will be broken up. At the beginning of the Spanish-American war Lieutenant Carranza of the Spanish Legation here went to Canada, where he established a system of espionage against the United States. This government complained to Great Britain that the actions of Carranza and his associates were contrary to international law and that their presence in Canada was a violation of the principles of neutrality. The British government acknowledged the complaint was just, and compelled Carranza and other Spanish officials to leave Canada.

Aguinaldo Offers Bribes to Americans.

Aguinaldo has resorted to peculiar means of securing arms for his followers. It is by offering to pay the American soldiers, or the imperialistic soldiers, as he terms them, for the delivery of their arms to the Filipinos. The rebel leader has also ordered all American prisoners released, and directed that they be furnished with necessary funds to enable them to reach the American lines. The Americans who surrendered their arms to the rebels are offered protection of the Filipinos as well as pay for their rifles. The War department has just received Aguinaldo's proclamation, which deals with these subjects. It is as follows:

"We have now entered the last part of the first year of the new century, while the last year of the last century just completed saw us break the chains of slavery and proclaim the indepenuence of our country and promulgated the united republic of the Philippines with a proper government and laws. The beginning of the new century, while unfortunate and sad in many ways, has by our common sorrow bound us together so that we will enjoy the more the prosperous future. By virtue of the authority vested in me I hereby order and direct:

"Order 1. All prisoners of war now held by either regular or guerrilla troops are ordered liberated. Their arms and equipments are to be taken from them, and they are to be given facilities to return to their lines and with sufficient money to meet expenses on the way.

"Order 2. The imperialistic soldier who surrenders or who is taken prisoner while fighting will receive for each rifle the sum of $30, to be paid by the Filipino military authorities. They will be treated with due consideration, given their liberty at once, and the assistance indicated in order 1. Those who wish to avail themselves of another opportunity will have the benefit of the following:

"Order 3. The imperialistic soldier who will present himself, his gun, and ammunition to the guerrillas will receive from the commanding officer $20, advising them that they will not be forced to enlist in our files, and if they desire to remain in the territory they can live separately, sustained by the people and under the protection of the guerrillas.

"Order 4. The commanding officers of the guerrilla forces in their district, in order that these directions may be complied with in an exact manner will open a book in which the name of the soldier and number and class of arms delivered is written and the sum of money paid him for the same, which he will sign to show that he received the amount entered.

"All these orders will be in force forthwith.
EMILIO AGUINALDO."

Election bets are being paid here tonight, furnishing much fun for pedestrians. One which attracted more attention than others was when two handsome and well-dressed young women and a man were wheeled in a push cart through the principal streets. A small negro was pushing the cart, and the weight of the three occupants threatened every moment to carry the boy off his feet and upset the load. The cart zigzagged from one side of the street to the other, and was followed by a large crowd, who had lots of fun with the victims in the cart. The young women did not seem to be embarrassed by the crowd, and entered into the spirit of the fun. They waved their handkerchiefs, and along the route yelled like Commanche Indians. In payment of an election bet a Bryanite rolled a peanut from one street corner to another, using a toothpick to shove it along.

Honduras Agrees to Pay Indemnity.

After much delay Honduras has agreed to comply immediately with the demands of this government for the payment of $10,000 indemnity for the murder of Frank Pears of Pittsburg, Pa. Minister Hunter today advised the State department of the decision of the Honduran government. Pears was killed by a soldier of the Honduras army. It was shown that the soldier, on duty in a street in a town where there was no danger of trouble, called on Pears to halt. Pears did not understand and continued to advance. The soldier then fired, killing the American. Relatives of Pears filed a claim against Honduras, which was pressed by this government. Later the Honduran authorities and the relatives of Pears made an arrangement for a settlement which they asked the State department to accept. This arrangement provided for granting certain concessions to members of the Pears family. The State department refused to be a party to such a compact, and then made a straightaway demand for the payment of $10,000. Honduras attempted to compromise, but the United States insisted that the money must be paid.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

BURLINGTON MEETING HELD AND DIRECTORS RE-ELECTED.

Rumors of a Rule Excluding Newsboys from All Trains of the Pennsylvania System—Many New Cars Ordered for Western Roads—Earnings of the Santa Fe's San Joaquin Valley Line Not Large Enough to Cover Total Outlay.

Stockholders of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad company held their annual meeting in the Burlington Building here yesterday. There were 761,840 shares voted for the reëlection of the following directors Charles J. Paine, William Endicott, Francis W. Hunnewell, Richard Olney, Edward W. Hooper, J. Malcolm Forbes, George P. Gardner, and Nathaniel Thayer of Boston; Charles E. Perkins, Burlington, Ia.; T. Jefferson Coolidge, Manchester, Mass.; and James H. Smith, New York City. The purchase of the leased lines in Missouri and Iowa was ratified. No change in the management of these roads is contemplated. The annual report for the fiscal year ended on June 30, which was submitted, already has been published.

Newsboys Fear Exclusion.

It is stated on reliable authority that the officials of the Pennsylvania company are contemplating the exclusion of newsboys from all the trains west of Pittsburg. The news has greatly alarmed the boys, who may be seen hanging about the railroad stations eagerly discussing the question. On many of the large roads throughout the United States the newsboys have been excluded, and the action of the Pennsylvania railroad some months ago in issuing an order prohibiting the sale of papers or fruit on its main line trains is accepted as the initial step toward a general exclusion of newsboys.

Many New Cars Ordered.

Western roads have placed the following orders for new cars with the American Car and Foundry company during the last two days: Missouri Pacific, 1,000 coal cars; Lake Shore, 500 coal cars; Pere Marquette, 500 box cars; St. Louis and San Francisco, 200 coal cars, 150 box cars, and 25 fifty-foot furniture cars; sundry small roads, 300 cars. In addition some of the leading railroad companies are negotiating for equipment to cost several millions of dollars.

Reports of Earnings.

	1900.	1899.	Decrease.
Gross	$8,910,124	$9,357,519	$447,395
Oper. expenses	5,916,772	6,207,416	290,644
Net	2,993,352	3,150,103	156,751
Other income	42,400	26,988	*15,412
Total	3,035,752	3,177,191	141,339
Fixed charges	2,213,257	2,181,587	*31,670
Surplus	822,495	995,504	173,009

*Increase.

The San Francisco and San Joaquin Valley railroad (owned by the Santa Fé) has just filed its report with the Railroad Commissioners, and the result for the fiscal year ended June 30 is somewhat disappointing. The gross earnings are $615,348; the operating expenses left only $128,149 of this gross income, and the surplus was more than eaten up by the fixed charges. The deficit for the year amounts to $210,795.

The "California Limited," via the Santa Fé route, will be resumed for the season with the West-bound train leaving Chicago at 10 a. m. today.

BIG RECEIVERSHIP CLOSED.

Judge Sanborn Discharges Receivers and Ends Work of Settling Union Pacific Tangle.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—Walter H. Sanborn, United States Circuit Judge, made an order today approving the final report of the successory receivers of the Union Pacific railway and finally discharging them.

When the receivership was commenced on Oct. 13, 1893, the Union Pacific system included 8,165 miles of road, representing a capitalization of stocks and bonds of $470,000,000. After Judge Sanborn assumed control in 1894 the receivers handled $106,000,000.

The claim of the United States on the Union Pacific proper of $58,000,000 was paid in full and unsecured creditors were paid about 40 per cent of their claims, an amount largely in excess of their expectations.

DRIFTING.

If you are allowing catarrh to eat its way through your body, you are like the man in the boat—drifting upon a long river which ends with destruction.

Catarrh is a systemic disease. Contrary to general opinion, it does not confine itself to the head and throat. It attacks the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the lungs,—any organ of the body. The only way to cure it is to cleanse the whole system by a thorough use of the well-known catarrh cure.

There are hundreds of people dosing themselves for this, that and the other, whose sole trouble is a catarrhal condition of one or more organs of their body. If these people will take Pe-ru-na it will make them well. It will keep the grip away, it will prevent colds, and all of the so-called winter diseases, which merely mean that the mucous membrane of the entire body needs toning up and cleaning.

Pe-ru-na is the medicine to do it. There are no substitutes. Pe-ru-na is the only systemic catarrh remedy yet advised.

"Lectures on Chronic Catarrh" is a complete treatise on catarrhal diseases. It treats of every phase and variety of summer catarrh, winter catarrh, and the catarrhal affections peculiar to women. This book contains ninety-five pages, is instructively illustrated, and will be found very useful in the family. Sent free to any address by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

LYON & HEALY—
NEW PIANOS, LOWEST PRICES.
This week you will find in full progress at Lyon & Healy's a grand fall exhibition of Steinways, Knabes, Krakauers, Fischers, Sterlings, and five other makes. If you are at all in the market for an instrument you cannot afford to neglect an early visit of inspection.
Prices by far the lowest in Chicago.
At Lyon & Healy's you find a different class of pianos from those shown elsewhere. The new styles, even in the inexpensive grades, are very much more beautiful than any uprights hitherto placed on the market. Examine the bargains they offer in the new pianos at $125, $135, and $145. Also the new pianos of styles omitted from latest catalogues that are being peremptorily closed out.
Then in used pianos you will find at Lyon & Healy's values not approached elsewhere. Note these few:
Large Chickering upright, $195; Hallet & Davis upright, $175; Dobson upright, $125; Hazelton upright, $150; New England upright, $150; Smith upright, $150; Steinway upright, $225; Leland mahogany upright, $150; Harvard upright, $150; Marshall & Wendell upright, $75; Franklin upright, $190; Bauer square, $40; Chase upright, $150; Steinway grand, discontinued pattern, thoroughly renovated, $300; large mahogany Knabe upright, $300; two used Knabe grands at a sacrifice; Mathusek upright, $125; fine Steinway square, $150; Sterling mahogany upright, $200; Emerson upright, $150; Fischer upright, $165; Mendelssohn mahogany upright, $150; Decker Bros. upright, $175; Steinway square, $90; 3 used Steinway grands, in perfect order, very low; Everett upright, extra fancy, $250; Huntington oak upright, $175; Kranich & Bach upright, $150; Fischer upright, $150; Kellar mahogany upright, $190; Steinway upright, $275; Pease upright, $125; Lyon & Healy upright, $100; Washburn upright, $150; and many others.
Easiest installment terms will be granted. Handsome scarf and modern stool included. Buyers at a distance should write for special bargain list and also our schedule of freight rates on pianos. We ship pianos everywhere.
Inexpensive pianos bought from us may be exchanged later toward the purchase of a Steinway or Knabe. Steinways and Knabes sold only by us. Pianos to rent, $3 per month and upward.
LYON & HEALY, Wabash and Adams.

ORNATE PIANOS
IN FANCY WOODS.
EMERSON PIANO CO.
50 PER CENT
from former prices. We can furnish these art pianos in elaborate carved cases or in the more severe styles, such as Colonial or Empire, at prices charged by other houses for medium grade instruments. San Domingo mahogany, burl walnut, English oak, Hungarian ash, birch, maple, and others, with no extra charge for the more expensive woods. We also have a few choice bargains in pianos returned from artists on loan account. The entire rental stock that is being gradually returned is also being sacrificed.
SAVE $100.
At the lowest estimate the above amount can be saved. If you cannot afford to buy an EMERSON now why not take one of the cheaper ones for a couple of years and then turn it in at PURCHASE PRICE for a better one?
Outside of the cheaper grades we have the most complete line of second-hand uprights to be found. Crowds visit our warerooms daily to take advantage of these bargains. We put these pianos in A1 condition before delivery—for cash or easy payments.

DEWEY MOVES HIS GIFTS.

FAMOUS COLLECTION TAKEN FROM THE NATIONAL MUSEUM.

Originally Placed on Public Exhibition as Compliment to Donors, the Valuable Tributes to the Admiral Now Are Tastefully Arranged in the House in Rhode Island Avenue Presented Him by the American People —Dwelling Has Homelike Air.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Admiral Dewey has removed his famous collection of gifts, which occupied the most prominent place in the Hall of American History in the National Museum, to his home in Rhode Island avenue. The collection has assumed large proportions, representing hundreds of thousands of dollars in money value, and is almost daily added to by some admirer of the Admiral. It was placed in the museum for the double purpose of sharing its beauty with the public and as a compliment to the donors, many of whom were children or represented the hospitality of the great cities.

After extending the privilege of seeing the collection to the public, through the officials of the National Museum, for more than seven months, both the Admiral and Mrs. Dewey wished to see the collection placed in their winter home, which was also the gift of the American people. While its removal will be a matter of disappointment to those who may go to the museum to see the collection, its removal to their own home is a compliment to the American people in general.

Resplendent with Gifts.

When seen today the house was resplendent with the costly gifts, Mrs. Dewey having personally arranged them, each token being given an honored place in the house. The loving cups and other large gifts were placed on the first floor, with an adroit care for the best effect, while the medals, badges, watches, and other smaller tokens were arranged in handsome cabinets on the second floor, where they would come more directly under the special supervision of the family. In the family sitting-room on the second floor is also the Admiral's collection of flags, pennants, pictures of great naval battles, swords, and other things dear to a sailor's heart.

Probably the relic that Mrs. Dewey values most is the Commodore's pennant that flew from the masthead of the Olympia on that eventful morning in Manila Bay. A flag of which Admiral Dewey is especially fond is the Farragut flag that draped the Farragut monument at its unveiling, and which he carried in the naval parade in New York. A beautiful Japanese sword has just been added to the already valuable collection of swords, and although the hilt and the scabbard are plain to a degree the Admiral was enthusiastic over the wonderful workmanship of the matchless blade.

Presents Homelike Air.

The house has been redecorated, some of the furniture done over in French upholstery effects, and the entire house presents a tasteful homelike air, and with the added beauty of the collection of gifts is an interesting home.

Asked if the removal of the gifts from the National Museum debarred the public from further seeing them, Mrs. Dewey said she had not the slightest objection to having a special time at which the public might come freely and enjoy the collection, but Admiral Dewey maintains that the house was given to him to enjoy to the fullest extent as a home, and to make it a public show place would be to rob it of all privacy. As it is, the American people have bestowed a simple home on a home-loving man, and it is appreciated both by himself and wife.

PESTS HURTING SUGAR BEETS.

Professor Forbes of the University of Illinois Explains Dangers and Suggests the Remedies.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Professor S. A. Forbes, State Entomologist and professor of entomology at the University of Illinois, will shortly issue an extensive bulletin on "The Economic Entomology of the Sugar Beet." In it more than 150 different insects which prey upon beets are classified, and the best means of their extermination are given.

The bulletin is the result of two years' work, in which Mr. Forbes was assisted by Charles A. Hart.

Regarding the commonest insect enemies of beets and the most successful ways of destroying them, the bulletin will say:

"The beet plant is similar as food to insects to some of our commonest weeds, and hence it has attracted the prompt attention of several species, which, if we have noticed them at all, we have hitherto regarded as our friends; and it has also served to give additional variety to the diet of several crop insects of somewhat general feeding habits. It has already recruited a large entomological following—about 150 species in America, if all insects are named which feed upon the beet in the field. Most of these can hardly be called injurious in the economic sense, but with our present knowledge of the subject about forty species can be so classed. Furthermore, there may be additions from time to time, as the large area of beets cultivated near factories give opportunities for extraordinary multiplication and a continuous maintenance of its insect enemies.

Grain Suffers More than Beets.

"It must not be inferred, however, that the beet plant is especially liable to insect injury. On the contrary, taking the country at large, it is at present less subject to such damage than corn or wheat, cabbage or potatoes.

"The critical period of insect injury to the beet is in the beginning of the season, while the plants are still small and slow of growth.

"The principal injurious groups are the leaf miners, the webworms, the cutworms, the woolly bears, and several other leaf-eating caterpillars, the wireworms, the white grubs, the flea beetles, the blister beetles, the plant bugs, the leaf hoppers, the plant lice, and the grasshoppers.

"The webworms, the cutworms, the flea beetles, the blister beetles, the leaf miners, and the root lice have done great damage in the States beyond the Mississippi, but in Illinois the only considerable injury done in 1898-1899 was done by the pale-striped flea beetles, the grasshoppers, and the blister beetles.

"Insect injuries to the underground part of the beet usually take the form either of a cutting of the top root, an eating away of the smaller roots, or a burrowing or excavation of the mass of the beet itself. They are commonly due either to wireworms, to white grubs, or to the beetles known as muckworms. More rarely root lice seriously damage the plant in summer by sucking the sap away from the roots. It also is probable that larvæ of some of the flea beetles will be found to infest the plant underground.

Leaf Most Often Attacked.

"Injuries to the leaf may be done either by bugs with a sucking beak or beetles, grasshoppers, or insect larvæ, with biting mouths. The former abstract the sap from the stem or the blade of the leaf, often making discolored spots, dwarfing growth, and causing the leaf to curl, or even killing it completely.

"The more important measures of prevention of insect injuries to the beet are clean culture and a suitable system of rotation. So many of the insect enemies of this plant depend largely upon certain common fleshy weeds that the growth of these near a beet plantation is a menace to the crop.

"There is no direct remedy available for injuries to the underground part of the beet, but injuries to the leaves may commonly be arrested by one or the other of the ordinary insecticide sprays."

INSURANCE AFFAIRS.

Questions arising over the appointments of receivers for three life insurance concerns, which are being fought out in the courts, are attracting considerable attention in insurance circles and among the legal fraternity. Perry Hull, attorney for the Illinois State Insurance department, in the application for the removal of Stewart Goodrell, receiver of the Northwestern Life Assurance company of Chicago, up before Judge Chetlain yesterday, contended that, according to the law, the department alone had the right to file a bill for the winding up of the affairs of a company. He admitted, however, that persons having claims against any insurance institution had full rights to also file bills, but for the amount due them only. John H. Hamline and others are arrayed on the side of the defunct insurance companies. The case was continued until today, as well as that of the Guaranty Fund, which involves the same points.

"It is plainly evident to me," said Attorney Hull last evening, "that the province of the Insurance department requires it to take charge of the winding up of the affairs of these defunct institutions at the designated expense of not to succeed 5 per cent of the assets. The Insurance department can be greatly assisted by the courts allowing the department to name the receivers. This is a point that we are contending for, as we have to be responsible in a measure for whoever is named."

Attorney Vogel in the Home Forum case filed an intervening petition protesting in Judge Hanecy's court against the apointment of Receiver Scott and asking for an investigation into the society's amalgamation with the Safety Fund of New York.

No meeting of the Chicago Underwriters' association was held yesterday afternoon, as a quorum was lacking. An adjournment was taken sine die.

The assessment to be levied by the Manufacturers and Merchants' Mutual Insurance company of Rockford, Ill., is expected to amount to from four to five times the annual premium. Unless the assessments are paid promptly a receiver to wind up the affairs of the company may be expected. Secretary Carse is authority for the statement that the company is not prepared to pay return premiums on cash policies. In the cash policies there is a clause holding them non-assessable, in lieu of the policy-holder surrendering the right to participate in dividends, but there is a question that such provision is not legal or authorized by the charter of the company. The law provides that cash policies of mutuals may be assessed three times the annual premium, while mutual policy-holders are liable for five times the premium. Another peculiar phase of the situation is the attempt to collect assessments from stock companies having reinsurance contracts.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Fire insurance company representatives met today to consider the Tarrant explosion and the numerous claims arising therefrom. Edward Cardoza, to whom had been submitted the question of the insurance companies' liability, especially for consequential damage, held that the responsibility for claims must be borne by the underwriters only to a certain point and under certain conditions, beyond which they could not be held. Where damage was caused solely by explosion (and this applies to plate glass losses) the fire insurance companies are not considered liable. The committee of insurance companies will continue until the result of the city authorities' examination into the causes of the disaster is made known, when a further general meeting will be called. Meantime pressing loss claims, where the element of consequential damage does not enter, will be settled by companies.

LAKE SHIPPING NEWS.

Freights and Charters.

CHICAGO—Practically no grain for Buffalo was on the market and rates were uncertain. A few loads for Georgian Bay were seeking ships, but vessel-owners were not disposed to go there at the offers made by shippers. The Victory, Constitution, and T. W. Palmer are loading. Charters reported were: To Buffalo—Wyoming, flaxseed. To Georgian Bay—William Chisholm, corn. The chief talk is now about laying up the boats. All the W. E. Fitzgerald fleet will stop at Milwaukee at the end of the present trips. Probably a third of the tonnage will stop the next ten days.

CLEVELAND, O.—Coal boats are scarce and shippers are paying higher rates to way ports. Charters were made to Racine today at 40 cents, which is an advance of 10 cents. Shippers to leading ports are in fair shape and are not pressed for tonnage. No change in ore rates.

A Chemist Speaks of Predigested Food.

"After having tested and tried every form of predigested food on the market, and experimenting in my own family, my attention was attracted to an article headed 'Brawny Scots' Diet,' mentioning eggs and Grape-Nuts. I carefully tested the new food and finally began its use in my family, with most gratifying results.

"My little boy at that time was a pale, anæmic child and very poorly nourished. Now, thanks to Grape-Nuts, he is as fine a specimen of infantile strength as I could wish for. My own personal experience means much to me. For some years I was troubled with dyspepsia; that is, I could not eat bread or any prepraation of bolted wheat flour, such as cake or any of the starchy preparations, without a fit of indigestion, sour stomach, costiveness, and headache.

"As soon as I quit that sort of food and used Grape-Nuts, which has the starchy part predigested, I began to recover. The change has been remarkable. I formerly weighed 122 pounds and now weigh 137. Am strong, have more nerve force than I ever possessed, appetite perfect, sleep sound and can endure any amount of work. I know exactly where the change has come from, and it is from your truly scientific and wonderful food, which is worthy of the highest commendation." Chas. B. Prior, C. of P.
